KISSINGER AND GINGRICH IN COURTSHIP RITUAL

Here's a tidbit from the October 30 issue of THE NEW FEDERALIST, [quoting:]

According to the Reliable Source gossip column in the October 23 Washington Post, Henry Kissinger has been cosyng up to Newt Gingrich, "using a technique that one foreign policy wiz describes as the 'three stages of courtship: lunch with Kissinger, dinner with Kissinger in New York, and then a weekend at his country place in Connecticut.'" Gingrich, obviously a fast mover, skipped lunch, and went directly to Steps 2 and 3, according to Tony Blankey, Gingrich's press secretary. Gingrich's visit to Kissinger's spread in Litchfield County, Conn. took place early in October.

Newt Gingrich And Henry Kissinger

U.S. SOLDIERS CARRY U.N. FLAG IN MACEDONIA

This is where medic Michael New was headed prior to taking a stand against wearing the uniform of the United Nations. From the October 30 issue of ARMY TIMES, [quoting:]

About 450 U.S. soldiers from the 1st Armored Division's 3rd Battalion, 12th Infantry, [note U.N. flag and caps] are serving six-month tours away from home station in Germany as part of Task Force Able Sentry, the U.S. contribution to an 1,100-member United Nations Preventive Deployment Force in Macedonia. Their job is to detect, monitor and report activities along Macedonia's northern border with Serbia. Out of concern that fighting in Bosnia and Croatia might trickle southward, this is the first time the United Nations has authorized such a peacekeeping effort before the outbreak of war. [Such dangerous precedents creep in, one by one, soon becoming the rule, rather than the exception—like U.S. troops engaged in U.N. actions, U.S. troops in U.N. uniforms, U.N. troops on U.S. soil, peacekeeping troops in the absence of conflict, etc.]

U.N. COMPLICITY IN SERB ATROCITIES?

From the October 29 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

TUZLA, Bosnia-Herzegovina—The Dutch peacekeepers were supposed to protect the Muslims at Srebrenica. But the last time Hasan Nuhanovic says he saw his mother, father and younger brother, they were being turned over to Serb gunmen by the U.N. soldiers. He still does not know whether they are alive. Three months after the fall of the Srebrenica “safe area” in eastern Bosnia, questions linger about what the United Nations did, or did not do, to protect thousands of Muslims such as the Nuhanovic family. Of the enclave’s 40,000 inhabitants, about 8,000 remain missing.

The United States has accused Bosnian Serbs of massacring up to 2,700 of them. Most of the survivors fled to Tuzla, the nearest Bosnian government stronghold, where they first recounted the firing-line executions, mass graves, rapes and other atrocities that U.N. and U.S. officials now think occurred.

At issue is whether the United Nations’ actions helped advance the Bosnian Serbs’ “ethnic cleansing” campaign to expel non-Serbs by force from areas the Serbs control. Facing charges that about 300 Dutch peacekeepers failed to defend the enclave and then passively delivered Muslims up to slaughter, the Dutch military ordered an internal investigation. The Dutch battalion “did little or nothing to prevent the commission of war crimes,” the international monitoring group Human Rights Watch said in a report Oct. 10. The group accused Dutch Defense Ministry officials of suppressing a list of 239 men who were sheltered by the Dutch but later handed over to the Serbs. It also charged the Dutch destroyed videotape evidence of atrocities.

“The decision of the Dutch commander was between two bad decisions,” said Jochem Van De Laarschot, a Defense Ministry spokesman. Dutch officials thought resisting a Serb assault in early July would have led to a “useless bloodbath,” he added. In Srebrenica, the Serbs successfully called the peacekeepers’ bluff on how far they would go to fulfill their mandate as the U.S. Protection Force. [These are the types of challenges your sons and daughters may be facing in the near future. There is surely more to this story than meets the eye. Were the Dutch soldiers even armed sufficiently to mount a resistance? Were they under mind control? Were the atrocities unofficially sanctioned by the U.N.?]

INTERNATIONAL TEAM TO HELP IN INVESTIGATION OF FBI LAB

From the November 9 issue of the DAILY NEWS, [quoting:]

WASHINGTON—An international team, including two Canadians and a Briton, will help investigate an FBI chemist’s allegations of bias at the FBI crime lab. [Doesn’t that strike you as ODD? I guess it makes sense when you realize that the FBI is under the Department of Justice, whose chief, Attorney General Janet Reno is an employee of the International Monetary Fund, not the U.S. Government.] The Justice Department’s inspector general, Michael Bromwich, named the team of five forensic scientists Wednesday. The investigation grew out of FBI Special Agent Frederic Whitehurst’s allegations this fall that the crime lab was biased in favor of prosecutors and even manufactured evidence. [OUR government?? Hard to believe, huh!]

His contentions called into questions several high-profile government cases, including the bombings of the Oklahoma City federal building and the World Trade Center and a Georgia mail bomb scheme against federal judges. HE also questioned the work of an FBI expert involved in the O.J. Simpson murder trial.

The bureau’s own continuing investigation into Whitehurst’s claims has found no evidence of problems in more than 250 cases reviewed, Director Louis Freeh said in a statement. [Have you EVER known of an Internal Affairs investigation that actually uncovered wrongdoing?? Meanwhile, Whitehurst was demoted from top explosives-residue analyst to a trainee in paint-chip analysis! If that doesn't discourage his penchant for whistle-blowing, I'm sure other "alternatives" have already been considered!]

PROPOSAL WOULD ALLOW ANYONE TO PRACTICE LAW

From a recent issue of THE BILLINGS GAZETTE, [quoting:]

HELENA—A Missoula group has submitted a proposed constitutional initiative that would let anyone practice law, regardless of whether the person had graduated from law school or been admitted to the state bar. Submitting the proposed “access to justice” initiative were Robert G. Steele and Paul Befumo of Missoula, both of whom have law degrees but are not admitted to the bar to practice law. They are the vice president and president, respectively, of a group known as Montanans for Due Process.

Steele has been a tax protester who was forbidden from taking the Montana bar exam, despite graduating from the University of Montana law school in 1991. HE appealed, but the state Supreme Court in 1993 barred him from taking the exam and thus practicing law, if he passed. The court cited his disputes with the Internal Revenue Service, his failure to file tax returns and his involvement with a tax protest group known as the Golden Mean Society.

Steele and Befumo seek to place the measure on the November 1996 ballot. To do so, they must obtain the signatures of at least 40,783 registered voters and 10 percent of the registered voters in 40 of the 100 House districts. The proposal, submitted to the Legislative Council for review Wednesday, would amend the Constitution to allow any people who can “reasonably demonstrate their ability to understand and follow the rules of the court” to practice law, instead of limiting it to lawyers licensed to practice.

It adds: “Counsel may be paid or not paid and need not be licensed or admitted to any bar, union, club, party or association.” At present, law school graduates must be admitted to the bar by the Montana Supreme Court to practice law after passing a bar examination. Steele said the group seeks the amendment to make sure more people have access to the legal system, especially those who can't afford the cost of the lawyer.

PUBLIC EYE FOCUSES ON JURIES “REVISION” IN THE WIND

The O.J. Simpson trial created a strong public awareness of the jury system and, some would say, a strong public disillusionment. While it is true that most Americans are uninformed about the intricacies of being jurors, many Americans are crying out for jury reform.

In a recent example of such jury revisionist thinking appearing in the October 5 edition of the CHICAGO TRIBUNE, titled “Revamp Of Jury System Takes Hold”, we read [quoting]:

Responding to a growing public disenchantment with juries after a raft of unpopular verdicts, state legislatures and court systems across the U.S. are starting to rewrite the rules of the jury system.

Some states already have changed the way juries operate. Starting next month, Arizona will permit jurors to take notes, question witnesses through the judge and, in some cases, discuss evidence while a trial is in progress. Delaware is considering a similar list of proposals.

Most states have recently cut back exemptions from jury service. New York is eliminating nearly all exemptions for professionals, starting Jan. 1. New Jersey did the same last spring.

Several states are considering legislation limiting peremptory challenges, by which lawyers dismiss potentially unfriendly jurors.

This week, victims rights and law enforcement groups in California expect to circulate petitions for a ballot measure that would allow nonunanimous verdicts in most criminal cases.

The California Judicial Council, which sets rules for the state courts, has announced plans to examine a range of proposals, including limits on sequestration and on lawyers' statements to jurors in closing arguments.

"We've got half the people in this state thinking the jury process doesn't work," said state Sen. Charles Calderon, a member of the California council. "You have to deal with the public perception."

Legal experts say this public perception was forged by a few cases that are anomalous but loom large.

"It's the big-time cases that drive public opinion, and the big-time cases have not been pretty," said Jeffrey Abramson, a professor of politics and legal studies at Brandeis University and author of We, the Jury (Basic Books, 1994).

These trials—John Hinckley and Oliver North, Lorena Bobbitt and the Menendez brothers, Lemrick Nelson and, above all, O.J. Simpson and the Los Angeles police officers accused of beating Rodney King—have fed suspicions that juries are not reflecting the community conscience that they are supposed to embody and, at their worst, are chosen for their susceptibility to lawyers' racial or political appeals.

Abramson said the first Rodney King verdict, in which a predominantly white jury in 1992 acquitted the four white police officers, was a turning point in public confidence.

And the Simpson case, he said, to judge from his students' reactions, convinced people that "verdicts are like straws in the wind, blowing with the demographics."

George Fletcher, a Columbia University law professor who wrote about "the new political trial" in his recent book, With Justice for Some (Addison-Wesley), said the Simpson case brought cynicism to new heights.

"It was very disturbing that so many lawyers were saying before the verdict, 'He's guilty but he'll get off.'" Fletcher said, "Isn't that saying something's wrong with the system?"

he public's response to several recent verdicts raises questions about whether Americans really do want the people to dispense justice—and if so, which 12 people.

It is an odd twist, Abramson said, that these questions have arisen as the nation has embraced the ideal of the jury as a cross-section of the community. [End quoting.]

GRAND JURY SYSTEM ON TRIAL

In another recent article appearing in the Nov. 3 edition of THE BAKERSFIELD CALIFORNIAN, written by Bob Egelko, and titled “Court OKs Grand Jury Suit—Ruling Says An 1897 State Law Lets Some Sue Grand Jurors For Libel”. [Quoting:]

SAN FRANCISCO—A new court ruling allowing libel suits against county grand jurors under certain circumstances will make them more timid in investigating local government, a lawyer for grand jurors said Thursday.

That's fine, replied an opposing lawyer, because so-called watchdog grand juries should be abolished.

“The future of the grand jury is on trial” in this case, said Terry Brooks, lawyer for a former Yuba County official—his own twin brother—whose suit against grand jurors led to the ruling.

“I think the best thing that could happen is elimination of the grand jury system. They're a lot of rich white people with time on their hands who decide they're going to make government policy.”

Not so, said James Mirabell, a lawyer for the 19 members of the 1993-94 Yuba County grand jury who were sued in the case.

“They're supposed to take a big stick and stir things up so that people will look at the operation” of local agencies, he said. With the threat of libel suits, Mirabell said, “what you get is very timid grand juries.”

He said the ruling probably would be appealed to the state Supreme Court.

The 3rd District Court of Appeal in Sacramento on Wednesday reinstated a lawsuit by Larry F. Brooks, former county planning and building services director, and his former deputy, Frank D. Ellis II, against the grand jurors who issued two scathing reports in May 1994.

Among other things, Mirabell said, the reports found that Brooks' department ignored building code violations, failed to keep track of expired building permits, failed to make on-site inspections before improving plans, and had no organized system of processing public complaints; that Brooks failed to follow county policies, and that Ellis lacked management skills.

Brooks was fired in the aftermath of the reports and has sued the county, claiming it was retaliating against him for suing the grand jurors. Ellis resigned.

Their libel suit was dismissed by Superior Court Judge Raymond Roberts. He acknowledged that the suit was authorized by a state law but said it would violate the grand jurors' right to defend themselves, because they would be forbidden to reveal the evidence they considered.

But the appeals court said there was nothing unfair about an 1897 state law that allows suits against grand jurors who make defamatory statements in their reports but do not issue criminal indictments. Jurors who issue indictments cannot be sued. [End quoting.]

ARIZONA APPROVES MAJOR CHANGES IN JURY SYSTEM

A grand jury update from the November 2 issue of THE WALL STREET JOURNAL, [quoting:]

The Arizona Supreme Court adopted a sweeping package of proposals intended to help jurors do a better job sifting through evidence, making the state the first to fundamentally change its jury practices. The state's highest court voted unanimously last week to allow jurors to pose written questions to witnesses through the judge, as well as take notes throughout civil trials. It also agreed to furnish jurors with special notebooks to be filled during a trial with preliminary jury instructions, key documents, photographs of witnesses who testify and final jury instructions. [I don't suppose that notebook contains a Citizen's Rule Book, containing the Constitution, or a Jury Handbook, containing the rights and responsibilities of a juror?] And the court voted to give judges in civil cases the discretion to allow jurors to talk in the jury room about evidence during a trial.

In addition, the high court agreed to give trial judges the option to limit the length of a trial and to avoid a hung jury by polling deadlocked jurors to see if questions remain. Judges can then allow jurors to hear additional evidence for the limited purpose of answering their questions or have additional closing arguments from the lawyers.

MUNCHKIN REMINDER

From the November 1 issue of THE WALL STREET JOURNAL, [quoting:]

Any child born before today must have a Social Security number to be claimed as a dependent—or as a qualifying child for the earned-income tax credit—on your 1995 tax return, the IRS says. This comes from the GATT law enacted late in 1994. [Good ol' GATT...] Next year, those born before Dec. 1, 1996, need a Social Security number. After 1996, all children, regardless of their birthday, need one. [Actually, no child NEEDS one; the government WANTS them to have one.]

WHERE'S THE WHEAT?

3F Forecasts Highlights (Futures, Farming, Finance), Nov. 95 arrived by fax. Here is a brief excerpt, [quoting:]

WHEAT. Where is the wheat? Answer: Some of the world's wheat crop in 1995 was damaged or destroyed by bad weather, diseases, or insects. China needs wheat due to drought that lasted from October 1994 to the present. The Soviets' wheat crop shrank significantly due to drought and insects. Australia's wheat burned up in a severe drought. Canada's crop was damaged by drought and the Orange Blossom Midge (an insect). Much of Europe's crop drowned out last February and the rest burned up in the drought 6 months later. Finally, Argentina's winter crop went 120 days with no water—which all but ruined the 1995 crop. [Drought and other “natural” disasters are rarely acts of Mother Nature these days.] Who's left that has any wheat? Answer: the U.S. Even the U.S. crop had problems, and much of the Hard Red Winter wheat belt centered in Kansas is quite dry as this is being written. Different varieties of wheat had problems in 1995 and most saw some reduction in total yields. The U.S. is the only country that has sizable quantities of wheat still available for sale. There is more demand for wheat worldwide than the U.S. has wheat to fill. AN explosion is about to happen in the trading pits and some vicious events may take place before this is over. Keep any eye on China; they need lots of wheat and they'll have to get most of it from the U.S. if they want it.

DOCTORS FAIL TO DIAGNOSE HIV ILLNESSES

From the November 1 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL,[quoting:]

CHICAGO—A study of more than 100 randomly selected U.S. doctors found a majority incorrectly diagnosed three key symptoms of HIV infection, the virus that causes AIDS, a report published Tuesday said. University of Washington School of Medicine researchers in Seattle selected 134 general internists and family practitioners and tested their diagnostic abilities on as many as 16 patients each. Only 23 of 89 physicians correctly diagnosed a patient with Kaposi's sarcoma and only 22 of 97 doctors detected and diagnosed a patient suffering from oral hairy leukoplakia—two frequently seen diseases among those infected with HIV. Another patient complaining of fatigue, fever and pain in the joints was correctly diagnosed by just 23 of 133 physicians as having diffuse lymphadenopathy, another AIDS-related disease. Some of the missed diagnoses could be attributed to lack of experience with HIV-infected patients, but also “indicate deficiencies in HIV-related physical diagnosis skills among primary care physicians and also suggest more general deficiencies at physical diagnosis,” study author Douglas Paauw wrote in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

CHAPTER 2

WORD FINALLY REACHES US FROM MICHAEL MAHOLY

October 31, 1995

Dear Rick,

Hello, my good friend. I hope that this letter finds you well and in good spirits. I'm doing fine and have been quite busy trying to sort out matters for several federal investigators pertaining to matters that are well underway in the "Banana Republic" of Arkansas. As you are probably aware by now, the federal prison system remains under a lock-down status, due to Congress's recent ruling dealing harsh penalties against "crack cocaine" sellers. In retaliation against the law, several thousand inmates from around the nation's eighty federal prisons have rioted. So far, 17 prisons have encountered some type of protest, resulting in many injuries to both staff and predominantly white inmates. Damages are calculated to be near the fifty-million-dollar mark and are expected to rise. These actions have caused the federal B.O.P. (Bureau of Prisons) to issue an "on alert" status until further notice. This order is in effect for all federal institutions nationwide until further notice.

As I have said before, things down in Arkansas are really heating up as we near election time. (Thank God!) My sources tell me that the federal investigation team that is being spearheaded by Kenneth Starr and several others out of Washington are now focusing on one Dan Lasater. You might remember my telling you about my direct dealings with Dan Lasater dating back to the early 1980s when he, Roger Clinton, Bill Clinton and I all conducted numerous illegal drug and weapons transactions through Arkansas. As recently as last week, the F.B.I. informed me that the independent counsel has conducted a deep probe into this relationship between me, Lasater, and the Clintons. They now have mounting evidence against the once-convicted cocaine distributor Dan Lasater, as well as Roger Clinton, and are in the stages of planning upcoming federal indictments against many of the "Clinton Elite" circle of power. I was also told that as a direct result of my story featured in CONTACT, and the book Defrauding America by Rodney Stich, I might just be the person responsible for future indictments. What the feds want from me is all the information I have hidden that will surely seal the fate of some of the most powerful people in America! This data will not only be my ticket to freedom, but yours as well, as we all need to get the truth of the matter out in the open for all to see.

The evidence is piling up against Bill Clinton and Queen Hillary that clearly shows that while Bill Clinton was the governor of Arkansas, he and the notorious cocaine "bond-daddy" Dan Lasater (who was based in Little Rock) had more than just a close personal relationship. They had a partnership—a partnership in crime! One might notice just how careful the Clintons are to distance themselves when the name of Dan Lasater enters the conversation. One of President Clinton's most notable lapses in memory seems to be about a Lasater "loan" to brother Roger for $8,000 to pay back a drug dealer for the cocaine he had sniffed away. It was at many wild drug parties throughout Little Rock, as well as at many recreational retreats, such as the hunting club in Stuttgart, Arkansas (see "The Killing Fields" chapter of "The C.I.A. Pipeline" in the February 14, 1995 issue of CONTACT) and my own trout fishing business up in the mountains, that the drug-crazed trio would not only purchase illegal drugs, but also plan their corrupt land deals on the future savings of all the people within the rural southern state. These were the days in the beginning when Clinton used as many people as possible to fulfill his dream of becoming the most powerful person in the world!

My personal allegations can also be verified and backed up by many of Clinton's one time personal "Gestapo" of state patrolmen who were assigned to provide security for the governor of Arkansas. Many of these troopers maintain that Clinton and Dan Lasater are, still to this day, very close friends and are still involved in many corrupt dealings. It will be from testimony from the troopers and myself, that will show the frequency of meetings between the bond broker and the governor and will throw a new and potentially intriguing light on the highly profitable business relationship Lasater was able to forge with the Arkansas state government, to the tune of $1.6 million in profits he made from his bonding business. We must not forget also, the leniency that was shown to him by the then-Governor Bill Clinton. As you may recall, Dan Lasater was given a pardon by Bill Clinton back in November of 1990 for Lasater's role in selling large amounts of cocaine.

If one watches closely and listens to any comments the president makes concerning Dan Lasater, you will notice that Bill Clinton hardly admits to having even met Dan Lasater! The official comment made by the White House press secretary is that they only met in passing at several fund raisers put on by mutual acquaintances. Let it be noted though, that during a 1994 press conference, Clinton stated that Lasater was "an active supporter of mine" but then immediately put the statement into a shroud by commenting that Lasater was a large contributor to many Democratic politicians, including Senators Dale Bumpers and David Pryor, as well.

When the president was asked about the issue of Lasater's pardon from prison on the cocaine charges, Clinton quickly diverted the question and cut the press short by stating that the parole commission recommended the pardon and it would have been highly unusual for the governor to go against the commission. This again happened only recently regarding a similar situation dealing with Hillary's former law partner, Webster Hubbell, who was just sentenced to only 21 months in federal prison, for what should have been a ten-year sentence!! And it just so happens that the same federal judge who found it in his heart to let Mr. Hubbell off with a mere slap on the hand, couldn't find the same leniency when it came to giving me a sentence reduction of ONE year that I earned by going through a rigorous 1000-hour drug class. Unfortunately for me, Hillary was not standing at my side during my sentencing.

You will recall from my "C.I.A. Pipeline" about Roger Clinton's involvement with Dan Lasater that Lasater employed Roger as both a personal bodyguard and limousine driver. It was back in 1986 when Lasater gave a deposition to the FBI and Arkansas state police as part of a plea bargain he made with U.S. Attorney George Proctor, that Lasater lied and downplayed the actual number of occasions he had met with Bill and Hillary Clinton. Lasater did mention, however, that the Clintons did attend a Christmas party at the Lasater home but stayed for only thirty minutes. Another deposition stated that he also took part in the grand opening of Pulleybone's, a local Little Rock restaurant that had a reputation of wining and dining the Elite with cocaine, marijuana and young women.

Back then, one Julius "Doc" Delaughter, an Arkansas state police investigator who was assigned to the case, was told by his then-supervisor to back off from Lasater and his dealings with the governor or face disciplinary action. This, in turn, puzzled the investigator and has troubled him ever since. Never more would Delaughter have the chance to interrogate Lasater.

Now, as it stands, an Arkansas state trooper came forward to state that while he was one of Clinton's bodyguards, assigned to the gubernatorial security detail, that Lasater came to visit Bill and Hillary Clinton at least four different times when he was on duty at the governor's mansion. This trooper, one L.S. Brown, also states that he drove Bill Clinton to Lasater's home on several other occasions, as well as to his offices. He also said that Clinton and Lasater talked of going to the mountains in the northern part of the state to fish for rainbow trout and secure drugs for profit. Anyone who ever knew ANYONE in Little Rock could tell you that Lasater and Clinton were frequently seen together at the horse races in nearby Hot Springs, as well.

I told you of Lasater's private jet that he and the Clintons used to fly across the nation to do whatever it was that they were doing. You can bet that it was to make money, because that was the business they were into. Once airborne, the dope-heads would begin their ritual of drug snorting and adultery. That's right, the jet also came complete with the highest-paid hookers around!! It was this jet that flew much of the cocaine into Little Rock, in addition to what Seal and I had flown into the area.

As the plot thickens, you will eventually see that Lasater played a big part in Clinton's illegal schemes. The truth will surface soon, as the leads are all coming to the same fork in the road—the one that leads to Washington! You will see how Lasater, a Kentucky native who initially make a killing when his chain of Ponderosa restaurants went public in 1971, was well known among Little Rock's elite cocaine dealers and a charter member of the Capital Club, an exclusive downtown Little Rock restaurant where the in-crowd would congregate for their drug deals and drinks. You will learn how Patsy Thomason, another close friend of Clinton, and Lasater's former girlfriend, ended up as chief of personnel in the White House. Our friend Bill certainly knows how to take care of loose ends!!

Another name that you will see in the upcoming events is Chuck Berry. No, not the musician, but rather the man who succeeded Roger Clinton as Lasater's personal limo driver. He had a reputation for running around telling just how close he was to Lasater and about all of Lasater and Clinton's personal dealings with the drugs, booze and women. He was Lasater's right-hand man for a time, until Lasater got rid of him, as he has done to so many others.

One of the young women who Dan Lasater introduced to drugs was Patricia Anne Smith. While she was a student at nearby North Little Rock High School, only 16 years old, Lasater seduced her and gave her illegal drugs in large doses, coercing her into having sex with him. The woman was just one of the many to fall into the trap that these slime ball demons would set everyday. Lisa Scott would soon be added to the list of young women I have mentioned whom I had personally met at Dan Lasater's condo in Little Rock, previous to my flight to New Orleans to get cocaine for Lasater and Clinton. Lisa and another young woman would fly back and forth to Las Vegas with Clinton and Lasater for private sexual exploits on a regular basis.

So you can see the connections here as I present them to you and the officials. Please keep in mind that Lasater's firm handled $664 million in Arkansas bond sales which netted him $1.6 million in profits. Bill Clinton exercised the right to approve every issue that determined which agency would get the contracts. Don't think for one minute that Clinton was not behind Barry Seal's planned death either. With Seal out of the way and the rest of Seal's crew targeted (and with yours truly safely behind bars), Clinton and Lasater, as well as Don Tyson, Jim Guy Tucker, and the rest of the Clinton Gang, could execute their plans for power and glory without the threat of exposure.

In 1986, just after Seal's death in Baton Rouge, Clinton personally lobbied very hard in the Arkansas legislature to get Lasater a $30-million bond issue for a new police communication system, despite knowing that Lasater was a major suspect in illegal narcotic dealing. This alone should be enough for officials to look at this development.

The question stands at this: Will the powerful elite people that Clinton has around him break under pressure, or will it be swept under the carpet as has so much other evidence in the past? When the officials come to take depositions from me, I will tell them exactly what I know about these others. They have even tried to prove me wrong with their "truth machines", but have failed to prove me false in any of their interrogations yet. What I won't give them are the documents and other data I have in hiding until I regain my freedom. Their credibility with me at the moment is not what you would call excellent. I would very much like to hook them up to their own machine one time just to find out where they really stand.

As a matter of fact, most of my own intelligence sources tell me—and I am in total agreement—that my life is in definite jeopardy because of the information that I hold about people, places, and organizations. They realize that this prison cell I'm in, and the fact that I am under federal jurisdiction, may be the only thing saving my life at this very moment. That is why I ask that every person who reads my story contact me, or if you are writing to me now, please keep up the correspondence. I need as much support and help in exposing the corruption as I can get in the position I'm in now. As many of you know, my earnings here are little to nothing. I have recently been promoted to what they call "grade 3", which amounts to 17 cents an hour, hardly enough to buy stamps with. But of course, they are not too interested in me communicating with anyone if they can help it. And also, I must control my rhetoric somewhat while under the watchful gaze of the DEMON'S EYE. Especially now that the federal prison system is on full alert, I must be careful. I don't want another episode like the one that landed me in the "hole" at Fort Leavenworth Prison.

I hope to have the "C.I.A. Pipeline" continued shortly in the CONTACT. It seems that the chapters I sent never made it to the destination. Perhaps they were seized by the Keepers of so many of us truth seekers here at the prison. And once again, I want to make it perfectly clear that at no time did I ever declare that I was innocent. I just want for others to confess to their part in the crimes that continue to this day, and the roles that they play in this deadly game. So thank you all once again for everything, and please keep those letters coming. Hope to hear from you again soon, and until that time, may God bless you and keep you.

Keeper of the Flame,

SOLTEC: SOME EFFECTS OF PULSE-GRID DISTURBANCES

11/12/95 Soltec

Good afternoon, Toniose Soltec present in the Light of Holy God, a God whose patience is tried mightily these days as the adversarial forces step up their attacks on both people and planet to a level that becomes unacceptable for the greater working order of the Cosmos, which you of Earth-Shan affect whether or not you are aware of it.

Specifically at this time we speak of the pulse-grid system of electromagnetic commotion which is presently being put into the final stages of readiness for coordinated modulation on a global scale—not just one state or country, mind you, but messing with the electromagnetic status of planetary existence on a whole-globe scale.

Just from a geophysical perspective, you all are by now well aware of how precarious is the condition of the tectonic plates, those boundaries of which are where most volcanic and fault-line seismic activities occur. In recent weeks there has been a tremendous increase in seismic activity world-wide, and especially this has even been noted in the controlled media for locations around the “Ring Of Fire” which encircles the Pacific Plate.

Now, when the grid system is, to put it simply, turned up & down in volume or amplitude on a coordinated, world-wide scale (like alternately inflating and deflating a balloon), there are profound effects on the Earth’s own natural magnetic field. Among other effects, the interactions between the unnatural pulse-grid field and the natural Earth field will cause torque just like what you experience when trying to change the position of a spinning bicycle wheel you are holding in your hands at the axle. That force opposing your trying to change the position of the spinning wheel is torque, and the grid system-induced torque will not only cause simultaneous stress on (and thus potential motion along) ALL of the surface plates, but will contribute even more destabilization to the already precariously acute wobble of the Earth on its axis.

Meanwhile, there can be ignition of your atmosphere by electromagnetic ionization and this is a most unfortunate situation, should such occur, for so few are even in possession of dark-lensed welding goggles, much the less do they keep them handy for instant use.

Just these few above-mentioned potential situations are serious considerations at this time of Elite jockeying for position in the world hierarchy of control. And this makes all the more sense for you good students who have an understanding of our previous lessons on these subjects.

Now, Commander Hatonn may wish to address this next, related subject in greater detail at the meeting than I shall here [He did. See The Word tapes for the Sunday, 11/12/95 meeting and also see the reprinted short writing from 1/12/95 near here.], but I would be remiss to not at least give passing mention to the serious physiological and psychological effects of this grid system on you of the ground crew.

Excess histamine production—something like an electronically-induced allergy—is just one of the possible physiological reactions. Other physiological and psychological reactions include: skipping heartbeats, extra annoying ear ringings—especially at multiple pitches, sleep-cycle interruptions, bouts of forgetfulness, disorientation, depression, lethargy, and the nervous (including the ready-to-bite-someone’s-head-off) jitters, are all possible reactions, depending on the mixture of grid frequencies being utilized at any given time.

Countering these is a matter of keeping one’s shielding up AND one’s frequency up, and DOES require conscious, determined effort [Again, see the reprinted writing by Commander Hatonn from 1/12/95—below.], not just some half-hearted wishful thinking about druthers. These are serious times of large-scale mind-control experimentation on the masses by those who would control this planet and its inhabitants. Keep that fact foremost in your minds.

I leave you now as one who is quite busy monitoring what your Elite have planned just for the very near future. We of the Hosts watch with great compassion as you on the front lines of attack must adjust to these assaults on your Higher sensibilities.

Whether it is the latest insulting commercial message or so-called “entertainment” program on your idiot boxes, or the latest electromagnetic blast from a pulse-grid system—the body, mind AND soul are affected and we can but be available to help as you request same in sincere petition.

Thank you for the jobs you perform to get the truth out to the four corners at this time of final awakening. Know that WE are as near as a mental call—just make sure that YOU are ready for the answers!

Keep those Light shields up and keep your sense of Humor, for remember: both Light and Humor are of God—and God wins in the final analysis!

Toniose Soltec to clear in the Radiant Light of Holy God of Humor and Light. Salu.

BEWARE OF PULSE
BEAM BOMBARDMENT
1/11/95 #2 HATONN

I am getting a lot of complaints from the ground crew about bombardment of pulse waves in the low frequencies. I’m sorry, kids, but the Parasites have turned on everything they have to test it in the weather control project. You are going to have to get control of selves because you are going to find everyone around you ill and cross, depressed and basically angry. You know what to do to counter this—SO DO IT. Don’t be concerned with headaches—take ASPIRIN as a FIRST choice because of its ability to reduce swelling in joints. This is “nothing” compared to a nuclear war so let us be grateful for these small blessings. The Nuclear Strike described so well [over pgs. 2-22 of the 1/17/95 issue of CONTACT] was not the only one—nor have the Elite ever stopped planning.

LOCAL FOCUS—OR ANYWHERE
1/12/95 #1 HATONN

Everyone here is feeling the effects of pulse bombardment. Yes indeed, “they” are hitting hard now. They have had to double up on the frequency “changes” to manipulate the weather patterns so you are stuck with it. If you are doing all the things I’ve suggested on an ongoing basis—I suggest you increase the Gaialyte by at least 2 servings a day and increase the vinegar (Kargasok) by 2-3 tablespoons a day. It is very high frequency on it’s own but it also has drias, so should have the high frequency which will meet the need AND will also counter (pick up the same) frequencies as in the local atmosphere—pretty much negating their effects. [See New Gaia product information at end of paper for ordering and other information about these substances.]

Also, if you are still “nervous”, especially inwardly, take increased supplements of magnesium/zinc/calcium in proper ratio for proper utilization, AND eat a couple of bananas a day for the added natural potassium. This should help clear the “thinking”. If you have some Lecithin—take at least a double to triple supplement. Give it a bit of time to work and if you have a “Dharma” relaxation tape—go listen through it a couple or three times to get your own defenses connected to LIGHT FREQUENCY. [Contact The Word for information concerning the obtaining of this tape; see p. 17 for details.]

This is going to get worse and worse, nice friends—they are AFTER YOU. Please note the full-bore holocaust push these days—the Parasites are holding on for dear life. They had planned another FIRST ATTACK on the Russias—but you can see that the “distractors” of encounters here and there HAVE NOT WORKED AND THE MILITARY IS SIMPLY GETTING FURIOUS WITH “THEIR LEADERS”.

CHAPTER 4

THE NEWS DESK

by Phyllis Linn 11/17/95

This article appears to have gone to press PRIOR to the death of Itzhak Rabin. It appeared in the November 16 issue of THE JERUSALEM REPORT, [quoting:]

Itzhak Rabin does not have long to live. The angels have their orders. Suffering and death await the prime minister, or so say the kabbalists who have cursed him with the pulsa denura—Aramaic for “lashes of fire”—for his “heretical” policies. “He’s inciting against Judaism,” says the Jerusalem rabbi who, clad in tefillin, read out the most terrifying of curses in the tradition of Jewish mysticism—opposite Rabin’s residence on the eve of Yom Kippur.

“And on him, Yitzhak son of Rosa, known as Rabin,” the Aramaic text stated, “we have permission...to demand from the angels of destruction that they take a sword to this wicked man...to kill him...for handing over the Land of Israel to our enemies, the sons of Ishmael.” The rabbi, who won’t have his name published but identifies himself as a member of the far-right [whatever THAT means] Kach movement, says the curse generally works within 30 days. That put the expiry date—for Rabin or the curse—in early November.

For Jewish mystics of both North African and East European descent, curses taken from the tradition of “practical Kabbalah” are heavy weaponry—not to be used every day, but certainly available in wars, religious struggles and even political battles. Not only the ultra-Orthodox but many traditional-leaning Israelis regard them with the utmost seriousness. Invoking the pulsa denura is a perilous undertaking, for if the ceremony is not performed in a strictly prescribed fashion, it can strike the conjurers themselves. [Count on it, guys!]

COMMUNIST RESURRECTION

From the November 6 issue of the THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

MOSCOW—Russia’s Communists, riding high on growing popularity ahead of December’s election, mark the anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution this week with rallies that will be closely monitored by an anxious Russian leadership. Communist leaders will pay homage to Bolshevik revolutionary and Soviet state founder Vladimir Lenin at his Red Square mausoleum today and stage a march Tuesday through central Moscow. With Yeltsin recovering from a heart condition, opinion polls put the reborn Communist Party well ahead of other leading groups in the prelude to the Dec. 17 election for the State Duma, the lower house.

Communists are waging a populist, anti-reform program spotlighting the crash of social and welfare structures and accusing the leadership for policies that have driven millions below the poverty line.

CIA SPIES ON MOTHER NATURE

From the October 21 issue of the SAN LUIS OBISPO COUNTY TELEGRAM TRIBUNE, [quoting:]

WASHINGTON (AP)—The law is clear: No spying by the CIA within the United States and its territories. [Chortle, snicker, snicker—who are they kidding?] But the agency kept a close watch on the domestic mischief of Andrew, Opal and Marilyn. Andrew, Opal and Marilyn were hurricanes and the CIA used skills honed in Cold War spying to help disaster relief agencies. When Marilyn struck the U.S. Virgin Islands in September, the CIA was able to give the Federal Emergency Management Agency [FEMA] a speedy assessment of the damage. [What a nefarious partnership for freedom-loving souls!]

“It’s the kind of information we provide to the Department of Defense in military situations,” said Connie Miller, head of the CIA’s disaster response team. “It’s one of the things we’re good at.” [They’re also good at drug-running, money-laundering and stuff like that.] Miller and officials from FEMA talked about the CIA role in disaster relief Thursday, but she was careful to avoid revealing the methods the agency wants to keep secret. She said the agency uses the same techniques it applies to assessing the battle fields of Bosnia or the Persian Gulf. They include aerial reconnaissance from satellites and planes and what is picked up from HUMINT, the spy business shorthand for human intelligence. Natural disasters are an exception to the legal ban on domestic activity by the CIA. [That gives them a big foot in the door, doesn’t it? Especially when you have reason to believe those “natural” disasters aren’t all that NATURAL after all!]

GOVERNMENT CONTINUES GULF WAR SYNDROME DENIAL

From the November 13 issue of NAVY TIMES, [quoting:]

SAN DIEGO—More Desert Storm veterans have died than their peers who did not go the Persian Gulf, but from accidents and trauma rather than disease. Many others are sick, but their illnesses are not a mystery nor readily linked to military service. In short, try as they might, government-funded researchers have yet to find a smoking gun that could link health problems reported by thousands of Gulf War veterans to their service in the war. These were among dozens of preliminary findings government scientists unveiled Oct. 31 at the annual meeting here of the American Public Health Association.

The ongoing studies included nationwide reviews of medical and death records as well as surveys and clinical examinations. They were funded from $12 million set aside by President Clinton to research [defined as “cover up”] Gulf War maladies. [If you have been following our Gulf War exposés, you can immediately see that this article is total fabrication and denial.]

VA TO SURVEY VETS

From the November 9 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

WASHINGTON—A new federal study will attempt to determine the health consequences of serving in the Persian Gulf War by comparing veterans who were there with those who served elsewhere. The nationwide survey will seek information on the health problems of 15,000 Gulf War veterans and a control group of 15,000 who served outside the gulf region in 1991. “I need our veterans to help me get to the bottom of this issue,” Veterans Affairs Secretary Jesse Brown said Wednesday in urging veterans who receive questionnaires to return them promptly. [What do YOU think they are up to? Will they alter the survey data to suit their own agenda? Will they use the survey to ferret out “troublemakers”? Are they using the survey to create the ILLUSION that they are solving the problem? All of the above??]

The Department of Veterans Affairs and the Defense Department have carried out a variety of studies on the illnesses that have afflicted thousands of veterans of the war with Iraq and the possible links to chemical, biological or environmental pollutants. The conclusion so far has been that there appears to be no single cause of the neurological and other health problems, but veterans groups have questioned the accuracy of some of the studies. The VA said its new study will use mail questionnaires and follow-up telephone interviews. About 1,000 households in each group will be offered medical examinations. Those seeking more information can call the VA’s Persian Gulf Help Line at (800)-PGW-VETS.

GOREY HALLOWEEN

From the November 13 issue of the DAILY NEWS, [quoting:]

Al Gore was the Beast and Tipper Gore was the Beauty, but according to a White House aide, the full-of-fun second family originally had something else in mind for Halloween. The vice president wanted to play the Beauty to Tipper’s Beast, the aide said. They switched to the conventional costumes, said the Hill, when “nervous aides...questioned whether Americans are ready for a vice president who is a cross dresser.” [Hey! We REALLY weren’t ready for pedophile presidents Ford, Reagan, and Bush or philandering bisexual president Clinton, but the Big Boys figure what we don’t know won’t hurt us.]

DISEASES FOR DEPOPULATION: MALARIA MAKING A COMEBACK

From the October 8 issue of THE DENVER POST, [quoting:]

The most frightening things in life are not the unknown but the familiar demons that refuse to leave. Among the greatest forces shaping the course of human history, sometimes scooping entire populations off the map, is infectious disease; after a brief, charming fantasy that the age of infectious diseases was behind us, the entire medieval bestiary of scourges has returned with teeth bared and claws extended: tuberculosis, cholera, typhus, virulent pneumonia and that festering tropical fever with the sing-song Latinate name, malaria.

Not long ago, there had been heady talk of eradicating malaria, through a one-two punch of DDT, to control the mosquitos that transmit the disease, and of the drug chloroquine, to treat patients already infected with the malarial parasite. Now mosquitos throughout the tropics are immune to most insecticides, while chloroquine-resistant strains of the most lethal malaria parasite, Plasmodium falciparum are sweeping across sub-Saharan Africa and parts of Asia and Latin America. Each year, nearly half-a-billion people develop malaria, and between 1 million and 2 million die of the disease, most of them young children.

When Westerners think of disease in Africa, they think AIDS, they think Ebola virus. But when Westerners talk to health officials in the sub-Sahara, they hear about the catastrophe of drug-resistant malaria. “As a result of this problem of drug resistance,” said Dr. Charles C. J. Carpenter, professor of medicine at Brown University and physician in chief at the Miriam Hospital in Providence, R.I., “malaria must be considered one of the major re-emerging infections of the world.”

MYSTERY ILLNESS SPREADS TO HONDURAS

From the November 5 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

ACHUAPA, Nicaragua—An unknown and frightening disease that emerged here nearly a month ago apparently has jumped across the border into Honduras, as a team of international scientists labors to identify the sometimes-fatal illness. The toll in Central America now stands at 21 deaths and 1,600 people ill. Scientists are studying dramatic changes in the environment that may have provoked the outbreak of the disease. IN Achuapa, the town where the first case was reported Oct. 6, some 17 feet of rain have fallen this year, four times the normal level. The rains have ruined crops, generated swarms of mosquitoes and forced rodents to seek refuge in houses. The illness may have been caused “by some ecological change that was favorable to the agent,” said Dr. Philip Brackman, a former head of the CDC [Centers for Disease Control] epidemic unit and now a professor at Emory University’s Rollins School of Public Health.

Whether that agent is a virus, bacteria or some substance is not known, but viruses causing hemorrhagic fevers—internal bleeding or fluid in the lungs—have popped up regularly in the hemisphere since the first one was identified in 1956. The new epidemic comes atop soaring levels of malaria, cholera and dengue fever that are wracking the countryside in Nicaragua, a nation of 4 million. [End of quoting.]

Speaking of mosquitoes, here’s a pertinent quote from Tiny Game Hunting, a book by Hilary Dole Klein and Adrian M. Wenner, [quoting:]

Bats are the most important predators of night-flying insects. A good-sized colony of about 250,000 can eat two to four tons of insects each night. Besides being among the best tiny game hunters we know, bats pollinate vital plants and disperse seeds, mostly in tropical forests. When birds go to sleep, the bats come out—and remember, this is when mosquitoes get on the move. One bat may eat up to 4,000 mosquitoes in a night—that’s a lot of prevented mosquito bites! When habitats for bats were deliberately created in San Antonio, Texas, in 1917, the bats practically eliminated malarial mosquitoes from the area. [See how far “progress” and “wonder drugs” have brought us since 1917!]

CHAPTER 5

GULF WAR SYNDROME & OKLAHOMA-MURRAH BOMBING

by Peter Kawaja 11/16/95

The Oklahoma Murrah Building bombing—what has that got to do with the Gulf War Syndrome, which the DOD and the VA say, does not exist. For those innocent civilians who asked the question, why here, why this building? Only now are they finding out that the Murrah Building housed U.S. covert operations and more. A week after the bombing I reported that a black helicopter was seen hovering over (and then leaving) the building at the time of the bombing. NOT minutes later. This was printed in a newspaper with the reporter adding his comments, that “no one else has reported this”. However, it seems someone is in possession of a videotape of the black helicopter.

CNN had shown up at the patriot meeting where I was the guest speaker. They came with cameras, lights, and boom mikes. Whilst they sat in awe, I showed some of the NBC (nuclear/biological/chemical) logs from Centecom/Schwarzkopf’s central command. They never aired any of it. The audience also had several undercover agents present. Rep. Charles Key (Oklahoma) produced a tape recently which comes to some parallel conclusions. You can obtain a copy of their tape by calling 1-800-954-1222, ext. 4000. You will hear and see many disturbing things, such as civilians left bleeding and dying whilst fake emergencies were used to clear the area so that federal agents could REMOVE “files” and all kinds of “weapons and explosive devices” when no one could see them. What type of files would be so sensitive that human beings were allowed to bleed to death pinned under tons of steel and cement, so no one could document it?

If you have not read “the Saddest Chapter...” know this now, that the VA “hard files” on GWI were moved to the Murrah Building. Tim McVeigh is a Gulf War veteran who had complained to the VA that he had “GWI”. (On May 2, 1995, USA Today reported that McVeigh had gone to the VA in Buffalo, NY to be seen for GWI and was turned away. The Washington Post reported friends of McVeigh said he seemed changed by the War, like he had been gassed.) Immediately after the bombing, the media stated it was a “disgruntled Gulf War veteran”, and the next day it quickly changed to hate groups and militia. Does this mean McVeigh committed the crime? NO! It means there is a TIE—that he was a government throw-away, USED, programmed to be there and to be apprehended—to take the fall. Every professional we have heard from have all stated, the fertilizer bomb in the Ryder Van could not have done the damage, in that specific way. The fertilizer bomb was a DECOY for the real bombs that did the destructive damage and took many innocent lives. Other live bombs were found inside the building that did not detonate. Who had access to Secret Service, ATF, and “other” government offices to plant those bombs? Don’t these law enforcement agencies have security measures? Could a civilian have planted those bombs? What about the black helicopter above the building? Was a bomb dropped from it that caused the “shearing effect”? Why did the FBI want everyone in the area to turn in their video tapes from all security cameras on buildings in the area? Did these cameras record something they don’t want the public to see or know about, like the black helicopter? Who has safeguarded these tapes to make sure none are missing or have been edited? These things should never happen again, where evidence integrity has not been established.

Dr. Nancy Nicolson offered to test McVeigh's blood for the Mycoplasma (that you have read about re: GWI). A Gulf War veteran, Aubrey Leager, called Michael Fortier on May 8, 1995 to ask him about getting blood samples from McVeigh, to find out if McVeigh would agree to have his blood examined for the GWI. Only now, in November, did Aubrey Leager find out the FBI intercepted calls to/from Leager's phone number (see attached notice of authorized FBI wiretap). This means the FBI has known directly and indirectly that McVeigh may have the GWI, and they have not allowed the Drs. Nicolson to test his blood. Now you understand also why the government and the VA set out months ago to discredit the Nicolsos, and for the VA to tell the medical community trying to treat suffering and dying veterans that they (VA) do not recommend Doxycycline or other antibiotics even though they have seen the results on very sick entire families, such as the Hamdens, who were written about in Criminal Politics in the article about the Drs. Nicolson.

GWI can cause severe neurological problems including brain lesions that can cause a personality change resulting in mood swings ranging from suicidal depression to aggressive violent behavior. Also, Dr. Lo of the AFIP has said Mycoplasma incognitus can cause "DEATH ON ITS OWN".

The government is caught in their own trap. They want to prove that McVeigh is THE Murrah Building bomber. But if they do go down that road, we now have proof that they have actively covered up and denied McVeigh the ability to have his blood tested. If McVeigh has the Mycoplasma incognitus that the DOD and VA has been LYING to the public about, and they want to say he is the bomber, it means that as a result of the government cover-up of the Gulf War crimes that I have been telling you about, innocent children died. That is their best scenario, but that would be admitting to WAR CRIMES against the Geneva Convention, because these warfare agents were developed right here in the United States.

However, all evidence indicates McVeigh is a GOVERNMENT throw-away—and the bomb(s) that killed these innocent people was NOT the fertilizer bomb in the Ryder Van supposedly driven by McVeigh. All evidence points to the facts that McVeigh was programmed (as a result of his Gulf War Illness) to be in the area and be caught and blamed for what many others had orchestrated—a heinous crime that was not committed by one or two persons on the outside. Perhaps McVeigh thought he was participating in a mock/legitimate military operation (not knowing, of course, about the "real" bombs to be used), and so forth. I do not claim to know all the answers, but one thing is CERTAIN: McVeigh IS a Gulf War veteran, who DID complain he had the GWI prior to the bombing event, but like all other Gulf Veterans, was DENIED treatment by the VA. Only he and the real perpetrators of the crime know the entire truth. McVeigh's situation points to his confused state of mind, and almost robot-like blank face and reactions.

Why was the top MIND-CONTROL expert from UCLA, who started his illustrious career at the University of Oklahoma under a CIA grant, sent to "visit" McVeigh in prison. What about the CHIP McVeigh claimed was embedded in him? What did they do to McVeigh? I am convinced he was set up. It has been reported to me that another military serviceman has been murdered checking my information on GWS, the Murrah bombing, and the DOD/VA files.

War against Americans is being conducted; you cannot escape it by denial.

UPDATE: GULF WAR SYNDROME
AND PETER KAWAJA

It's been said many times, “If you're catching flack, you're ON TARGET!” Well, it seems that some people out there (imagine that!) want to make Peter Kawaja the target. Peter informs CONTACT that death threats have escalated, some SPECIFIC, as he nears the time for lectures and travel. One POSSIBLE scenario involves taking Peter out while flying. Understandably, Peter's primary concern is for the passengers on the plane.

WELL, READERS, PLEASE KEEP PETER IN YOUR PRAYERS. Thank you.

CHAPTER 6

WHERE THERE'S A WILL, THERE'S A WAY

THE WAY OF THE OVERCOMER

As you can readily surmise from several comments in Commander Hatonn's writings this week, the state of this planet has become quite precarious. The heat is on—and in more ways than one. The pointed writing starting on page 26 is just one example of what I mean.

Due to some recent personal experiences lately concerning the increasing levels of attacks on critical ground crew members in my circle of acquaintances, I was musing about the effects of this “heat” on the strength and sanity and stability and restlessness of the ground crew in general—when the following writing literally fell off my bookshelf to share with you all in this week's CONTACT. The space for it just “happened” to open up. Imagine that.

This writing is Chapter 16 in Phoenix Journal #7, the beautiful little collection of writings from the Seven Ray Masters called THE RAINBOW MASTERS. Notice that this writing, through Dharma, is from early in 1989—and yet it comes across as being most timely RIGHT NOW to help those looking for strength as the “heat in the kitchen” rises to a level that will cause many to run away to cooler space.

So be it, for God still wins in the end. The question is only who all remains in this “hardball” game, strong enough to be part of that win—or gives up to bail out on their original soul intent. Let us hope this writing helps keep more good souls ON the team!

4/14/89 #1 EL MORYA

Yes, precious one, you have come to this place at this time for your work was unfinished. I feel the clutter within as you effort at balancing “life, as it were”, with thy appointed task. So be it; the way is never an easy path.

RAY OF DAWN

I come in the light of a beautiful, golden dawn. There is mist on the land, dew on the living branches, also a new season of growth and birth. I am your elder brother, El Morya of the “ray of dawn”—the first ray. I greet you in peace and appreciation for thy labors. You will become more and more comfortable with the cycles of energy, chela. You must always begin “within” and move outward. Man always begins outwardly and moves within, bearing all the dregs and causal pains within to pull him to lower energies. Start with the God-ness within and all will be transmuted in the violet flame of what “really” IS.

I became one with the cycles of matter for the mastery of those cycles—almost, as it were, going within the within, the heart of matter before going to the outside of matter. Growing from within—from within the Sun, within the Earth, and within the Sun behind the Sun—I learned the way of Source and Source’s laws by the inner geometry of the molecule, the atom—the Cosmos.

“WILL” OF GOD

My appreciation, chelas, of that which I did NOT at first call God, or Universal Source, came through the humble awareness, the awesome awareness of this magnificent “thing”—this “thing” that IS “LIFE”, this thing that is energy, this thing which is the harmony, this thing that I now behold as the “WILL” of Creator Source—That Mighty Presence of Universal “Allness”.

The will of God Totality is applied in all levels of human endeavor. For the will of God is the blueprint of every project. It is the foundation of every task. It is the skeleton of your body; it is the physical energy; it is etheric fire. The will of God is your will TO BE GOD in manifestation. Without that will, you would not be in this place at this time attempting a magnificent encounter with the task at hand.

Because you cannot be expected to function in other nations, other portions of thy planet, our thrust in the teachings will be upon the geographical locations where ye are at home—in this instance, America. Do not effort at absorbing the whole until thee can master the portion.

There is a cancerous substance moving across the mass unconscious. Let us just call it anti-will. It is a substance so subtle that most among mankind do not even perceive that, by this substance, there is a denial of freedom, a denial not only of the will to be, but of the ability to will to be. Like the weakening of the form, like the drawing away of the very strength of the body, so is this substance moving against the flame, the fiery flame of the will to purpose, the will to perfection, the will to Life itself. Man has been all but rendered helpless in his own existence.

This is the plight of the evolutions of Terra Maka. Both in East and West there is that “hypnosis”, that manipulation of consciousness at sublevels by the substance of selfishness itself, by the substance of lesser will of desire—willing for power, pleasure of self, and manipulation of brother, willing for everything but the will of Source God which is sufficient to meet all aspects of life within the soul.

The plight of modern man is the plight of a “false will”—a will to death; not unto life. A will to be unconscious, not to face of the issues, not to take of responsibility, but to become drunk by the media, by the chemicals in the food and drink, by the dissipation of individuality through a mass mesmerism, a collective consciousness of the crowd instead of the individual rising, rising to a self awareness carved out of the will of a Higher Beingness. Therefore, chelas, the heroic problems shall be met in heroic measure—through the same methods of reaching through that subconscious level of receiving instructions. We have to replant the fertile soil within the subconscious. Relax, chelas, the blueprints are well drawn and already beginning to be structured.

I COME TO AWAKEN

I, and my brethren, come to wake ye ones. I come to shake you to a larger purpose, a larger destiny to which you were birthed. I come to let the decibels shake, rattle and roll until you “HEAR”, to allow the frequencies and the vibrations of your beings to become attuned—NOW!

Let this precious gem of placement and atunement be a place of rallying point to move out of the lethargy and sleep of the ages, to awaken this nation to a vital purpose, to awaken the individual to strength and courage, self-discipline and the will to move beyond this deathlike mesmerism whereby the people give in so easily to sloth and sleep and sensuality and every form of “pleasure” while the world, the world of the energy of Source, instead of spiraling unto a fulfilling purpose, unwinds down and down and down until there is nothing left but the inertia of the rest of death.

This substance, this pall, this pollution that is the very core of the pollution of the elements of your beings, is taking from you your very life-flow, so that you wander from here to there, accepting what the day brings as though it must be.

You ones go about these groggy-headed ways, blaming God for thy plight. Surprise, chelas: YOU HAVE MADE IT THUS; YOU MUST NOW UNDO WHAT THEE HAS ACCOMPLISHED. Accept that you have done it and, therefore, ye can undo of it. Stop blaming God and brother for thy own plight.

The rise and fall of civilization is the work of Man, not of Father God. Man has failed to implement the will of God, has failed to contact the very core of being that is his own.

Ye ones must cease of your “blaming others”; thy parents, thy society, thy teachers, your culture—your civilization. However, ye must make of thy own stand for right purposes and cast aside those things which bring you down.

I find myself using the term “sacrifice”. I dislike the word but ye have no word to fit of the meaning I wish to convey. Let us instead use “self-discipline”. Sacrifice indicates a negative “giving up of something”. You are not in the “giving up”, thee are about to be in the “getting of”. Sacrifice indicates a perception of “pain”. There is no pain in carving away the fat of the mortal so that the lean soul of the spirit can fly. There is no pain in the entering into the wondrous beauty of the will of Source-Self. There is actually a moving away from “pain” that ye ones have endured as a civilization for centuries of your time. Your souls are in agony and you have not even made contact with the soul in this life to recognize of its agony. Ye just proceed upon thy path of misery, boredom and longing for better, without acting to achieve “better”.

DISCIPLINE

To achieve this “better” there are requirements. These are disciplined requirements. You must have discipline of self and situation. There is no substitute for self-discipline. It is why we get this child up at dawn to write. We can write at any hour of thy day; but she has gained the discipline to get up at the break of dawn to do this work. If she will do this, she will also be available when she is needed and not just when “she feels like participating”. This is only an example, Dharma.

As you begin to manifest control over self, ye will begin to see how ye can manifest any other thing thee wishes—not for the fun of “magic” but for the fulfillment of thy accepted task—to revel in thy own fully developed mind control over all matter. This will not be to impress man, for ye will be beyond the wish to “impress”; rather, this will be for thy own expression of truth.

It is good to demonstrate mastery, but ye must not be in the following of those who demonstrate phenomena as “the way”, whether legitimately or illegitimately, whether as the “white” or the “black” magician. The time has come for mankind to follow the Teacher, for the truth of the Teaching itself, for the very sake of the vibration of Truth and “Life”—not mystical hocus-pocus.

To mesh with the higher vibrations of purpose you must cease dwelling within thy own “self-ness”; the “me-ness” of all actions. If ye only act for self reasons ye have done nothing other than replace one selfish experience for another, and that is what thy brother will emulate if it be more desirable than his own selfishness. Ye will only have set up “your way”, not the way of truth which must be the route of transition from this blighted state in which this planet and civilization is trapped.

I can assure you that all who take the position of seeking freedom from the subjugation of mortality, without exception, have had to first take the step of self-discipline and have given up personalization of input, both from Higher Sources and worldly physical attachments. Ye must go beyond thy conscious reaction to personalized “self” to come into harmony with that which is surrounding of thy being.

As ye have committed unto this magnificent task, I and my Brothers of these Higher vibrational frequencies will respond to thy call at any moment of any day or night. There is not one soul ever neglected when a call is made. Like attracts like. I go where the call arises. I go where the vibration is located and my presence is felt. Ye are never without Guides and Protectors in thy work—NEVER, NOT FOR A MOMENT!

Know thee are always in the sight and knowledge of the Higher planes. Every thought is known; every action accounted. Naked you will stand before thy God at the conclusion of this sojourn, so it would behoove thee to be a bit careful of thy activities which you “assume” to be hidden. It will not be “MAN” who will stand in thy presence; it is God.

SAME OLD STORY

Do not concern as you become focused within our gaze. All ones have that feeling of discomfort when they realize that all actions are known. Ye have heard of it since childhood, but ye now will begin to feel the presence of the “watching”. Let me assure you, precious ones, we have seen it all before—”ALL”. There is naught ye can think of or do that has not been seen or done or thought of prior to thee. It is repeated over and over and over and over again in the mass consciousness, ad nauseam. We have seen this world and its folly. I have seen the same old plots cued up by the fallen ones, the same old tapes played again and again until they are so old that those tapes of the fallen ones actually sound worn and distorted from the re-playing within the inner receivers.

It is strange, however, that it is never realized that ye are being subjected to the same old conditioning that ye have heard in your last experience, and the one before that, and the one still prior—on and on. The plots are the same. Very little new literature has been written in lo, thousands of years. If you were among the fallen ones, ye would have no need to be “creative” as the same few plots work, again and again, without need of change.

Ye ask: “How long will ye Masters wait while we grow”? Well, we have eons to wait in patience, while ye toy and try—again into ad nauseam. THE QUESTION IS, HOW LONG DO YOU HAVE TO WAIT? We know the hour of our coming and our going. Do ye know of the hour of thy coming and thy going, of your aborning in the womb of time, and your moving again through space to other shores? Ponder it carefully, chelas.

Can you be assured that if your task of fulfillment is not accomplished “this time” that there can be a next time on this beloved place? Is it possible that at some point all those ones with whom you will experience are also planning to complete their missions upon this place—will there be a place for thee?

Where will thee go to fulfill your inner blueprint when you are bound to Earth? With the attitude toward abortions, birth controlling and life itself, will thee have a way to come again?

You must look carefully within, chelas. What are thee about? I mean, what are thee REALLY about? Do you go here and there to be searching, to be entertained while the best “story performance gets thy vote of confidence”, looking like a reed blowing in the wind? Or—are you REALLY responding to the call of the soul for that Wholeness, for that Harmony, and for the Light which is your very Life, your very sustenance?

In this wondrous land where we are focused, you are a people of “goodwill”. This is a land of goodwill, a land of abundance that has been shared with the nations of the world. Thy people of goodwill have also been infiltrated by those who have come to steal the Light of the Christos and of the Mother and of God Himself, and to twist and to turn and to torture the children who hold to the path of truth. You see, chelas, they attack in efforts to cause ye ones denial of the Light and the goodwill and the God-government that WAS INTENDED TO BE MANIFEST IN THIS PLACE—IN THIS NATION!!

REINFORCE YOUR “WILL”

I have come forth to reinforce thy “will”, thy belief in the Higher causes. I have come to convince you, by the very essence of my presence, my life, my radiation, that the Ascended Masters ARE “REAL”. To doubt in their existence is to doubt the existence of your own Reality. To doubt The Path is to close the door to Life. To doubt the way as being shown is to move into “death”.

The Sacred Christed Circle declares evermore: “I AM the open door which no man can shut.” Do not give the power to anyone on any plane of existence to open and close the door of your consciousness. Give that power to no one, for God gave it to you to keep unto yourself, unto your Real Self, your own Christ Presence. Do not relinquish of it to anyone, and thereby you will not lose time in the detour of the personality-cult consciousness that is filled with maya and selfishness and manipulation.

I contact you for a cosmic purpose—to right the wrongs of civilization, to clear the way again in the marts of education and culture for the recognition that life itself is a path of initiation, that all of government and all of industry and all of learning must serve this end, this end to which Christ was born, to which Christ came into the world, to bear witness to the Truth.

Let us then see, one by one, how ye will eliminate from your life that which does not serve the cosmic purpose of bearing witness to the Truth of your own inner reality and your own inner being. Let us see how you will eliminate those factors and conditionings that rob you of your sleep, rob you of your energy, and keep you on the treadmill of economic survival. You had better consider the survival of your soul and be less concerned with thy status in society. This society will crumble.

How will you strip yourself, then day by day grow beyond those impediments to the will of God? Let us see how you mark the way of the overcomer.

Yes, civilization will crumble unless some among mankind respond with the fervor of the devotees of the will of Truth to hold the balance for America, South and North America, and for all evolutions of this world. Some will make the supreme sacrifice—a sacrifice that is not death but of total living. Some will build of the structures and foundation of the blueprinted plan of transition. I further assure you that the building will be upon thee ones in the physical form. It is totally upon your free will: what will be the determination of this age?

NO FAIRY GODMOTHERS

Cast your superstition into the flame of fairy godmothers and the such of mystical “do it for me” fantasy. There is no way of the “miracle” that will bring in such a golden time. It is the miracle of hard work, of application of the law, and of the science of initiation. That is the great miracle. And when the sons and daughters of Truth say, “A miracle has occurred this day”, it is the alchemy of the overcomers—always, not a “miracle”.

Precious ones, when you work the works of the Father Source, the Masters multiply your effort by the alchemy of the Sacred Holy Spirit. But this, too, is “law” and you can expect your investment in life to return to you with interest. It is the law of Abundant Life. If, however, you sow a narrow field, you will reap of a narrow harvest.

The will is in your hands, for I have already made my determination. You will give answer, for the Guardian Angel of your Presence takes note of the increments of the will. The increments of the will are the all-determining factors of who you will become, whether or not you will succeed in the material or the spiritual universe. Increments of will determine whether you will live or you will not live in the consciousness of Truth, the Father Source, God.

Chelas, I ask you this question: Are thee ready? Is thy will strong enough? Are ye ready to “WILL IT TO BE SO?” SO BE IT AND SELAH; I PLACE MY SEAL OF THE FIRST RAY UPON THESE WORDS AND UPON THY HEART CELLS. HOW WILL IT BE? HOW WILL IT BE? IT IS UP TO THEE!

I go now, leaving you in peace to ponder upon thy task and commitment. For, beloved ones, the task is great and always in the beginning, the help small. So be it, for it shall all come to pass as written. Will thee be in the story?

Solen aum Solen. I AM EL MORYA OF THE BLUE LIGHT OF BROTHERHOOD. MAY THE LIGHT OF LOVE AND BEAUTY SURROUND THEE BLESSED ONES.

CHANGING ENERGIES CONFUSING

Hatonn here, Dharma. It has been a long session. Thank you, chela, for thy acceptance. Always I stand by, little one, as the lessons are powerful and the energy almost to overload.

You will be fine. Take time to come again into thy own balance in gentleness and perhaps solitude. The lessons are of utmost importance and the teachings must have entry unto you ones in consciousness. We are melding of the subconscious teachings of thy sleep/dreamtime into thy wakening consciousness. The lessons learned on a Higher plane must now be brought into useable format of conscious thought and acceptance. So be it and the strength of understanding abides with thee.

I AM THAT I AM. I AM THY FATHER, ATON OF LIGHT. SO BE IT AND I PLACE MY HAND UPON THY HEAD IN BLESSING, LITTLE ONES OF MINE. YE SHALL BE GIVEN UNTO UNDERSTANDING OF TRUTH AND THE STRENGTHENING TO FULFILL OF THY PURPOSE. IT IS SO. IT IS DONE. AND YE WILL PREVAIL FOR I DECREE IT TO BE SO. ADONAI.

TRADING IN DEATH FUTURES

Beacons of compassion or money-grubbing low life—or just another episode of “Life on Earth”? You be the judge in this intriguing challenge in discernment, from the November 10 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

NEW YORK—An initial stock offering by a California company that buys life insurance policies from terminally ill people may help move the entire industry into the mainstream. Dignity Partners Inc. of San Francisco, which has operated since 1993, is one of an estimated 30 to 50 companies in what’s known as the viatical settlement business. [“Viatic—of or pertaining to a journey or to travel”, Funk & Wagnalls. A euphemism, no doubt, like “passing away”.] It would become just the second company specializing in viatical settlements to be publicly traded. Under a viatical settlement, a company agrees to pay its client a certain percentage of the life insurance policy’s face value. The company may purchase the policy for itself or for investors. Many transactions are arranged through brokers, who take a percentage of the profit. The amount paid for the policy depends, among other things, on how long the person is expected to live. Typically, patients with less than six months to live receive at least 80 percent of the face value of their policy. Patients with up to a year to live typically receive 70 percent, and those with up to 18 months to live usually receive 60 percent of the face value. The company pays the premiums on the policy and collects the death benefits when the client dies. According to industry sources, viatical settlement companies will purchase policies with a total face value of $300 million to $400 million this year.

Viatical settlements began in 1988 as a way for people whose illness had cost them their job and whose medical bills had exhausted their money to tap into what was often their only remaining financial resource. In its prospectus, Dignity Partners said 98 percent of the policies it has purchased have come from people with AIDS. But the company plans to follow an industry trend toward marketing to patients with cancer or heart disease. [I suppose, if one had a cynical bent, this might appear to be an enterprising effort on the part of the parasitic perpetrators of depopulating diseases to extract every last shekel from their “hosts”—even money that was set aside for family and loved ones.]

Steven Simon, former chairman of CAPX Corp., which was a publicly traded viatical settlement company, praised Dignity Partners’ operations. “Dignity is one of the shining lights in the industry.” Simon said. “They’ve done a very excellent job of finding the right mix between compassion and profits.” [This sounds bizarre, but when you stop and think about it, it’s not much more bizarre than the life insurance policy upon which it is based, in which you bet you will die and when you win, you’re not around to collect!]

DEATH WITH DIGNITY DENIED

This NEW YORK TIMES article by Susan Gilbert appeared in the November 22 issue of the DAILY

NEWS, [quoting:]

After 25 years of public outcry over the right to die with dignity doctors still are ignoring patients' last wishes, according to a new study of terminally ill patients. The study, reported in the current issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association, has found that doctors often misunderstand or ignore the patients' requests, with the result that large numbers of people still die alone, in pain and tethered to mechanical ventilators in intensive care units. Twenty-five years since the living will movement began, the study's authors say they have discovered that the wills, which are supposed to give terminally ill patients legal safeguards against unwanted medical treatment, offer virtually no protection. The $28 million study, financed by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, took place at six medical centers around the country. It was divided into two parts, each one lasting two years and involving similar groups of terminally ill patients.

During the first phase, the researchers gathered base-line information, including the percentage of patients who did not want aggressive medical treatment like cardiopulmonary resuscitation and mechanical ventilation, the percentage of doctors who knew their patients' wishes, how often aggressive treatment was used and how much pain patients were in before they died. The researchers found large gaps between what the patients wanted and what they got. Thirty-one percent of patients said they did not want cardiopulmonary resuscitation, but 80 percent of the doctors misunderstood or ignored their patients' wishes. Forty-nine percent of the patients who wanted to avoid cardiopulmonary resuscitation by having their doctors write do-not-resuscitate orders did not get their wish. The patients who did had to wait a long time for the doctors' orders [an average of 22-73 days]. Half the patients spent eight or more days in what the researchers defined as an undesirable state—comatose or receiving mechanical ventilation in an intensive-care unit. Half of all patients were also in moderate to severe pain during their last three days of life.

The second phase of the study tested a system called Support, designed to help patients avoid pain and unwanted life-prolonging treatments by fostering better communication between them and their doctors. Nurses met daily with each patient or the patient's family to discuss the patients' wishes for treatment and then relayed this information to the doctors and the hospital staff. With the aid of an advanced computer program, the nurses also gave the doctors and hospital staff estimates of each patient's chance of surviving for six months, his or her functional disability in two months and the outcome of cardiopulmonary resuscitation. By coincidence, the study's second phase began shortly after the federal Patient Self-Determination Act was passed in 1990. This act requires hospitals to inform patients upon admission of their right to refuse resuscitation and other lifesaving measures if they are near death, in accordance with state laws.

After phase two, there was no overall change in the percentage of do-not-resuscitate requests that were written, the amount of time it took for doctors to write them, the number of days that dying patients spent in undesirable states and the percentage of patients who died in pain. "The findings were startling to us," said Dr. William Knaus, who is chairman of the department of health evaluation sciences at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville. "Everyone from the American Medical Association to the American Cancer Society said that if you increase communication between patients and doctors and give doctors information on likely outcomes, you would decrease the amount of unwanted medical intervention. But that didn't work." [So how optimistic does that make you feel about euthanasia laws for doctor-assisted suicides?! For the probable outcome, refer to the February 28, 1995 NEWS DESK article on Euthanasia in the Netherlands, and/or check out the next article on the same subject.]

DEPOPULATION BY EUTHANASIA

Stephen Chapman shows the direction assisted suicides have led in the Netherlands in his column in the November 13 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

kevorkian pict.

AMSTERDAM—In Michigan, Dr. Jack Kevorkian continues to defy the law by helping people kill themselves. In the Netherlands, things are different. Here, doctors have government permission [I bet they DO!] to assist patients who want to commit suicide—and to euthanize those who are unable to do it themselves. By sanctioning and regulating such practices, the Dutch might be expected to avoid the sort of dangers represented by renegade doctors such as Kevorkian. Instead, they have ingeniously managed to institutionalize abuses on a mass scale. Allowing patients to choose their own end may seem fine in principle, but it has been a ghastly mess in practice.

A 1991 survey unearthed a disturbing fact. A doctor is supposed to give a patient a lethal potion only if the patient requests it. But physicians admitted killing about 1,000 patients without their consent. But that's not the way it's supposed to work. The regulations forbid euthanasia unless the patient has made a "voluntary and durable" request based on "full information". Doctors often ignore the most fundamental protection in the law—and the government approves. [Enough said! Doctor assisted suicides, living wills, meeting a hideous end in the Temple of Doom—these are all trappings of the allopathic medical model. They are by-products of our IGNORANCE on the subjects of health and nutrition, soil depletion, devitalized "foods", and the elite power-brokers who daily work to keep us helpless and ignorant. Oops! There I go sounding fanatical again! The antidote to ignorance is knowledge. The New Atlantean Press, P.O. Box 9638, Santa Fe, NM 87504, has many illuminating books for sale. The Phoenix Journals have covered a lot of these topics, as well, especially #42, UNHOLY ALLIANCE and #130, TRACKING DOWN THE KILLER AND OTHER FORMS OF MURDER.]

ANOTHER NOBEL DISGRACE

The Nobel Peace Prize. Wow, pretty prestigious, right?? Ha! Presumably, we CONTACT readers are not so easily fooled. Here's an excerpted article from the October 27 issue of EIR (Executive Intelligence Review), a Lyndon LaRouche publication), [quoting:]

Bertrand Russell was arguably the most evil man of the 20th century. Russell's vision was to use atomic weapons to police a one-world dictatorship—which might run under the aegis of the United Nations, but which would in fact be the British Empire reconstructed. Russell did not realize the entirety of his evil vision, but we can give him credit for the present state of affairs, in which we face the possible descent into a new dark age. Russell was one of the founders of the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, in 1945, and it was he who kicked off the Pugwash movement in 1955. This became a vehicle for a typical British double game. On the one hand, Winston Churchill initiated the Cold War with his Iron Curtain speech, and Russell, on the other, was playing the British card of detente. [A dandy corollary of Hegelian dialectics!]

Pugwash became an instrument for Soviet as well as British propaganda initiatives, but it was always primarily an instrument of British State policy. On October 13, 1995, Russell's hatchetman and longtime collaborator, Josef Rotblat, was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for 1995. Rotblat is currently the head of the Pugwash Conference on Science and World Affairs, an international organization.

In 1946, Russell had written an article in the Bulletin of the Atomic Scientists, in which he advocated the creation of a totalitarian world government whose purpose would be "to preserve the peace". [Sound familiar?] The following quotation from that article gives the flavor of his thinking: "When I speak of an international government, I mean one that really governs....An international government...must have the only atomic bombs, the only plant for producing them, the only air force, the only battleships, and, generally, whatever is necessary to make it irresistible." [The NEW, revised, reformed, United Nations—see final article.]

QUACK-ADEMICS WIN NOBEL PRIZE

The next article is from the same source, [quoting:]

The Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences awarded its 1995 Nobel Prize for chemistry Oct. 11 to the three fakers credited with developing the "theory" behind environmentalist claims that the ozone layer was depleted by using CFCs as a chemical refrigerant. On the basis of this hoax, an international ban on CFCs (chlorofluorocarbons)—the basis for vital cooling and refrigeration systems worldwide—is currently being implemented by decree. F. Sherwood Rowland of the University of California; his former student Mario Molina, now at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; and Paul Crutzen of the Netherlands, Europe's "Mr. Ozone", shared the prize. In its tribute to the winners, the Academy said: "By explaining the chemical mechanisms that affect the thickness of the ozone layer, the three researchers have contributed to our salvation from a global environment problem that could have catastrophic consequences."

The alleged catastrophe presumes that the use of CFCs reduces the thickness of the ozone layer—thus admitting more ultraviolet radiation from the sun, resulting in increased incidence of skin cancer. No competent scientific evidence of such a connection has been produced—but there is ample evidence that a ban on CFCs will eliminate enough existing refrigeration systems, to jeopardize the food, medical, and other supplies which tens of millions of people depend upon for survival.

SESAME STREET: NOT SO GREAT FOR YOUR KIDS!

Since we're knocking down national/international icons, let's take a closer look at Bert and Ernie—here are some excerpts from Mona Charen's column which appeared in the November 16 issue of the DAILY NEWS, [quoting:]

As congressional budget conferees huddle in back rooms, ironing out differences in the House and Senate budgets, one thing is clear—Big Bird has survived the ax. Leaving aside arguments about the proper scope of the federal government, Kay Hymowitz, writing in the Autumn edition of the City Journal, argues that Sesame Street does not deserve its status as educational icon. Far from preparing young children for school and the wider world of learning, Sesame Street grooms its charges only for more television.

All of the hype notwithstanding, Sesame Street doesn't actually glorify learning at all. It glorifies television and the youth culture. In-jokes and references to other television programs are endless. And while they can be extremely amusing to adults—Alistair Cookie is my favorite—they soar above the heads of the preschoolers in the audience. Sesame Street invokes (and spoofs) soap operas, game shows, cultural fare like Great Performances, and most of all, commercials. Indeed, Sesame Street is self-consciously modeled on commercials, with fast cuts, jazzy music and very, very short segments. If your child cannot concentrate for more than 30 seconds, Sesame Street, in marked contrast to other programs aimed at preschoolers like Barney and Mister Rogers, reinforces that.

pict of sesame street

Even if the show's claims about improving familiarity with letters and numbers are true, Hymowitz argues, "identifying the letter A is about as central to reading as defining shortstop is to playing baseball—necessary but wildly insufficient. The skills required for reading are a complex mix of concentration, persistence, the linking of concepts and more. Far from teaching concentration, Sesame Street schools viewers in video surfing, short takes on everything from addition to shapes and sounds.

And then there is the matter of content. The cultural tone of Sesame Street is politically correct through and through. All families are fine, kids are instructed. Some have one daddy; some have two. The worst behavior on the part of a child is not pouting, hitting, or cruelty, but wasting water. Although Sesame Street is undeniably clever and carefully crafted, it does little to stimulate children's imaginations. Enchantment gets short shrift on Sesame Street, where the tone is smart-alecky and worldly wise. "Hip" and "cool" are the favorite words and the preferred mood. It is all image and flash, little depth or emotion. Sometimes fun for adults, it teaches preschoolers all the wrong lessons. [Like all television, Sesame Street's main lesson is passivity—watching, rather than doing.]

BEYOND THE U.N.

The mainstream media has long touted the United Nations as the "hope of peace in a turbulent world". So when this message begins to change to "the U.N. is outmoded and in need of reform", WATCH OUT! It's not because newspapers and magazines such as Reader's Digest are finally catching on to the Khazarian Elite conspiracy—Reader's Digest IS the conspiracy—or at least one of its transmission belts. Remember the United Nations was created as a vehicle to take us to the NEW WORLD ORDER. Perhaps it's time to begin to condition the masses for the next—or final—phase of ONE WORLD GOVERNMENT. The following is from a two-part report by Dale Van Atta that appeared in the October and November issues of READER'S DIGEST, [quoting:]

As the United Nations approaches its 50th anniversary this year, Reader's Digest assigned Rov-ing Editor Dale Van Atta to examine U.N. operations and effectiveness. For four months he interviewed dozens of officials here and abroad and pored over U.N. budget documents and confidential files [Right.] He found an institution in critical need of reform.

YUGOSLAVIA—Sonja's Kon-Tiki is a notorious Serbian watering hole six miles north of Sarajevo. While Serb soldiers perpetrated atrocities in nearby Bosnian villages, local residents reported that U.N. peacekeepers from France, Ukraine, Canada, and New Zealand regularly visited Sonja's drinking and eating with these very same soldiers—and sharing their women. The women of Sonja's, however, were actually prisoners of the Serb soldiers. As one soldier, Borislav Herak, would later confess, he visited Sonja's several times a week, raping some of the 70 females present and killing two of them. Tragically, Sonja's Kon-Tiki illustrates much of what has plagued U.N. peacekeeping operations: incompetent commanders, undisciplined soldiers, alliances with aggressors, failure to prevent atrocities and at times even contributing to the horror. And at the level of waste, fraud and abuse is overwhelming.

SOMALIA—After the Americans left, the U.N. took over in May 1993 with UNOSOM II. The $2-million-a-day operation turned the former U.S. embassy complex into an 80-acre walled city boasting air-conditioned housing and a golf course. When U.N. officials ventured out of the compound, their "taxis" were helicopters that cost "500,000 a week. Meanwhile, the peacekeeping effort disintegrated, particularly as warlord Mohammed Aidid harassed UNOSOM II troops. As the civil war continued, Somalis starved. But U.N. peacekeepers—on a food budget of $ 56-million-a-year—dined on fruit from South America, beef from Australia and frozen fish from New Zealand and the Netherlands.

Thousands of yards of barbed wire arrived with no barbs; hundreds of light fixtures to illuminate the streets abutting the compound had no sockets for light bulbs. What procurement didn't waste, pilferage often took care of. Peacekeeping vehicles disappeared with regularity, and Egyptian U.N. troops were suspected of large-scale black-marketing of minibuses. These losses, however, were eclipsed in a single night by an enterprising thief who broke into a U.N. office in Mogadishu and made off with $3.9 million in cash. The office door was easy pickings: its lock could be jimmed with a credit card. The money, stored in the bottom drawer of a filing cabinet, had been easily visible to dozens of U.N. employees.

RWANDA—The relief effort was soon corrupted when the U.N. let the very murderers who'd massacred a half-million people take over the camps.... [Classic U.N. move! This article includes many other examples of waste and corruption. But it carefully ignores the REAL treachery underlying the United Nations and its goal of total enslavement of the world's population.]

SOLTEC: KEEP YOUR LIGHT SHIELDS UP!

11/26/95 SOLTEC

Toniose Soltec, present in the Light of the Most Radiant and Holy God of Light. Thank you for your attention and for listening. We appreciate your willingness to give an ear to us at this time. So very many things are occurring, on and off your planet, at this exact moment, and much hangs in the balance presently. You are at a most precarious point in your journeys, and at times, little seems to make any sense to you ones.

However, know that though you cannot see that which is taking place, and you cannot make sense of it, we shall be present always to guide our people along, if they will keep their spaces clear and their ears tuned to our frequencies.

This task is not an easy one to accomplish right now, for your planet is being bombarded by frequencies which are knocking you ones off balance. That is why it is imperative that you keep your spaces clear and your shields up and enhanced. If you find it necessary to clear space a dozen or more times per day, do so. Do not worry that you are failing in some way—only know that, because of the increased level of attack, you may need constant reinforcement in your protection. But, on to other things.

Yesterday, November 25, 1995, your planet experienced an extremely large earthquake in an area known as the Sakhalin Islands. This is politically a part of Russia, but geographically and geologically speaking, part of the north end of the Japanese Islands. And as you ones know, that entire area is being rocked continually by moderate to large earthquakes. The quake yesterday measured, by your machines, a magnitude of 8.5 and was approximately 10 miles deep. This is the same area that experienced a large earthquake earlier in the year; I believe it was measured at 7.5 or so, by your scientists. In that quake, well over 2000 lost their lives.

The more interesting bit of news about yesterday's earthquake is the lack of reporting by any of your news media services. Ones have been searching out information regarding it, and the data is sorely missing. Now, listen, chelas: whether it was indeed an 8.5, or actually even a 9.5, matters less than the fact that you are receiving even more heavily censored news coverage than usual.

Did you know that there were several "6.0" (official magnitude) quakes during the past three days of your counting along the Pacific Ring of Fire? I thought not. The geologic activity of your planet is purposely being censored. Why, you ask? There are many reasons, but the main purpose is simply to keep you in the dark, so that you shall go about your daily business as usual, asleep at the wheel.

You are considered less than intelligent, and incapable of understanding and sorting out for selves. You are being treated as slaves and captives, and kept in the dark about everything—except that which will aid and abet the crooks who THINK themselves in charge.

You can bet your sweet life that if they knew a killer quake was going to hit the downtown Los Angeles area, you would not know about it until after the fact. The loss of lives, and the suffering of those who would survive, is considered less important than the supposed panic that would ensue if prior notification were given. You are being fed pabulum and most of you are eating it up in large helpings!

Let us clear up one thing: Those who THINK themselves in charge of your planet and your lives are sadly mistaken. There is only ONE Who is ultimately in charge and that ONE is GOD!

The dark forces may seem to be winning at the moment, but we have a little bit of news for them—for their days are short, and their moment of accounting approaches rapidly! Broken agreements do not make brownie points with GOD’S people, and believe us when we tell you that ALL the broken agreements and promises have been logged and noted!

Enough said on that. Commander Hatonn may wish to elaborate. [Pause at 2:27 A.M.]

Well, chela, you have just experienced a head-on attack personally—or shall I say, your husband has. It is most interesting how, just after we sat down here to work, that his pains began. That which he experienced [which Soltec’s scribe, Kali, at first thought might be a heart attack] was a direct, low frequency attack, which affects the nerves. As you saw, there were no tight or knotted muscles, just severe pain in the shoulders and back when drawing in or letting out of the breath. The increase in the protection shield is not to be taken lightly. DO IT!

Planet Earth is in for some rough times ahead, dear ones. It is going to be difficult, at best, even for you ones. That is another reason that it is so important that you keep your spaces cleared and the protection of Light about you, especially in the coming week.

Politically, economically and geologically, it is heating up to a point of boiling and the lid is about ready to blow off the pot. All the preparations which you ones have been doing up to this point shall now begin to pay off, so to speak.

The sorting and shaking down has taken place for a purpose. You are at the time where all must be working together as a well-oiled, well-tuned machine. Those ones who have moved on down the road did so, because they knew they were not pulling together with the rest of the team. We wish them well, and hold no hard feelings toward any. Each must follow his or her own path and make that journey for selves. Take comfort in the understanding of personal destiny and personal decisions. Though you may wish for another to come into the fullness of Understanding and Light, know that it may not be their desire to do so, and allow them to go their way—and harbor no ill feelings toward them.

For those who stay the course, we cannot promise that it shall not be difficult, for if I did so, I would be speaking untruth. Though your paths may be filled with potholes and boulders, know that we shall be there Lighting each step of the way. All you need do is call upon us.

Changes are taking place at such a rapid rate, that it is nearly impossible to keep up with them, even from our perspective and vantage point. Therefore, if you ones are feeling frustrated and confused from time to time, know that it is due to the fact that these changes are occurring in rapid-fire succession.

It is nearly impossible for us to track the geologic activity on the planet, and it is impossible at this point to tell the natural from the man-made activity. All is becoming melded into one grand geologic event.

The French are continuing to explode nuclear devices in the depths of the Pacific Ocean, and yet your United States is suspiciously silent about the events. Between these explosive releases of energy and the little tit-for-tat games being played out above your planet—there are enough shenanigans going on to cause the entire planet to be activated to critical levels.

Moreover, there are over half a dozen volcanoes erupting presently on your planet, as well. They are not all in the Pacific region, though the majority of the major eruptions are there. Mount Vesuvius has been rumbling and spewing out ash and smoke for several weeks, and the large volcano outside Mexico City has been experiencing eruptions, as well.

It is becoming more difficult for your scientists to not admit that geologic activity is on the rise so, therefore, the reports are simply being censored from the major news media. You are deliberately being kept in the dark and misinformed! None of this is by accident—it is by design!

As the next several days unfold, be cautious, be alert, be ready for anything, for anything is possible. California is hanging by merely a thread, and that thread is mighty thin. But, God works in mysterious ways, chela.

Those ones, such as Gordon Michael Scallion, are also sending out warnings for the coming days, though they are overly cautious about that which they say. I, however, will be quite blunt and tell you that it is extremely volatile right now, and the volatility is only going to increase in the coming days. That is why it is so IMPORTANT that you keep alert and stay clear and shielded.

I know I am sounding like a broken record but, at this point, I do not care. If I have to remind you a hundred times a day, then so be it. I cannot emphasize it too much right now, for there is far too much at stake to take this lightly!

Let me close off for now, for we are extremely busy in the monitoring department. Just know that we are always near to you, and all you need do is call upon us. Many are going to perish, and it is not going to be a pleasant experience for you or for us. However, together, we shall see this all through, and we shall get there—very soon.

Thank you for your time, for your attention, and for your service. We honor all of you who have so selflessly given of themselves in these past years. The days ahead are the reason that you have been in such intensive training. That training will pay off, and all the lessons you have received shall serve you well.

Go in peace; go in Light; and go with the blessings of Holy God of Light. I am Toniose Soltec, in that Light, to clear. Salu.

CHAPTER 9

THE NEWS DESK

by Phyllis Linn 12/1/95

PSSST, BUDDY— WANNA BUY SOME FAKE FAT?

From the November 18 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

Top nutritionists told the government Friday it's safe to approve the first zero-calorie artificial fat, leaving it to consumers to "vote at the cash register" whether they want to accept the side effects. [I wonder what it means to be a "top nutritionist"—is it a political title?—or an employee of the fake fat fabricator?] The Food and Drug Administration will decide within two months whether it will accept the recommendation. Scientific advisers [owned by Procter and Gamble Co.?] told the FDA that olestra should be sold even though it has some unpleasant [what a euphemism!] side effects and there are questions about its long-term nutritional consequences.

Olestra is a synthetic chemical made of sugar and vegetable oil. It looks like regular fat but is undigestible and passes directly through the body. [When did we ever fool Mother Nature and get away with it??] Manufacturer Procter & Gamble Co. says olestra could help Americans dramatically cut consumption of fat. Critics point out that olestra can act as a laxative, causing diarrhea, cramps and other gastrointestinal disturbances. It also can rob the body of nutrients, including the vitamins A, D, E, and K that attach themselves to the fatty substance and slide out of the body. Olestra also depletes the body of nutrients such as beta-carotene, found in vegetables such as carrots and thought to be important in preventing cancer and blindness. Procter & Gamble originally asked the FDA in 1987 for permission to sell olestra to replace fat in all foods. [Maybe this article should go with Rick's ongoing series on depopulation by the elite controllers!]

U.N. REPORT REVEALS FEMALE INFANTICIDE IN INDIA

From the November 20 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

Systematic sex discrimination, including the abortion of female fetuses, has held down by as much as 50 million the number of women in India's population, according to a U.N. report. The UNICEF report, published last week, says in most countries, there are typically 105 women for every 100 men. In India, there are fewer than 93 women for every 100 men. India's population is about 900,000,000. "Only where societies specifically and systematically discriminate against women are fewer of them found to survive," said the report.

According to statistics published by UNICEF, the U.N. children's agency, the problem is getting worse. It cited census statistics as showing the ratio of women to 100 men in India has declined from 97.2 in 1901 to 92.7 in 1991. "There is a widespread and growing use of ultrasound and amniocentesis to detect female fetuses and abort them. The practice is now spreading into the villages," UNICEF spokeswoman Gillian

Wilcox said. Wilcox said although the Indian government passed legislation last year outlawing the practices, the effect of the law had been to drive the operations underground. Wilcox said the main reason for the continuing prevalence of female infanticide in parts of India was the dowry system, which although long prohibited by law, continues to play a significant role in Indian society. Dowries and wedding expenses regularly run to more than $35,000 in a country where the average civil servant earns $3,500 a year. Added to this is the low status of women in rural India, where they perform tasks such as carrying water and firewood and tending to animals. [A most pitiful situation, but I recall recently reading an article about the same trend right here in the U.S. of A. of aborting female fetuses.]

CASH-FREE CAFETERIA

From the November 20 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

How do government accountants save money? They eat at a cash-free cafeteria. Sounds like a joke [a BAD joke!], but a cashless cafeteria is opening today at a U.S. Defense Department accounting office in Orlando, and it's expected to be a model of efficiency. "This is a show case facility," said Col. Robert Munn, commander of the Defense Finance and Accounting Service complex at the Orlando Naval Training Center. Its automated cafeteria, the first of its kind at a U.S. military base, looks much like an ordinary snack room with one high-tech exception. The dozen vending machines—offering bottles of juice, pints of ice cream, and potpies for the microwave—accept no coins or bills. Instead, the computerized machines take so-called "smart cards". The cards—slightly thinner cousins of ATM and credit cards—work on the debit principle.

cafe scene

A cafeteria machine akin to a bill changer sells smart cards worth up to $20. Cardholders then buy lunches in much the same way motorists pay for gas at the pump. Microchips implanted in each card allow the vending computers to check a cardholder's balance and deduct the amount of the purchase. The computerized machines should require less maintenance, as well as less security, and eliminate the need for anyone to retrieve and count the cash. The computers also will keep their own inventory books. Eventually, the cafeteria pay telephones and newspaper box also will accept smart cards as will the cash register at the Navy Exchange dining hall. [One more level of programming to encourage us to embrace "The Cashless Society".]

CAN YOU GET "MAD COW DISEASE" FROM EATING BEEF?

From the November 24 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

LONDON—American and European doctors called Thursday for extensive new research into whether people can catch a deadly brain disease from eating beef from cattle infected with "mad cow disease".

Several cases of Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease, a degenerative infection that turns the brain spongy and kills all its victims, have renewed debate over how the disease is transmitted. The rare disease has killed several dairy farmers and two adolescents in Britain in recent months. Doctors want to find out whether humans can catch the disease from cattle infected with bovine spongiform encephalopathy. The disease swept through British cattle herds in the 1980s. [Maybe the definition of a “rare disease” is “a just-off-the-drawing-board, trial-run disease” which, if “successful” could become a very common disease.]

GOVERNMENT SECRETS

From the November 22 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

WASHINGTON—A presidentially appointed review board appealed Tuesday for help in gathering film, photographs or other records of the 1963 assassination of President John F. Kennedy still in private hands. On the eve of the 32nd anniversary of the killing, the Assassination Records Review Board said it would like to hear from anyone who knows of original snapshots or film footage taken of Kennedy in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963, before, during or after the shooting. “It is possible that important pictures were taken in Dealey Plaza that day which neither the government nor the public has ever seen,” said John Tunheim, chairman of the board. [CONTACT reader “2x6” astutely remarks: “Yeah. Give it to them and it will disappear forever. Also the giver!”]

RTC BLUE-LIGHT SPECIALS

From the November 24 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

SAN FRANCISCO—The fat lady over at the Resolution Trust Corp. is getting ready to sing. Finally. On Dec. 31, RTC goes dark after a six-year run during which its mission was to liquidate assets held by insolvent lenders caught up in the nation’s savings and loan association scandal of the late 1980s. [No. It’s REAL mission was to loot the S&Ls of assets at taxpayers’ expense. And remember, the RTC was responsible for the shady, underhanded shenanigans that resulted in the loss of the Ekkers’ home. Rick Martin covered this in his “Valley of Radiance” series of articles in the February 14-May 9, 1995 issues of CONTACT.] For its grand finale, RTC will offer investors their final major chance to pick up agency assets—this time nonperforming and performing loans—during a three-day sale in December. The loans have a book value of about $700 million. There are 6,100 loans that are grouped into 390 packages—ranging in book value from $100,000 to $22 million.

GOVERNMENT SECRETS

From the October 30 issue of NEWSWEEK, for those of you who still think it’s paranoid to suspect your government of wrongdoing, [quoting:]

The Reagan Administration did not have to invade Grenada in 1988 to rescue some 500 U.S. medical students, because the Cuban-backed government had offered to let the United States airlift them out days before the invasion, says a former Reagan official. In his forthcoming book, Warriors of Disinformation, Alvin Snyder, who headed the USIA's TV arm, says Reagan went ahead with the assault to show the U.S. armed forces could fight and win. U.S. officials didn't disclose the evacuation offer, he says, because it would have undermined their efforts to rally public support.

Snyder also reveals the U.S. officials doctored the transcript of communications between Soviet ground control and Korean Airline Flight 007 before the plane was shot down. As a result, it appeared the Soviets knew they were firing at a civilian plane, which was not the case, he says. [KAL Flight 007, as you may recall, was the Elite's termination of whistle-blower Congressman Larry MacDonald.]

MOTORISTS MURDERED FOR CAR WHEELS

This article, from the November 24 issue of the Antelope Valley DAILY NEWS, is a fitting metaphor of our times, [quoting:]

DALLAS—Rapper Snoop Doggy Dogg immortalizes the flashy car accessories in song, calling them “Danas”. One young man says they attract women. A Los Angeles cop, however, calls them “death rims”. Police across the country report that people are being killed by thieves who covet their custom car wheels, the fanciest of which are plated with gold. They can cost $4,500 a set [Five times more than my whole car is worth!]. “It’s an increasing problem,” said Dallas police spokesman Ed Spencer. “And it’s senseless.”

In Dallas, at least nine people have been killed for their wheels this year, police say. Even in Greenville, Texas, with a population slightly more than 23,000, authorities attribute a slaying this month to the victim’s gold wheels. Los Angeles police estimated that 10 deaths a year are connected to carjackings involving fancy rims. Police say 467 sets of wheels have been stolen this year in Dallas, some at gunpoint.

In recent years, many cities have reported that youths are killed or assaulted for their fancy athletic shoes or jackets emblazoned with sports logos. Now, custom wheels have become status symbols.

NATION OF ISLAM BLAMES JEWS FOR LOSS OF SECURITY CONTRACT

From the November 12 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

WASHINGTON—A Nation of Islam-run company accused federal authorities of bowing to political pressure from Jewish groups to end the firm’s contract for public housing security in Baltimore, The Washington Post reported. The Department of Housing and Urban Development last week ordered the city of Baltimore to end its contract with Nation of Islam Security Agency, charging the city with violating federal procurement regulations.

Abdul Arif Muhammad, spokesman and general counsel for the security agency, told the paper the agency planned to seek an injunction in federal court on Monday to stop HUD from terminating its $4.6 million contract with the Baltimore Housing Authority. It also plans to sue HUD for damages. “HUD has been forced into a situation. They have capitulated to the pressure of the American Jewish League and the American Jewish Congress,” Muhammad said. “We intend to stay. This is a legally binding contract.

They have deprived us of due process,” he said. Under the order, Nation of Islam’s agency is to be replaced at Baltimore’s public housing projects by the Wells Fargo Security Co., which submitted the lowest bid last year. In a letter to the city’s housing authority, HUD said Baltimore had improperly given Nation of Islam’s agency the top ranking over Wells Fargo in a re-evaluation ordered by the federal agency. Wells Fargo will save the city about $1 million annually. [Let’s face it: saving money has NEVER been a serious government concern.]

CHAPTER 10

A CHRISTMAS UPDATE
FROM MICHAEL MAHOLY
by Michael Maholy 12/1/95

With this being my second Christmas season in which the CONTACT has been actively featuring my true life story of my connection with the power hungry ELITE in the “Banana Republic” of Arkansas, and with the drug and weapons smugglers that proliferate the region, I would like to once again wish you all a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. I would also like to thank each and every one of you who choose to stand by my side throughout the turmoi and troubles I am encountering in my journey. It is important to know and understand just what each and everyone of us will face in the “now” future. I once told you that UNITED we are stronger, wiser, and as the single drop of rain falls from the sky, it will form a stream which in turn will form a mighty river to flow across our great nation.

Being under the tight supervision that is on going, I once again have encountered some minor problems here at the prison pertaining to my writings of the TRUTH. It seems that there is a Federal code that does not permit the distribution of any manuscript material by a Federal inmate for the viewing by the general public. Thus the delay in my story, CIA PIPELINE, being available for print. It took awhile but as the pieces of the puzzle came together, I found that in fact the prison officials were indeed intercepting my material all along, preventing my manuscript from reaching its ultimate destination: the citizens who search out the TRUTH. I shall prevail however, and continue to bring forth the entire story as well as current updates from time to time.

As I related to you in the last update, things down in Arkansas and all the way to Washington are really starting to get warm for those who may have thought that they were out of the reach of the law. While the GOP-led Congress continues to turn a blind eye to the matters surrounding the “Whitewash” affair, independent counsel Kenneth Starr is actively pursuing leads that continue to point the finger at so many of the Clinton “Circle of Elite”, many of whom were involved with myself, as well as with Barry Seal and Terry Reed.

I will soon inform you of when Bill Clinton first became involved in the major drug smuggling operations with strong ties to the Iran-Contra Affair, the Mena and Nella airstrips, and the vast amounts of money being stashed away in secret foreign bank accounts. Up until recently, the clandestine operations that started over a decade ago in Arkansas had been virtually ignored by law enforcement agencies, until I, along with but a handful of other brave souls, stepped forward to try to put an end to the “madness”.

It is in Starr’s attempt to trace cash contributions and to make sense of the complicated financial relationships linking the Clintons with suspect businessmen, banks and land schemes, that the story begins to unfold.

My last “interrogation” by the FBI, late last summer, combined with the testimony of former Arkansas state trooper L.D. Brown, has given credibility to the accusations that Bill Clinton himself had firsthand knowledge of the illegal Iran-Contra mission that spawned its beginnings on the rural airstrips of Mena and Nella, Arkansas. And now, with even more allegations coming from more Arkansas state troopers, the continued reluctance of the Justice Department to investigate my claims is going to be increasingly hard to ignore. Especially as further allegations and disclosures of the Arkansas drug economy emerge.

Last month, “Whitewater” investigators questioned me and Brown about our explosive claims that then Governor Bill Clinton knew of all the illegal operations based at Mena and did nothing to stop it. Brown, as you may recall, served in Clinton’s private security detail and also flew on two missions with the legendary drug smuggler Barry Seal. I know the truth of these missions since Mr. Seal was a cohort of mine very early in the game. Brown will also back my allegations that Clinton was fully aware of both: a Mena-based CIA operation, and that cocaine was being returned to the state on transport planes used to ship weapons to the Nicaraguan rebels.

In flying the two missions with Barry Seal, Brown would find out, in much the same way I did, the involvement between the CIA, George Bush, Oliver North and Bill Clinton. You begin the game in a relatively minor capacity, and as time goes on you find yourself slipping farther into the abyss from which very few have escaped unscathed.

During my “lie detector test”, which began as an investigation into the deaths of two young boys on the outskirts of Little Rock, I informed the FBI investigator out of Oklahoma that the state troopers involved in their deaths were also assigned to my case and other DEA cases throughout the 1980s. Being hooked up to their very own “TRUTH MACHINE” I knew it would be a good time to come clean with some information into my own case. And with my allegations that the state police shredded many “key” documents, and the fact that several bundles of money they confiscated in their search never made it into their evidence files, I knew I had hit upon a sore spot: unscrupulous law-enforcement officials.

Since my allegations, despite police insistence that no document shredding took place, and that none of the DEA or other law officers kept any money found at my home, details are beginning to emerge of the extensive document destruction that went on at the state police headquarters where I was initially interrogated in Little Rock. But all of their handiwork has gone for naught. What the political scum in Arkansas must now worry about is that the most sensitive materials, both in photo and “official” documentation, are in my possession and hidden away in a “safe” location. And as soon as I am free to retrieve this material, Clinton’s house of cards will surely crumble along with the rest of the players.

Coming through another friend and associate, Terry Reed, is yet more hard evidence that the claims I profess are all indeed true. As I have told Rick Martin, I still have many loyal friends within the intelligence community, friends who continue to show that loyalty by securing data that would otherwise be virtually impossible to get my hands on. This is just one of the ways that I am able to gather FBI case files on certain individuals. I have also come into possession of several copies of depositions for Terry Reed’s court records that tell a very interesting story of the Mena and Nella connection to the drug running and weapons trading. Reed’s attorney Robert Meloni and special investigator Joe Dunlap are now in constant communication with me, informing me on various details that will prove not only Reed’s involvement, but mine as well.

Now, in accordance with the documents in state police control, in steps one Michelle Tudor. Michelle worked as a secretary for over two years in the Arkansas state police organized crime unit. She is about to tell, under oath, how she was instructed by her then boss, Lt. John Morrow, to destroy an enormous number of intelligence files in a two-day binge of shredding. According to Tudor, whose husband Jim Tudor (another old acquaintance who hunted and fished with me regularly up in the pristine mountains of northern Arkansas) is also an Arkansas state trooper, the amount of documents that she was ordered to shred was massive! So massive was the shredded evidence that once she was done, the material then had to be put into large garbage bags that the state prisoners used when raking the leaves while assigned to work around headquarters. She will also state that never before that time or at any time since, has she been asked to shred such an enormous amount of intelligence information.

Tudor also recalls that during her two years at the state police headquarters, any complaints from the citizenry that came in pertaining to the Mena operations were destroyed immediately. And this happened on a regular basis. It can now be verified by Terry Reed's attorney, Robert Meloni, that the documents that Tudor had shredded did in fact contain sensitive information relating to Mena and drug/weapons smuggling. One document in particular that Tudor will testify to contained data signed by Oliver North and had my photo and name throughout the file.

It was this past May, while I was in the "hole" at Leavenworth U.S.P. for allegations into my attempted escape and subversive actions against the Federal government (which were dropped), that Arkansas State Police Commander Tommy Goodwin was questioned about the alleged shredding that took place concerning my case files and the files containing sensitive information on Mena. Goodwin's reply was that to his knowledge, he was totally unaware of any documents that may have been shredded. The key phrase in this sentence is, "to his knowledge". Goodwin, you must understand, is just a puppet like the rest of the law-enforcement officials in the "Land of Opportunity" [Arkansas]. And the Masters of Evil can and do pull the strings of these officials at any time they want something or someone buried.

It has also come to my attention that former state trooper Brown has been subpoenaed by Reed's attorney Robert Meloni and that I'm also to be included in the courtroom drama that will soon unfold. Brown is expected to testify that Goodwin personally informed him that he ordered the "purging" of Mena intelligence documents after a Freedom of Information Act request was made for the files. When this request was made, Goodwin immediately contacted his "superiors" to find out how much of the information should be sent out to headquarters in Oklahoma City, and which parts should be destroyed entirely. Now the regional offices for the DEA, the FBI, and of course the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation are located, or should I say were located, in the Federal Building in downtown Oklahoma City. And we all know what happened to the Federal Building there. What this all means is that vital documents, photos, and other intelligence data from the Mena investigation were all destroyed in the April 19th bombing.

Trooper Brown also disclosed with extreme detail, in a 190-page deposition, that Clinton knew very well just what was going on in rural Mena and Nella. He spoke of a man from the mountains with an isolated dirt runway landing strip behind his home. It was there that Bill Clinton, Dan Lasater, Don Tyson, and members of the Ward family out of Little Rock, would fly to hunt and fish, and distribute large sums of money to various law-enforcement officials who had helped in the distribution of Narcotics. Now who was this man that Brown spoke of in his deposition? That's correct. Yours truly!

In October 1984, Barry Seal telephoned Brown from my home in the mountains, to inform Brown that he was aware of Brown's application for employment with the CIA that was on file at Langley. This was with Clinton's complete knowledge and full support. Seal arranged a meeting with Brown at a well known downtown restaurant in Little Rock called Cajun's Wharf. At this time Seal explained to him about the airstrips and his role in smuggling for the CIA. It was during this meeting that I reached the impression that Seal knew Clinton very well, and this fact was later confirmed by Mr. Brown as well.

Soon after this meeting, Brown would be making the first of his two trips to Nicaragua along with Seal and myself. The first trip would take place late in the summer of 1984 and the next trip we would cross paths with the boys from Miami, Max Mermelstein and Rafa Salazar. Seal had to remind Brown not to carry any type of I.D. that could possibly identify him in the event of capture. We would leave from Mena and fly to New Orleans to refuel and pick up other crates of weapons to be delivered down in Central America. This delivery would consist of an air drop over the jungle at precise coordinates. The crates contained M-16 rifles, ammunitions and other military supplies. On our return trip, our plane, a C-130 multi-engine military cargo craft, would stop off at Tegucigalpa, the capital of Honduras, to pick up duffel bags of cocaine and high-grade marijuana. Back at Mena, I witnessed the 25,000 dollar payment to Brown from Seal for his first trip, in which he did little more than keep us amused with his stories of Governor Clinton's sexual desires and money-making scams, and Hillary's sexual cravings and lesbian desires. Brown definitely had the "inside scoop" on these stories.

It was also brought to my attention that Brown's recent testimony under oath would confirm that Clinton had acknowledged privately to him that the cocaine we returned was part of a deal between his friend Dan Lasater, and his half-brother Rodger Clinton. Oh, and lest I forget, some of the stash would go to several "close" girl friends of Hillary's up in Chicago.

Barry and I would have to personally deliver the "exotics" to Hillary's friends and other associates. We would fly into Chicago's lakefront airport at Migg's field and take a limo from there to an unknown destination for the drop. (That's another story.)

You people will have a front-row seat in the courtroom drama as it unfolds and a new dimension of the Mena chapter is unveiled. You will hear many allegations in this story of greed, lust, and corruption. I will do my best to keep you all informed as the real story unwinds. I must apologize for my tardiness in answering some of your letters, but the tremendous amount of legal data that I'm now being asked to provide takes up most of my free time. But please continue to write as it gives me the courage and the conviction to carry on.

As many of you know, we have been having some difficulties at Federal prisons around the country and the security has been on alert for some time. Because of this I ask you all to please continue to support the CONTACT as they are the only outlet that presents the TRUTH to the people of this nation, Canada, and several others as well. I will continue to answer as many letters from you as my postal funds allow. Please excuse any brief delay you may encounter.

In closing I would like to thank you all from the bottom of my heart for all the love and support you have given me over the past year. May God bless you, one and all. One final note, remember, Mama Bear, I told you so!

THE NEWS DESK

by Phyllis Linn 13/15/95

ARSON FOR PROFIT

You'd think, after all these years of reading endless exposés on jillions of topics from a broad range of subject areas—from health to religion to politics—that I would be unshockable. Nope. For some reason, I'm still terribly naive. My jaw fell to the floor when I read this article from the November issue of ACRES U.S.A (Call 504-889-2100 for subscription information), [quoting:]

News reports of fires ravaging forests in the national parks have become commonplace during the past decade or so. Reporters and news consumers alike usually assume the fires are caused by random acts of God—a lightning strike, dry weather—or careless acts of man—a tossed cigarette, an improperly extinguished campfire. According to the Wilderness Society, that view is naive.

Many of the fires are set by arsonists motivated by profit, and a law passed by Congress in July will probably make matters worse. Michael Francis, director of national forest programs for the Wilderness Society in Washington, told the Associated Press that many Americans would be “shocked” if they realized how many fires in national forests are set to generate contracts for water tankers, bulldozers, food and services for fire crews, and revenue from the sale of burned timber. The federal government spent $757 million fighting fires on federal land last year, much of which flowed into the coffers of local contractors. “Based on our observations,” Northern California U.S. Attorney Charles Stevens told the Associated Press, “the overwhelming majority of the fires there were arson-for-profit—80-90%.”

For example, the owner of a water tender truck leased to the U.S. Forest Service was recently convicted of setting a series of fires in the Trinity and Chaste county areas during 1992 and 1993. Even “volunteer” firemen, who aren't paid unless they actually put out a fire, have been caught torching forests. [This is just BEYOND my comprehension! This planet never ceases to amaze me!]

Arson is also an effective way of sabotaging environmental protections, and a “salvage logging” provision inserted into the $16 billion budget-cutting bill, approved by Congress and signed by President Clinton in July, now makes it easier for timber companies to harvest fire-damaged trees that would have been exempt due to their location in a sensitive area. “The effect of selling arson fire-damaged timber could be future acts of arson,” wrote U.S. Magistrate Thomas Coffin in Portland, Oregon in May, ruling on a Sierra Club lawsuit to prevent such logging.

SIDE EFFECTS OF MEDICAL CANCER “CURES”

Here it is the “season to be jolly (fa-la-la-la)”, and I am looking at a whole stack of articles about diseases—man-made pandemics, “medical model cures” that are worse than the diseases they treat, profit motive-generated illnesses, world-wide depopulation scourges! Another pile tells of the government's well-funded (with your tax dollars) persecution of those who attempt to heal themselves and others, naturally and intelligently. Here's a particularly heart-breaking article from a recent issue of THE BALTIMORE SUN, [quoting:]

BALTIMORE—The first generation to survive childhood cancers in large numbers is discovering that some of the same treatments that destroy tumors with toxic force can cause serious side effects to surface years later. [Wait up a minute, here! Isn't it time we asked ourselves WHY so many children are contracting diseases like cancer? One inevitable hypothesis suggests that parents—in particular, the mothers—are not healthy enough to give birth to healthy children. Why not? Ignorance about nutrition, depletion of our nation's soil, pesticides, herbicides, and other poisons in the food we eat and air we breathe, and a long list of other factors, many of which have been discussed in CONTACT.] As more children outlive their cancers, doctors are drawing links between curative therapies and delayed problems such as early puberty, sterility, stunted growth, learning disabilities and weakened hearts.

At the Johns Hopkins Oncology Center, physicians are taking a second look at cured patients to see if they are suffering long-term effects of treatment. They have found people like Eric Kincaid, 26, of East Baltimore, who survived leukemia at 10 but quit school in the 10th grade because he couldn't concentrate and complete his work—the possible result of radiation treatments that targeted his brain. Delayed side effects are a cruel blow for many people who ended years of surgery, chemotherapy and radiation believing the ordeal of cancer was over.

As many as 10 percent to 15 percent of children who survive cancer suffer severe complications in the years that follow—while up to a quarter suffer mild to moderate symptoms, some studies show. [That's because the goal was NEVER to restore HEALTH—but merely to DESTROY a symptom!] Radiation treatments that burn away brain tumors also can hinder learning, retard growth and spawn new cancers. One class of anti-cancer drugs can weaken the heart, placing patients at risk for heart failure as they age. Dr. Curt I. Civin, chairman of pediatric oncology at Hopkins, said..."Drugs that poison tumors are equally capable of damaging organs, glands and brain cells." [End of quoting.]

The slash-and-burn megalomaniac physicians owe their ignorance to medical schools and associations funded by drug conglomerates—read all about it in World Without Cancer Part II by G. Edward Griffin. We owe OUR ignorance to the same folks—they also control the media, education, and most everything else. Ignorance is treatable!! Here is a brief list of material I have found helpful:

* Confessions of a Medical Heretic, by Robert S. Mendelsohn, M.D.

* Fit For Life, by Harvey and Marilyn Diamond

* The UNcook Book, by Elizabeth and Dr. Elton Baker

* The Hippocrates Diet and Health Program, by Ann Wigmore

Once we have been made aware of the truth, we have the responsibility to put it into operation!

DEA STEPS UP HARASSMENT

MAN ARRESTED AFTER PURCHASE OF DHEA

From Vol 3:3 of the CITIZENS FOR HEALTH REPORT (phone 303-417-0772 for subscription information), [quoting:]

ORADELL, N.J.—Paul Gallo, a Citizens for Health member, was arrested by the Bergen County (New Jersey) Narcotic Task Force Aug. 21, 1995, for purchasing DHEA (dehydroepiandrosterone) through the United States Postal Service. DHEA is a hormone that is naturally secreted through the adrenal glands. Normally, DHEA production begins to drop off at midlife and decreases with aging. The arrest warrant labeled DHEA a “controlled dangerous substance” and a “Schedule III narcotic.” [Doesn't it amaze you that anything sanctioned by the legalized narcotic industry, aka the pharmaceutical industry, is “good for you” and anything produced by nature is “dangerous”—so dangerous that the government has to put you in jail to protect you!]

Gallo, a retired teacher, purchased the DHEA through an “Alzheimer’s Buyer’s Club” in Switzerland, made available by Life Extension Foundation. After receiving a yellow “pick-up” slip from the post office, he approached a clerk and was immediately handcuffed and taken to the police station. “I was confused and terribly humiliated,” Gallo said. He has been a resident of Oradell for over 40 years and though he had never been previously arrested, he says he was “treated like a common criminal” just because I purchased a mail order supplement. If I plead guilty, it will be a simple matter,” he continued, “but I can’t in good conscience do so because I purchased this in good faith through a reputable company. DHEA is not a habit-forming or poisonous substance.” Ralph Sucetola, Gallo’s attorney, said he is confident Gallo will be acquitted. His investigation revealed DHEA is not an anabolic steroid and it is not listed as a Schedule III drug, as the Bergen County DEA branch had believed.

Neither the FDA [Food and Drug Administration] nor the DEA [Drug Enforcement Agency] has adopted any formal domestic policy or rule on DHEA’s legal status. It isn’t listed as a food ingredient, as “generally recognized as safe” (GRAS), or as a controlled substance. In the Dietary Supplement Health and Education Act of 1994, a metabolite of a dietary ingredient is a dietary supplement according to the Act. In addition, since DHEA was sold as a dietary supplement prior to enactment of the Dietary Supplement Health and Education Act, it should be grandfathered in. In June, the DEA attempted to schedule DHEA as a controlled substance. Pressure mounted, however, and it was never listed as such. [New Gaia’s product “4-in-1” contains Mexican Wild Yam, which is important because that is the main natural source of the precursor nutrients that allow the body to produce its own DHEA. Research has found DHEA to have significant anti-obesity, anti-tumor, anti-aging, and anti-cancer effects. Does that give you a clue as to why the “depopulation crowd” doesn’t want you to have it? Note that “4-in-1” does not contain DHEA—it enables your body to produce it. See pg. 47 for ordering information.]

FDA DROPS INVESTIGATION OF DOCTOR

From the same publication, [quoting:]

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Citing insufficient evidence, the Food and Drug Administration dropped its investigation of Dr. Jonathan Wright. The government stated it had insufficient evidence to pursue a federal grand jury indictment in a letter to Jonathan Emord, Dr. Wright’s attorney, dated Sept. 19, 1995. The move comes 1,227 days after the commando-style armed raid on Dr. Wright’s Tahoma [Washington] clinic. The decision was a “total victory for Dr. Wright”, Emord said, even though it didn’t include a formal apology to Dr. Wright or the 22 staff members who were traumatized the day of the raid. [Only a lawyer (who, I’m sure, was very well paid for his services) would call such an ordeal “a total victory”. Such harassment is an effective tool for control. I knew lots of doctors in Washington who “got the message” the FDA put out through the Wright raid: “NO SUPPLEMENTS” and “stay on the straight and narrow, as defined by the FDA”.]

GENE-TINKERED SPUDS CAN MAKE YOU SICK

This letter from Joseph E. Cummins of the University of Western Ontario appeared in the November issue of ALIVE Magazine, [quoting:]

Bacillus thuringiensis toxin (Bt) has been used for over a decade to control insect diseases. Bt is secreted by a soil bacterium as protein crystals that form cation-selective channels in cell membranes leading to influx of electrolytes and water leading to cell lysis (bursting). Insects die upon eating Bt because their guts are broken down. Mammals (mice, people, cows) have acid in their stomachs, unlike insects, that rapidly inactivates Bt. However, those with reduced stomach acidity following gastric surgery, using ulcer medication, or even a strong antacid, face risk from Bt. The toxin is active in mammals when injected into blood or ingested into a neutral stomach. It is even fatal at low doses.

Bt has been used on some food crops or sprayed from the air in urban settings but could be washed from the treated crops. This year the US approved potatoes genetically engineered to produce Bt to prevent insect disease. Soon corn, rice, canola, apple, tomato, eggplant, alfalfa and cranberry containing Bt will be released for commercial production. There has been no requirement to test such crops on animals with or without treating some test animals with ulcer medication or antacid. There is little doubt that people with neutralized stomachs should avoid crops tinkered with Bt, but such crops won’t be labeled in the market!!

By some bizarre coincidence the anti-ulcer drug, cimetidine, will no longer require a prescription but instead will be sold “over the counter” in the US. Thus, a large increase in drug use and neutral guts is predictable. The combined Bt crops and cimetidine should be lethal in some people while making others very ill. Those made very ill or have died will go unrecorded and unnoticed in the connection because the crops that caused their death will be unlabelled. [And research shows that most Americans have insufficient stomach acidity—even those who suffer from so-called “acid indigestion”!]

DEPOPULATION COVER-UP

The October 6 issue of EIR (Executive Intelligence Report) headlined this article (excerpted) “A Climate of Disease”, [quoting:]

Under circumstances where one of the leading agenda items of the U.S. Congress is paring down medical benefits to the poor and aged, it should not be too surprising that there has been a decrease in life expectancy, and a rise in the rate of infection—at least, among the poor and elderly. Translate this to a global scale, and we see the rise of pandemics from cholera, to hemorrhagic fever. Meanwhile, the number of AIDS cases continues to climb, threatening in Africa to become a genuine population catastrophe.

The Sept. 25 issue of Newsweek reported on a meeting between the President of Ghana, Jerry Rawlings, the World Bank, along with other organizations, on the topic of the uncontrolled spread of AIDS. According to this report, nearly 70% of those infected with the HIV virus now live in Africa; in Ghana, one out of every 20 people is HIV-positive, while in Uganda, 30.5% of all pregnant women are infected with the AIDS virus. Yet this is only the tip of the iceberg. Africa is an underpopulated continent, but most of the world's population lives in Asia. AIDS had long been rampant in Thailand, but now we learn that India also has a spreading epidemic. It is not an exaggeration to say that we are not in danger of overpopulating the Earth, but quite to the contrary, the drastic increase in epidemics, unless it is reversed, can easily depopulate the world.

Many studies have shown a correlation between the upswing in disease and the destruction of infrastructure. This of of course, is especially so with waterborne diseases such as cholera. Poor nutrition is also a factor in the spread of epidemics, even in the case of AIDS, as is suggested by overlaying a map of the spread of AIDS in Africa with areas with selenium-deficient soils. Under these circumstances, it is not condoms, but massive development programs that are needed, along with major public health measures—accompanied by a serious effort to develop new means of treating diseases.

But instead of taking seriously the implications of this pandemic spread of viral diseases, the National Academy of Sciences sponsored a Sept. 11-12 Conference on “Human Health and Global Climate Change”, which in effect argued for an even more drastic destruction of the economic superstructure necessary to support healthy life. They did this by making the incredible assertion that the recent increase in the spread of disease is directly correlated to an increase in—”global warming”!! The scare is based on claims that climate change will warm the United States and lead to the spread of these diseases, including malaria, cholera, dengue fever, Ebola, Rift Valley fever, and what not (including many as yet undiscovered [undiscovered in the sense of “uninvented”] emerging diseases), into northern latitudes. [Well, don't hold your breath and wait for them to admit they intend to DEPOPULATE the globe for their own (supposed) benefit!]

CANADA UNVEILS HOLOCAUST STAMP

The Holocaust—it MUST have happened or they wouldn't have made a stamp about it, right?? Well, in Canada, you'd BETTER believe it, because holocaust-denying is a hate crime. This stamp was sent in by a lovely Canadian reader, who reports that Canadian Customs seized her last order of Phoenix Journals (although they returned all but #130, Tracking Down the Killer). Where Canada goes, the U.S. is not far behind!

CHAPTER 12

THE C.I.A. PIPELINE

by Michael Maholy

PART XIX: "DROP ZONE"

Editor's note: The last time we presented Michael Maholy's "inside" story about The C.I.A. Pipeline was in our 8/1/95 CONTACT on p. 4, where he called that installment: "Signed, Sealed And Delivered". We now join Michael after a 4-month interlude.

In the last chapter of The C.I.A. Pipeline, I had just returned back home to my mountain retreat deep in the Ozark Mountains of Arkansas, the "Land of opportunity", after a week of deep sea fishing with my hosts Max Mermelstein and Rafa Salazar. Both Max and Rafa had strong ties to the Colombian drug cartels and needed the valuable data that I supplied them with pertaining to D.E.A. search patterns and codes used to track down illegal flights and ocean bound shipments of tons of drugs entering the U.S. Now my regular team members, along with the men I worked for in the C.I.A., would once again need my talents to oversee the unloading of the weapons that had left Sabine, Texas just a few months earlier on George Bush's state-of-the-art offshore oil drilling platform Zapata 7.

Zapata 7 was just one of the many different covert facilities that the C.I.A. used in their bid to spy on other countries throughout Latin and South America. What made this particular offshore vessel so special was that its crew was individually hand-picked by Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North and George Bush. Each crew member had a specific duty to perform, which meant that no error would be tolerated and any such would be dealt with swiftly. Since I was a close friend and co-worker with Barry Seal and a handful of others who were involved in the smuggling of illegal drugs and weapons, Bush and North had seen their unique opportunity to make good use of what smarts I had gained along my journey through life—from the rough streets of Chicago, to the polar ice-cap, to the jungles of South America and in between. They knew that I liked the money, the big sky, and that I would do anything to get what I wanted.

I was home a short five days when I received a call from my C.I.A. handler in Langley. It was relayed to me that I would be picked up at the isolated airstrip behind my home in the mountains by Barry Seal and Emil Camp. Together the three of us would fly down to Mena, Arkansas, where we would pick up yet another three passengers. One of the people that we were to pick up was one L.D. Brown, an Arkansas state trooper who was then assigned to Governor Bill Clinton and who was just one of Clinton's observers on this mission. You see, Clinton knew very well all along just what was going on in the "American Banana Republic" of Arkansas, but to fully grasp this situation, one must realize that, back in the 80s, Arkansas was a very remote state with triple the amount of corruption than at the present time. Clinton actually allowed the C.I.A. to operate and, rest assured, Clinton would not allow this to happen without getting a chunk of the pie for Hillary and himself.

L.D. Brown had placed his application with the C.I.A. about a month prior to this flight. He had Clinton's support and Clinton even had helped Brown fill out the necessary paperwork for the unique position. Seal had told me on the flight down to Mena that he had met Brown earlier in Little Rock and, through some other friends (Dan Lasater and Jim Guy Tucker), it was found out that Brown could make a good double agent, a man who would play both sides of the fence. In the type of business that we were in, these were the type of people the C.I.A. needed. The C.I.A. teachers are masters at the game. Talk about mind-control experts!

Once at the airstrip in Mena, we were met by L.D. Brown and one Terry Reed. Reed, by the way, is the author of the book Compromise and was also a major player in the Iran-Contra scandal. Reed was there to oversee yet another operation, the training of the pilots that made drops of weapons and other supplies into the rough mountain terrain of Central America. Seal, Camp, myself and Brown got into the infamous C-130-converted, multi-engine cargo lifter, dubbed by Seal Fat Lady. We were on our way to New Orleans, where we loaded up with several skids or pallets of surplus military goods such as ammo, tents, fatigue clothing and all the other necessary items that a small army could use in the jungles to carry out their war. There were also several crates of M-16 rifles that were rigged to be parachuted to the troops below—the rebels. We also picked up two Hispanic men who would be getting off in the capital of Honduras after we air-dropped the loads of military hardware.

After refueling and getting a short briefing from Barry Seal about unexpected dangers that we might incur along the flight, we set off for the six-hour flight to Nicaragua. Nicaragua is about 3,606,000 people strong. It is estimated that at least one-third of the total population is armed at one time or another. Thus, the market for weapons down there is high. The country is about 50,193 square miles or the size of our own state of Iowa, and that makes it pretty easy for one to run across the path of another person who may be armed. With Honduras to the north and Costa Rica to the south, the relatively small Spanish-speaking country is virtually isolated by the Pacific Ocean to the west, and the Caribbean to the east. The entire country is considered to be jungle, with the Cordillera Mountain Range hugging the western coastal area, and the eastern side flat rain forests. Some of the major exports include bananas, coffee, fruit, tobacco, and other exotic central American crops. There is a lot of mining up in the mountains of silver, gold, tungsten, and copper.

Nicaragua has been, for many years, a land of many troubles. The land is inhabited by various Indian tribes and was also once a part of Mexico. When the U.S. Marines occupied the country in the early 20s, the country felt, for the first time, a strong sense of security, but sad to say, even then, the rich and wealthy, power-hungry, elite American politicians were taking their share of the wealth that the humble people slaved for. In 1967, General Anastasio Somoza Debayle was elected president and then resigned in 1972. He was then elected president again in 1974 after officials kidnapped by Marxist Sandinista guerrillas overpowered the country. It was then that violent opposition spread throughout the country and all classes of people. In 1978, nationwide strikes called against the government touched off a state of civil war. Months of simmering civil war ended when Somoza fled the country in July of 1979 and came to America. It was at this time in history, that our beloved leaders of this nation saw opportunity to deploy their covert tactics and start a decade of money-hungry plays.

Our relations with Nicaragua were strained due to aid by the Nicaraguan government to the leftist guerrillas in El Salvador. Bush had seen fit to convince Ronald Reagan to support anti-Sandinista Contra guerrilla groups. Bush also saw that the time was now right to start the drugs-for-weapons trade in full steam. For this, he needed skilled men such as myself and Seal, Reed, Camp, and others.

In 1983, the Contras launched their first major offensive and the Sandinistas imposed rule by decree. This meant that now, more than ever, the small rebel armies would pay large sums of drugs to receive weapons, since the drugs would bring a far better price in the streets of America. In 1985, the U.S. House rejected President Ronald Reagan's request for military aid to the Contras and then took advice from George Bush and Oliver North on how to profit from the wars on the horizon. It was this diversion of funds to the Contras from the proceeds of a secret arms deal (actually hundreds of secret covert deals) and sales to Iran that caused the major scandal here in the U.S. This plan was masterminded by the administration's national security advisor and his deputy, and took place at a time when military aid to the Contras was forbidden by law. I felt that the above data is important to understanding just how our government really works.

Upon arriving over the drop zone in the flat coastal land of the south-eastern region of Nicaragua, it was discovered by me, since I was the navigation and logistic officer on board, that we were once again over the ranch-plantation of another one of our old C.I.A. buddies, one John Hull. Hull had been a friend of Seal's for some years now. They had first met down in Miami and quickly made good smuggling partners. Hull came to Nicaragua early in life and made a small fortune at anything available to smuggle. He had many contacts throughout South America, as well as in Asia. He was the man to know in these parts and had been provided crack security protection teams from the C.I.A. through George Bush. In such a remote isolated location such as Hull's ranch, he was under constant surveillance from the rebel armies. Over the years however, Hull had gained their trust and would be the middle man who would sell and trade the weapons for distribution to the rebels.

The crew of the Fat Lady pushed out twelve pallets of supplies that would soon be picked up by an already waiting ground crew that Hull had assembled. I have personally been to Hull's ranch on three separate occasions to tour his operation. It was not as fancy as the Colombians' ranches, due primarily to its location and state of war within the country; however, it was quite comfortable with its own power generators and all the other modern accessories that one needed for comfort. What impressed me the most was the series of subterranean caves that were re-enforced to house not only people and troops, but stashed weapons. There even was a processing plant that would package drugs for shipments. It was a unique setup, one that I will never forget.

The Fat Lady only slowed down to around 150 knots to make the drop, as any lingering around could result in the cargo plane (a large target for the guerrillas) being plucked out of the inky-black skies—along with the weapons we were trading. From there we would land in the neighboring country of Honduras. This is where I would be getting off and reuniting with an old acquaintance, Frank Adams, and his sidekick, Nick Pena. The Fat Lady picked up several duffel bags of pure cocaine, probably 60 of them, and made its way after refueling back to Mena, Arkansas. L.D. Brown remained on the plane and I did not see him again until I reached Little Rock two weeks later. Then it was time for me to catch a helicopter to the awaiting offshore oil rig, Zapata 7, which was safely anchored off the Mosquito Coast in the warm tropical waters of the Caribbean Sea. Soon the rig weighed anchor and was taken into the port of Bluefields, Nicaragua. It was there that the vessel was unloaded of its deadly cargo of some 5,000 weapons that were once in the homes and hands of Americans. These were the weapons that were confiscated by various law agencies and were supposed to be doomed for meltdown at several steel mills throughout the country.

After arriving in Tequigalpa, the capital of Honduras, I met Frank Adams and Nick Pena. They were also there, along with me, to oversee the unloading of the weapons in Bluefield. They had just been briefed by Lt. Col. Oliver North on certain covert tactical operations, in which they would take part on Hull's ranch, that involved the rebel uprising. You see, people, that in order to insure that the war remained ongoing, the C.I.A. had placed in position two (if not more) of its highly trained assassins to create civil unrest and to inform the rebel leaders just how to deploy terroristic tactics among the people in the small towns and villages. After the weapons were taken care of, Adams and Pena would disappear, like they have on so many other occasions.

The Zapata-7 had finally made its way to the quiet harbor and was preparing to make the necessary arrangements for the unloading, when a small convoy of Nicaraguan government police arrived at dockside demanding the necessary documents and paperwork that were called for. This is when the commander of the Zapata-7, who went under the disguise of a tool-pusher or company man, welcomed the commandant aboard for a quick tour of the oil rig. Since the weapons were safely stashed out of sight well below the water line, the young general never suspected anything. By the way, everyone down in the jungles is a self-appointed general. This was one man, however, who was a real general in a very real army.

After the group of troops left the rig, the trucks were called into place to receive the weapons. Welders had to cut the tanks open once again to give new life to the stale air that housed the cache. The loading of the guns onto the trucks took three hours. From the docks at Bluefield, the trucks, along with Adams, Pena, and myself, drove out to a farm that had a dirt airstrip for small planes. I could tell that this strip had been used quite often as the ruts from the landing gears had dug deep into the mud. It came to thought just then that this was why Terry Reed and Seal had been training pilots in the rural, rough mountains of Arkansas. The entire terrain looked about the same except for the tropical appearance of the trees. The pilots had only one chance to hit the postage-size landing strips. The margin for any mishaps would be slim. There would be no doctors there to provide medical attention, if needed. The doctor there would most likely be a bullet to the head! One must remember that in that type of setting, the business of a drug and weapons smuggler, if one wanted the ultimate, then one must be prepared to pay the ultimate price.

I had a chance to talk with Adams once again about things in general. Though Adams could see right through me, he was somewhat liberal with answering some of my more interesting questions. I remember Max Mermelstein and Rafa Salazar speaking about how Barry Seal was making a lot of money—millions—and getting too big for his own britches. I asked Adams about that, and his reply was that Seal was on thin ice and that his time was limited. He also stated that the good ol' boys from Arkansas did not like the way he was thinking he was running things up at Mena. Adams made it clear to me that Seal would be in a lot of trouble if the word from the big boys ever came down to get rid of him—terminate him and his people. Well, I had been hearing this about Seal from different people for sometime already—the same things that Seal himself heard time and time again. I guess, though, that when a person like me is so high on pot and cocaine, flying so high, taking the chances in life that a normal person would never think about doing, one tends not to care about much or pay any great amount of attention to things of that nature. Boy, how wrong I was! I did not know it, but at that time in history, Seal's fate was already planned (and so was mine).

We unloaded the guns into two multi-engine DC-10s that looked as though they had been through several wars. The planes then headed south to John Hull's farm, along with Adams and Pena. From the runway, we went to another metal barn and started to load several tons of cocaine—probably three tons in all—that were wrapped in 100-pound bags of drilling chemicals that would be stacked right along with the other necessary drilling muds and barites (chemicals used in the drilling process). We then drove the caravan of mudded trucks back to the dockside at Bluefield and loaded the cocaine on the oil rig. As I have said before, each man had his own specific job to perform. My official position was to monitor the cable interceptors, in which we would actually be spying on the country’s ongoing war and finding out data that one could not receive in the U.S. But if a boarding party of inspectors from Nicaragua ever came to view our operating procedures, I was assigned to the drilling floor itself as an aid to the driller. My function was to monitor the pressures on the pipe and to prevent the gas from “kicking” or coming up out of the hole, therefore, causing a blow-out.

A funny thing that I want to tell everyone is that I had to attend a Blow Out Prevention school before taking on that position. Now, when I came to prison, the Bureau of Prison also has the same logo, that being “B.O.P.”. When the officials scanned my pre-sentence file, they saw that I had attended a B.O.P. school in Houston, Texas. They were under the assumption that I actually attended a school for the Bureau of Prisons (Ha! Ha!). No way José!

After staying in Bluefield for another week, the rig was now set in 180 feet of crystal clear water, set up and ready to do business. It would start the long process of drilling and the unpleasant sound of the constant hammering that pounded the pipe casing down into the ocean floor. Day and night, night and day, the drilling continued. At night time, the supply boats would arrive with yet more cocaine. Special tiers were installed deep within the ballast tanks that enabled them to be secure and water-tight to protect the valuable white powder that would make the power-hungry Elite back home in America very, very wealthy. Also, special sealed containers that were stacked like cord wood would be placed in the tanks to insure that every available inch was utilized, not wasted. As I have told you, a person’s weight in gold does not even compare to the value of his weight in cocaine!

I was gearing up for a long stay away from my home in the mountains, my son, and family. There would be no women coming aboard for sexual relations. Now it was showtime. Now we had our entire mission ahead of us, which was to start the flow moving—the PIPELINE! I would be earning money while I was sleeping now! What a wonderful life—or so I thought! No worries, just good times. If I wanted something, well, I’d just go buy it! People, if only you knew how wrong I was!

Whenever a mission like this was underway, there, of course, will be problems of some nature. One of our first problems was when the drilling pipe got stuck at 7,000 feet below the ocean floor. What this meant was that now we had to call in specialists to get the pipe unstuck. Since there were no persons capable of doing such a task down south, a team of professionals were called upon from Texas, a state where George Bush had many friends. But the question was, just who could be trusted out on this spy rig?? It was deemed that an outfit called “Boots and Coots”, who were kin to the famous Red Adair oil fire-fighting family, receive the job. Since we were down very deep in the hole and sitting over an untold amount of natural gases that could blow us up to the moon if ignited, we had to have the best personnel available to do the job correctly. A lot was at stake here.

Three days later, a helicopter landed and out stepped Oliver North, along with Adams and Pena and another new face from Texas. I was called up to the briefing room and had a long talk with the trio about the drug situation. Things in that department were going as well as could be expected, we were indeed getting full of drugs, tons and tons of them. North spoke about things back home in Arkansas and what was happening with Seal, Camp, Hebert, and the other pilots. North showed deep concern with Seal and the boys from Miami—Max and Rafa. He said that the Colombian cartels were getting out of hand with the liberal amounts of drugs that the U.S. Government allowed them to import into the U.S. He said that Bush was going to declare his new drug wars on the cartels to stop them from getting so free spirited. I sensed trouble in the near future for the people I knew in Florida. Adams and Pena were the quiet ones as usual. It seemed that since our encounter, the last time down in Algiers, Louisiana, the younger Pena had been corrected about the looseness of his mouth somewhat. Adams must have put it to him, once and for all, that it was Adams who was running the show, not the young Latino.

The men left the rig with the promise of the stuck pipe problem being taken care of soon. He also stated that there was a back-up plan that might possibly be placed into effect. I was told to monitor the E.M.A. (Emergency Message Action) closely. In the event of anything new in the line of developments, I would be the first to receive this data from the mainland in the U.S., via com-sac satellite transmission. We also had a direct link to the C.I.A. handlers in Langley, Virginia in the event of an extreme emergency.

I will leave this chapter of the Pipeline—”Drop Zone” at rest for now, as there is more to come soon. Things really heat up in the next chapter when Bush cuts yet another deal with the Mexican Government, in which George Bush poisons the oceans with hundreds of tons of radioactive waste—nuclear-active waste that will be back-filled, down-hole pumped back into dry wells in Mexico, resulting in the fiery explosion that kills all aboard a sister Zapata offshore drilling rig in waters off of the Yucatan! Don’t miss this one! Until later, this is the keeper of the flame bringing you the true story behind the C.I.A.’s PIPELINE!

ARMAGEDDON IS UPON US!

by Eustace Mullins 12/12/95

Murder of Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin officially launches World Order program of Armageddon!

Entire world now on brink of war.

The world press in its blasphemous idolatry of the assassinated Israeli Prime Minister, Yitzhak Rabin, hails him as the martyred “Prince of Peace”. His record shows that this lifelong homicidal maniac was actually the “World’s Greatest Terrorist”. The Rabin assassination is the symbolic homage to his terrorist career, as his mirror image, youthful killer Amir, was chosen to carry out this murder. In Current Biography, 1974, we read that Rabin, at the age of nineteen, had become a key murderer in Palmach, the “action squad” of Haganah, the Zionist terrorist organization.

Terrorism as we know it today is the deliberate creation of Haganah, the Zionist murder arm. No atrocity was too horrible for these dedicated fanatics in their crusade to create the Zionist World Empire. Rabin’s Palmach operation deliberately blew up entire shiploads of Jewish refugees throughout the 1940s when they were refused permission by British authorities to land in Palestine. In November 1940, Rabin’s terrorists blew up the refugee ship Patria in Haifa harbor, killing hundreds of Jewish refugees. Rabin continued to carry out these atrocities, calmly explaining that these “sacrifices” were necessary in order to create a world climate of opinion supporting the “suffering Jews”, who were actually being murdered by their own leaders.

Who today remembers the anti-Jewish riots in London throughout the 1940s? These riots were caused by public outcry against Zionist atrocities committed against youthful British occupation soldiers in Palestine. Rabin’s Palmach squads kidnapped teenaged British youths, tortured them for days, and murdered them. They then left the booby-trapped bodies hanging in the open. When their comrades attempted to give them Christian burial, they too were killed by the exploding corpses. During the Six Day War, the maniacal Rabin, commander of the Zionist forces, ordered the deliberate massacre of many thousands of helpless Egyptian soldiers who had surrendered. Only now are these atrocities coming to light.

THE “PALESTINIAN REFUGEE PROBLEM”

This was created at Rabin’s order. By expelling more than a million Palestinians from their ancestral homes, many of them being massacred in the process, Rabin instituted the ongoing “refugee problem”. The survivors were huddled in camps under terrible conditions, but even there they were not safe from the Zionist terrorists. Rabin ordered systematic massacres of the refugees to be carried out in these camps, such as the notorious slaughters of the innocents in the Sabra and Shatila camps. When the refugees were provoked into resisting these horrors, Rabin issued orders that the arms and legs of the Arab children were to be broken. Reporters who covered these atrocities found that their stories could not be shown on American television, due to the personal intervention of Henry Kissinger, a director of CBS.

If Yitzhak Rabin was Israel's premier terrorist, why was he selected for killing by his people? It is difficult for any rational American to comprehend the fanaticism of the Zionist zealots. The front page of the Sunday New York Times, November 12, 1995 features the headline: "Zeal of Rabin's Assassin Springs from Rabbis of the Religious Right". On the same day, the front page of the Washington Post featured a further explanation, "Amir mentioned that Rabin qualified for a 'din-rodef', the 'judgment of the pursuer', entitling a righteous man to kill him, because Rabin was poised to spill the blood of other Jews by giving up control over the occupied West Bank." Thus Rabin was a religious sacrifice, a victim of ritual murder, to fulfill the Armageddon Plan of the Zionist fanatics. Americans were not informed that more than half of the population of Israel greeted the news of Rabin's killing with cheers, although we were told that the entire world "mourned" him. Israel is a theocracy, ruled by its rabbis. These rabbis met and passed a death sentence on Rabin, to halt his "peace program" of restraining the continued Jewish settlements on Arab lands. Rabin knew that he was to be executed, and he accepted it. His bodyguards allowed Amir to approach him and to kill him.

Rabin's murder officially launches a new Jihad or Holy War by Zionist fanatics to exterminate all Arabs still living in Palestine. This genocide in turn will launch World War III throughout the world. The religious right fundamentalism in the United States will push our country into this Holy War on the side of the Zionists, as religious leaders like Jerry Falwell and Pat Robertson have preached for years. They are controlled by Zionist agit-prop leaders such as William Kristol, who also directs the "Republican Revolution" in Washington. Gingrich and Dole are Kristol's political apparatchniks.

Clinton has been ordered by these apparatchniks to send American troops into Bosnia as a key element of the Armageddon program. Both World Wars have been launched in this key area. During World War II, Hitler was poised to capture Moscow and triumphantly end the war. At the crucial moment, a Yugoslav outbreak forced him to divert a large portion of his armies from the Moscow attack. This turned the tide against him, resulting in his defeat.

The American people must be informed of the sinister forces working against them. If we cannot respond in time, we are doomed to be exterminated in the Zionist-planned Armageddon of World War III, in which we will be forced to participate by the Zionist-controlled religious right and the Democrats and the Republicans, all of whom are totally directed by the Zionist activists. Americans, save yourselves!

SAVVY LAWYERS MAKE MILLIONS FROM PRO BONO CASES

It's time to take a second look at those philanthropic lawyers! From the November 29 issue of the WALL STREET JOURNAL, [quoting:]

SAN FRANCISCO—As the legal elite looked on, partners of Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati stepped up to receive a coveted plaque: the state pro bono award for lawyers who provide “extraordinary” services to the poor “with no expectation of being paid”. Wilson Sonsini won for a case that led to sweeping reforms at California’s notorious Pelican Bay State Prison. But unmentioned at last year’s poolside reception was the fact that Wilson Sonsini could expect to be paid very well. Because the case was brought under a law that lets attorneys collect fees from the state, Wilson Sonsini’s pro bono project will yield a sum worthy of the firm’s rich corporate clients: $3.5 million. [These guys must be alumni of the “Rockefeller School of Philanthropy”.]

Pro bono publico, it turns out, can mean big business. Contrary to the popular image of attorneys donating their time, many law firms have taken advantage of so-called fee-shifting statutes that offer a financial incentive for bringing cases that promote public policy. [“Public policy”—sounds like another sneaky euphemism like “peacekeepers”.] Fee-shifting laws allow victorious attorneys to bill the opposing party—typically a government entity—at their usual rates. The net result: Firms taking on certain pro bono cases can quietly take in big money even as they reap a public-relations windfall. Indeed, Wilson Sonsini initially asked for $7.6 million—and fought a five-month battle with the state before agreeing to the lower amount. “The fee aspect had nothing to do with our motivation for taking the case,” says David Steuer, a partner. [Now he’s doing what lawyers do BEST!]

PUNITIVE DAMAGES:

VIGILANTE JUSTICE

BY CIVIL SUIT

Richard Grenier takes a shot at the jury system in his column in the November 27-December 2 issue of THE WASHINGTON TIMES, NATIONAL WEEKLY EDITION, [quoting:]

The American system of “punitive” damages, as in the recent case of an Alabama doctor awarded $4 million to supplement the pain and suffering inflicted on him by a $600 paint imperfection on his new BMW, is viewed by the rest of the civilized world as somewhere between preposterous and demented. A Dallas jury recently awarded a “wrongfully terminated” executive $124 million, nicely covering his salary for the next 1,240 years. In Washington, a mother left her baby in a sink. His pre-school-age brother injured him by turning on the hot water. And the mother received a $15 million settlement from the building owner and water-heater manufacturer

America's punitive damages are a flagrant anomaly. Although assessed by the common-law tort process—the goal of which is compensation for actual injuries—punitive damages nowadays are imposed for the purposes of criminal law: deterrence and retribution. But the punitive-damage system lacks almost every single protection of criminal justice, in which punishment can be imposed only by responsible public officials [Ooooooh! An oxymoron!] in keeping with clear legislative standards [Another one!]. Defendants in criminal cases, moreover, are protected by a huge array of constitutional safeguards, while defendants in punitive-damage suits have virtually none. [The safeguard IS the jury, to whom Mr. Grenier refers as “uninformed, irresponsible, unaccountable...” Another safeguard is shallow pockets—a well-planned corporate structure in Nevada, perhaps? (Listen up, O.J.!)]

As the idea gained ground in the late 1970s that the judiciary was a marvelous way of redistributing wealth, juries began imposing punitive damages with ever-increasing frequency, in ever-escalating amounts and in an ever-widening spectrum of cases: environmental, defamatory, product liability, medical malpractice, sexual harassment, “wrongful termination”. [In other words, an ever-increasing number of law school graduates in need of work!]

THE “GAY GENE” REVISITED

This excerpt from Cal Thomas' column appeared in the November 13-19 issue of THE WASHINGTON TIMES, NATIONAL WEEKLY EDITION. The subheadline reads: “Never has it been more necessary for the public to analyze the information it receives from the media. Increasingly, when it comes to homosexuality, the press cannot be trusted”. [Quoting:]

The “discovery” of “new evidence” of a “gay gene” was trumpeted on the front page of The Washington Post as a scientific breakthrough equivalent to a cure for cancer. But the story is another exercise in the uncritical “reporting” by most of the major media when it comes to homosexuality and an example of the loss of credibility the press suffers when it climbs into bed with an advocacy group. The story quotes another “study” by Dean Hamer, a molecular biologist at the National Cancer Institute (NCI). One might ask why federal funds targeted for cancer research are being diverted for another purpose, but The Post doesn't.

The Post fails to mention that Dr. Hamer's widely trumpeted 1993 “gay gene” study is under investigation for alleged fraud by the federal Office of Research Integrity and that a colleague of Dr. Hamer has charged that Dr. Hamer selectively reported data in ways that enhanced the study's thesis. Nor does the press report on Dr. Hamer's own homosexuality, which might indicate to some readers that Dr. Hamer has a bias in favor of discovering a biological cause for homosexual behavior. Press stories don't mention that Dr. Hamer was reassigned to other areas of research, such as smoking and cancer, after ethical questions arose.

[After pointing out the many flaws in Hamer's research, Thomas aims some well-directed arrows at the press:] Hamer once told a meeting of Parents and Friends of Lesbians and Gays, “If you tell the press what to write about a scientific study, they'll write it.” Why has most of the press become a shill for the gay rights movement? Fear is one answer. Most liberals don't want to be labeled “intolerant” and shy away from any moral code that doesn't support their political comfort level. But perhaps the main reason is that the establishment media have developed a relationship with the political objectives of gay rights activism that has shamefully compromised their ability to report objectively and fairly on the issue. [And why is that?: The establishment media is owned by the “establishment”—the power elite Khazarians, who have carefully crafted the destruction of this nation. Homosexuality, their own lust-of-choice, has been programmed into this scenario.]

FLU INOCULATIONS LEAD TO AIDS SCARE

From the December 4 issue of NAVY TIMES, [quoting:]

WASHINGTON—An AIDS scare ripped through New Orleans on Nov. 17 after an HIV-positive service member was found to have gone undetected through an inoculation line at the Naval Reserve Force headquarters. [Ooops!] Navy corpsmen were administering flu shots with air guns and syringes to hundreds of active duty and active reserve members of all five services. [INOCULATIONS are doubtless a lot more dangerous than “the enemy”.] But they stopped the air-gun inoculations after they realized the infected individual had received his flu shot from one of the autoinjection “jet guns”, instead of a sterile needle.

“We stopped using (the guns), the doctors reviewed the procedures being followed and interviewed the people using the guns,” said Lt. Cmdr. John Singley, spokesman for the Naval Reserve Force. “The good news is we were doing everything by the book.” [How reassuring!]

inoculation jet gun

There are no documented cases of HIV infection through the use of these guns, according to the Centers for Disease Control. [Ah, the foxes just checked and the chickens are just fine!]

SEASON OPENS FOR DESIGNER FLU '95:

From the December 14 issue of the Antelope Valley edition of the (Los Angeles) DAILY NEWS, [quoting:]

LANCASTER—As cold weather starts, so does flu season [Why IS that?], and with it record-breaking numbers of patients fill the emergency rooms. Dr. Shirley Fannin, director of disease-control programs for Los Angeles County, said this year is the worst for influenza she’s seen in about a decade. “We have schools reporting 33 percent absences, and doctors’ offices and emergency rooms are packed. [Reports such as this have come in from all over the country.] This year’s flu strain [Designer Flu ‘95] may cause severe symptoms—especially fever, with temperatures rising as high as 105 degrees. With its high fever, it causes serious complications and can sometimes lead to hospitalization or death, particularly for elderly patients. According to hospital officials, almost 20,000 Americans die from the flu and its complications each year, and as many as 400,000 are hospitalized annually. [As planned?]

PNEUMONIA RESISTS ANTIBIOTICS

From the November 24 issue of THE BILLINGS GAZETTE, [quoting:]

Antibiotics can't whip a significant number of bacterial pneumonia cases that have been seen in Montana and Wyoming Medicare patients, according to a study by the Montana-Wyoming Foundation for Medical Care. Some of the Montana and Wyoming cases studied were resistant to one antibiotic; others were resistant to multiple antibiotics, Mike McInerney, a statistician with the foundation, said by telephone from Helena. None defied all the antibiotics doctors have in their disease-fighting arsenal. [Here we go again with that "war-on-nature" approach to medicine.] But in other Western states, the study identified cases of pneumococcal pneumonia that were resistant to all antibiotics. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention in Atlanta estimates that this type of pneumonia kills 40,000 Americans every year. Most of the victims are elderly. [The ones the flu misses?]

Dr. John McMahan, foundation medical director, blamed the rise in resistance in part on inappropriate and excessive use of antibiotics for many illnesses. Sometimes, patients insist on getting a prescription for antibiotics even when their illness is a virus, like a cold, that isn't treatable with antibiotics. ["My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge." (Hosea 4:6) Ignorance is our worst enemy. Antibiotics DEPRESS the immune system, destroy the friendly flora in the intestines, usually remain deposited in the body for the rest of your life, and have a lengthy list of other potential side effects! But it is human nature to want a quick fix. Prevention is the best defense. A healthy body is inimical to influenza. Unfortunately, valid information about regaining your health is at the top of the Elite's list of "suppressed materials".]

CHINA IMMUNIZATION MARATHON

nurse giving child polio pill

Dr. Lai Nansha feeds an anti-polio pill Wednesday to a kindergartner at Beijing's Donghuamen hospital. China immunized more than 80 million children in 2 days in the largest anti-polio campaign in history. The feat is being submitted for inclusion in the Guinness Book of Records. [Studies show that most of those who contract polio these days get it from the vaccine.]

COLLOID PRODUCT UPDATE

by E J Ekker

I am remiss for not having passed this information on to you readers sooner; for that I apologize. Toward the end of the GaiaGold, GaiaCol, OxySol sale one of our Canadian friends placed quite a large order and mentioned this to me on the telephone. When I remarked that that represented quite a sizeable investment, she responded, "Yes, and that is exactly what it is—an investment. I've been thinking about what you said the first time I called you about loaning money to the Institute and you suggested that we have some supplies plus some coins to use should the paper currencies collapse, before we considered loaning money to the Institute. Well, it has occurred to me that a store of the colloids is probably more valuable and a better way to store value for ‘barter’ than coins. In ordinary times if the price of gold and silver goes up, so will the value of the colloids—and if things get really bad the colloids could become invaluable.”

We have hesitated to print the myriad of amazing reports of the effects of these products (when backed up by the use of Gaiandriana and AquaGaia and Spelta), both from the local crew and out there in readerland, but if only one tenth of them were true, we are witnessing “miracles” every day.

Doris and I take this opportunity to wish you all a healthy and happy Holiday Season.

CHAPTER 15

THE TWILIGHT OF THE GODS

by Eustace Mullins 12/17/95

IS IT GOTTERDAMMERUNG FOR THE UNITED NATIONS?

The recent 50th anniversary celebration of the United Nations seemed more like a wake. The largest group of world leaders ever assembled anywhere gathered in New York, one-hundred-and-seventy-nine assorted presidents, prime ministers and dictators smiled uneasily for the camera. The group photograph, to those with a knowledge of history, was eerily like the photographs of the crowned heads of Europe taken just before the outbreak of World War I, which would sweep most of them into oblivion. Only a few days after the taking of the UN anniversary photograph, one of its more illustrious attendees, Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin of the State of Israel, was himself dispatched by bullets from a fellow Jewish extremist. It will be interesting to look back in the year 2000 and see how many of these persons of great power actually survived the twentieth century.

The New York United Nations assemblage had to forego the presence of its most famous creator. It was deemed inappropriate to summon him for the festivities, although he resided only a few blocks from the UN building. As a convicted perjurer who had been sent to prison for lying about his activities as an espionage agent for the USSR, Alger Hiss might have attracted unwelcome reminiscences about his checkered career. Hiss, one of three Communist agents who served as the late President Franklin Delano Roosevelt's personal advisors at the White House, is generally revered as the architect of the United Nations Conference in San Francisco in 1945 which brought the international conspiracy into being. During Hiss' public trial, the media ignored his impressive connections with the subterranean forces of the World Order. He had been selected as president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace by General Dwight Eisenhower, later elected President of the United States, and by John Foster Dulles, who became Eisenhower's Secretary of State. Dulles had represented the House of Rothschild at a meeting with Adolf Hitler in Cologne, Germany in 1934 which guaranteed the bankrupt Hitler funds from the Bank of England to install his newly elected Nazi government. When Hiss was indicted by the U.S.A. Government, his lawyer, serving without pay, was Helen Lehman Buttenweiser, daughter of a Lehman Brothers banker, and married to a partner of Kuhn, Loeb Co. in New York, Benjamin Buttenweiser, whose partner Jacob Schiff boasted that he had spent more than twenty million dollars of his own funds to promote the Communist Revolution in Russia. Another Kuhn, Loeb partner, Paul Warburg, had secretly authored the Federal Reserve Act in 1910 at a conspiratorial meeting in Jekyll Island, Georgia, where the event is now marked by a small brass plaque at the Jekyll Island Hotel. Buttenweiser later became Assistant High Commissioner of a defeated Germany after World War II. During Hiss' long trial, and throughout his prison sentence, his son, Tony, was an honored guest at the million dollar Buttenweiser mansion in the East Eighties.

The fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the United Nations could hardly have come at a worse time, as the organization had reached the lowest ebb of its prestige. A war of "ethnic cleansing" has raged in the former nation of Yugoslavia for years, during which many thousands of people have been tortured and massacred, while many thousands of survivors have endured apocalyptic conditions during mass evictions, been forced into concentration camps, and faced all the horrors of war. Many of the victims have been women and children. The United Nations has had “peacekeeping forces” stationed in the war-torn area during much of these hostilities, but their presence has been the occasion for scorn. The Washington Post on October 26, 1995 noted that at the very time of the lavish United Nations festivities in New York, “the Dutch (U.N.) peacekeepers made little effort to defend the civilian population. They were worried about their own hostages. Refugees later described how many of the Dutch were forced at gunpoint to strip to their underwear by Bosnian Serb soldiers, who then strutted around in U.N. uniforms themselves”. One refugee was quoted about the sorry spectacle. “Hassan Nuhanovic, a 27-year-old translator, said he was permitted to remain in the compound because he was employed by the United Nations. ‘I don’t understand it. Nobody believed that the U.N. wouldn’t protect the people,’ said Nuhanovic, who has not seen any of his family members since their tearful farewell at the gate to the U.N. compound.”

Now President Clinton has dispatched some 20,000 United States to the scenes of these massacres in a desperate effort to revive the tarnished image of the United Nations. American youths are to serve, and more than likely, to die, in the effort to rehabilitate the United Nations. Their families will be notified that they died in the service of the United Nations.

Clinton justified this act of high treason by announcing that “We must continue to bear the responsibility of the world’s leadership in Bosnia, as elsewhere. If the United States does not lead, the job will not be done.” But Clinton’s action is contrary to the expressed purpose of the United Nations, which states that all nation members must share equal responsibility. We are now witness to the discouraging spectacle of a financially bankrupt United States bearing the billion-dollar-a-day cost of maintaining peacekeeping troops in Bosnia for a morally bankrupt United Nations.

Clinton’s action comes at a time when there is a growing chorus from both liberals and conservatives that the day of the United Nations has come and gone. Nation magazine noted on Nov. 13, 1995 that Congressman Joe Scarborough of Florida had introduced a resolution on the occasion of the United Nations’ fiftieth anniversary to take the United States out of the United Nations. This has been officially catalogued as “The United Nations Withdrawal Act of 1995”. The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was quoted as having denounced the United Nations as a “rathole”. The New Republic suggested in a lead article, Oct. 30, 1995, that the United Nations “be allowed to wither away into irrelevance”. Even a staunch Clinton supporter and State Department official, Strobe Talbott, warned in an August speech that “The United Nations might very quickly join the League of Nations on the ash heap of history.”

In fact, we were relieved of the League of Nations only by the advent of the Second World War. Both the United Nations and the League of Nations were the creations of the central banks, manipulated by the House of Rothschild to cover up their financial control of the entire world. The activities in Bosnia, where both previous world wars were launched, indicate that the United Nations will indeed join the League of Nations on the ash heap of history through the convenient outbreak of the Third World War.

GULF WAR SERVED AS ATTITUDE ADJUSTMENT FOR BOSNIAN INTERVENTION

Here's a peek at the Gulf War and the current deployment of troops to Bosnia from the Bilderberg perspective. James P. Tucker, Jr. wrote this excerpted article which appeared in the December 18 issue of SPOTLIGHT, [quoting:]

This story first appeared in the SPOTLIGHT on June 24, 1991, under the front page headline BILDERBERG MEETS SECRETLY; ANOTHER WAR IN FIVE YEARS; NEWS BLACKED OUT IN U.S. Bill Clinton was one of those in attendance at this Bilderberg meeting.

pict. henry kissinger

“A UN army must be able to act immediately, anywhere in the world, without the delays involved in each country making its own decision whether to participate, based on parochial considerations,” said Henry Kissinger during one of the forums. Kissinger and others expressed pleasure over the conduct of the Persian Gulf War, stressing that it had been sanctioned by the UN, at the request of President George Bush, himself a Trilateral luminary, before the issue was laid before the U.S. Congress. The fact that the president would make his case to the UN first, when the Constitution empowers only Congress to declare war, was viewed as a significant step in “leading Americans away from nationalism.”

If Americans can be persuaded to surrender warmaking decisions to the UN, and let their young men die wearing a UN uniform, fighting under a UN flag, “parochial nationalism” in Britain, France and elsewhere will disappear, Bilderberg speakers said. “The Persian Gulf venture has advanced the cause by years,” one speaker said. Americans, so reluctant to commit their flag to foreign battlefields after 58,000 perished in the ill-fated Vietnam War, have had their attitude “completely turned around”, he said. When the allied casualty toll reached “only 378” and Americans read and heard of “only four” Americans dying in a week of ground war, it “was like nobody had died at all,” one said, “and Americans enjoyed it like an international sporting match.” Such an adventure was essential to getting Americans into “the right frame of mind for the years ahead,” said another. [And here we are, NOW apparently in “the right frame of mind”.]

THE MEDIA IS THE MESSAGE

As planned, American troops are spending Christmas in Bosnia. Should they be there? Does the president have the authority to send them? The mainstream media is in fine form for convincing you to say

“YES”. THE BILLINGS GAZETTE (November 30 issue) is unequivocal, [quoting:]

Will America’s best interest be served with the Bosnia intervention? The answer is yes. The region must be stabilized.... Why should American men and women be put at risk to help end a centuries-old ethnic war? Americans troops will go to Bosnia because their commander in chief has ordered them to go. It is not given each soldier to decide under which conditions he will honor the oath he or she swore to serve this country. [Ours is not to reason why; ours is but to do and die?]

WAR POWER: WHO’S GOT IT?

In a recent issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, President Clinton declares, “In the choice between peace and war, America must choose peace.” For those of you not well versed in doublespeak, that means he’s sending your kids to fight a new “peace/war”. Does he have the authority? In the same paper, Craig Crawford of the Washington Bureau has this to say, [quoting:]

President Clinton’s military aims in Bosnia face a gauntlet of political and legal obstacles if the Republican-run Congress chooses to make trouble. The Constitution gives only Congress the power to send troops into combat, although presidents have done so more than 200 times without congressional approval.

While giving Congress the power to start and pay for wars, the Constitution’s authors gave the president power to conduct war and repel sudden attacks. But mindful of the British monarchy’s abuse of military power, they were adamant that Congress have the supreme role. The Constitution’s primary author, James Madison, was most proud of the limitation on presidential military powers. “In no part of the Constitution is more wisdom to be found than in the clause which confides the question of war or peace to the legislature, not to the executive department.”

For decades, Congress has struggled to regain war powers lost to the presidency during the Cold War. [It doesn’t appear that Congress has REALLY ever taken an adamant, heart-felt position on this, does it? After all, the president and Congress are all owned by the same master.] Beginning with the Korean War in 1950, presidents routinely ordered troops into combat without congressional approval. No president has formally acknowledged the legitimacy of Congress’ most ambitious attempt to assert its authority—the 1973 War Powers Act. The War Powers Act requires the president to notify Congress within 48 hours of sending troops abroad. [This is their most ambitious attempt? It virtually concedes the war power to the president!] If the troops encounter combat, they must come home within 90 days unless Congress votes to keep them in battle. To preserve its authority over declaring war, Congress tried to settle a long-running dispute over what, precisely, war means. The War Powers Act defined it in the broadest terms, to include ordering troops into foreign hostilities of any kind.

When Ronald Reagan ordered the 1986 bombing of Libya, for instance, the American public was so enthusiastic [that is, the media PROGRAMMED and PORTRAYED us as “enthusiastic”.] that Congress dared not question him. The end of the Cold War reduced the need for presidential supremacy, and Clinton faces partisan foes on Capitol Hill who increasingly relish their power showdowns with the White House. [Window dressing and pure theatrics!] [End of quoting.]

cartoon berry's world

The NAVY TIMES (December 4 issue) is adamant that Congress has little to do with the issue of war, [quoting:]

The majority in Congress may oppose President Clinton's plan to send up to 20,000 troops to Bosnia, but there's probably nothing they can do about it. Clinton has indicated he will seek congressional approval, but legally he does not need it. The only power Congress has over troop movements is money, and even the staunchest opponents of a Bosnian deployment don't think Congress could win a funding fight with Clinton. [End of quoting.]

What did the founding fathers have to say about this issue? Stanley Kober of the Cato Institute brings the Federalist Papers into this discussion in an article published in the November 27-December 2 issue of THE WASHINGTON TIMES WEEKLY EDITION, [quoting:]

In a Newsweek article ("Why Bosnia Matters to America", Nov. 13) President Clinton stated that he has "no responsibility more grave than putting American soldiers in harm's way. Others in his administration have argued that he not only does not need congressional authorization, he can even send U.S. forces into potentially hostile situations in defiance of the expressed will of Congress. [Keeping in mind, that they are all really "in cahoots"!]

Far from giving the president such extensive powers, the Constitution was meant to prevent a single individual from involving the United States in foreign conflicts. The president's authority as commander in chief "would be nominally the same with that of the king of Great Britain, but in substance much inferior to it," Alexander Hamilton wrote in the Federalist No. 69. "It would amount to nothing more than the supreme command and direction of the military and naval forces, as first general and admiral of the Confederacy; while that of the British king extends to the declaring of war."

When delegates to the Constitutional Convention in 1787 changed the language of the proposed document so that the Congress was empowered to "declare" rather than "make" war, it was, as James Madison emphasized, to leave "to the Executive the power to repel sudden attacks" against the United States and for no other purpose. [Here's a classic example of the erosion of the Constitution over time by the elite destroyers.] It would seem clear, then that in the absence of any such guidance by Congress, let alone in defiance of it, the president is constitutionally proscribed from initiating any military actions that are likely to result in hostilities.

pict. clinton

The Clinton Administration's position is grounded in recent American history, to be sure, but that history reflects either ignorance of or a dismissive attitude toward this country's founding principles—one of the tragedies of the Cold War. Until recent decades, the notion that the president could send the nation's armed forces into peril anywhere, anytime and for any reason he alone deemed sufficient would have shocked constitutional scholars. We have seen the tragic consequences in this century, as unfettered leaders repeatedly plunged their countries into war—in most cases, conflicts the populations did not desire—producing tens of millions of deaths. That horrific record helps explain why Madison concluded that “in no part of the Constitution is more wisdom to be found, than in the clause which confides the question of war or peace to the legislation, and not to the executive department.”

The challenge confronting the administration, Congress and the American people is to determine whether we will be true to Madison’s principles and obedient to the Constitution or continue down the path of executive aggrandizement that, Madison warned, will undermine American democracy [huh?] and the cause of peace. Congress has unfortunately [i.e., deliberately!] allowed its war powers to be usurped by the executive over the past half-century. It should take the first step in reclaiming those powers by insisting that President Clinton fulfill his promise of January 10, 1994, that if U.S. forces are to be sent to help enforce a peace agreement in Bosnia, we would, of course, have to seek the support of our Congress. [This discussion is incomplete without mention that the War Powers Act of 1933 put us under Martial Law, and that each year the president reaffirms that status by executive order. Last year, as you may remember, Clinton’s excuse for so doing was the “unrest in Bosnia”.]

DSP VOICE FORGERY

Here’s another article from the December 18 issue of SPOTLIGHT, [quoting:]

WHO’S THERE? Everybody knows that photographs can be fabricated. Motion pictures can be made today with Clark Gable and Marilyn Monroe in Desert Storm or Rudolf Valentino and Marlene Dietrich flying the Concorde to Paris. But did you know that with the aid of a computer gimmick known as a Digital Signal Processor your voice—or anyone else’s—can be manufactured saying anything desired? It’s called DSP Voice Forgery and comes in handy when intelligence agencies want to frame someone for something or other. So now you can’t just disbelieve what you read or see, you also have to be skeptical about who you hear.

PILL-POPPING KIDS: THE PROZAC GENERATION

Here’s a mind boggler, from the December 1 issue of the WALL STREET JOURNAL, [quoting:]

Psychotherapists are complaining about a growing drug problem among their patients. But in this new wave of apparent drug abuse, it isn’t the users who are responsible. Marge Wertlieb, a Dix Hills, N.Y., psychotherapist, says she detected signs of heavy drug use in a troubled 10-year old boy she saw earlier this year. “He looked like someone on heroin,” Ms. Wertlieb says. “This child was clearly not in this world. I couldn’t treat the child while he was in that state.” The twist was that the boy’s pill popping wasn’t his idea but that of a psychiatrist working for a managed-care company. And his 30-milligram dose of one of the prescribed drugs, the antidepressant Prozac, was higher than what adults usually receive. Ms. Wertlieb suggested that the boy stop taking medication long enough so that she could talk with him in an undrugged state—and that both mother and son participate in psychotherapy. But, encouraged by the managed-care doctor, the boy’s mother decided to stick with the drugs. [According to U.S. News and World Report, which also covered this topic, “The federal Food and Drug Administration has approved the (Prozac group) drugs for use only by adults....they have not been tested on kids.”]

Managed-care companies, with their mandate to cut costs, make no bones about their preference for treating mental-health problems with drugs. Not only do they limit coverage for psychotherapy, they often pay psychiatrists more per hour to supervise drug treatment than to provide counseling. The pay premium has an “enormous influence” on how therapists practice, says Chicago psychiatrist John Gottlieb, because it makes “a significant difference in yearly income”. [This is all reminiscent of the Protocols of the Elders of Zion! The dastardly protocols, which are virtually accomplished, appear in Phoenix Journal #83, Political Psychos. Psychopolitics: The Soviet Art of Brainwashing by (allegedly) the head of Stalin’s secret police, Lavrenti Beria is also a MUST READ on the subject of control via psychological manipulation. It is reprinted in Phoenix Journal #68, Ecstasy To Agony Through The Plan 2000.]

DEPOPULATION NEWS: INDIA MOUNTS MASSIVE IMMUNIZATION DRIVE

Last week we reported a massive 2-day program to immunize 65 million Chinese children. The drive has moved to India, as reported in the December 10 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

From remote villages to crowded urban railway stations, millions of children were vaccinated against polio Saturday in a massive effort to eradicate the crippling disease. Lavishly decorated elephants and drummers took part in the publicity campaign, while thousands of school children across the country went door to door to spread the word about the immunization drive. Doctors and public health workers aim to immunize 75 million children under age 3 with a two-step oral vaccination. Half a million centers have been set up at schools, airports and on inter-city trains. New Delhi and other areas around India declared a holiday to facilitate the immunization campaign. Banks and government offices were closed. The World Health Organization has set 2005 as the target year for wiping out polio [and some 5 billion people] worldwide. [On May 2 the News Desk reported that one government-run health clinic in West Bengal was ransacked and burned when 11 children died and 38 others fell ill—at least 34 were in serious condition—after taking oral polio vaccine. No wonder they felt a massive publicity campaign was needed to sucker folks in for a repeat performance. PLEASE read Rick’s article, Part IV of Depopulation of a Planet, on the Front Page of this issue of CONTACT for the REAL story behind inoculations. You’ll read such zingers as: “Vaccination campaigns” are not only an excellent decoy for biological warfare, they themselves can be lethal bio-weapons.]

PRESS PREPARES POPULACE FOR WORLDWIDE EPIDEMICS

A headline in the JOHNSON CITY PRESS (December 14) proclaims: WORLDWIDE FLU EPIDEMIC OVERDUE, EXPERTS FEAR. The article states, [quoting:]

BETHESDA, Md.—The planet may be overdue for a new worldwide epidemic of influenza, one of humanity’s oldest and deadliest disease enemies, international experts said at a conference here Wednesday. More than 200 infectious disease experts met this week to consider how they should prepare for what some believe is the inevitable rise of a new and lethal influenza virus. The last major worldwide flu epidemic was in 1968, the so-called “Hong Kong flu”, and new strains of the flu virus typically rise and sweep through the international population every 10 to 40 years.

Between 1918 and 1919, a new viral strain infected more than 2 billion people and killed an estimated 20 million to 40 million, more than a half million in the United States. The “Asian flu” in 1957 also was new. It quickly circled the globe, causing wide-spread social disruption and at least 750,000 deaths in the United States.

The December 2 issue of Canada’s THE GLOBE AND MAIL addresses the threat of rampant disease, [quoting:]

TORONTO—Canada’s public-health system is dangerously complacent and ill prepared for the “crisis in infectious disease sweeping the planet right now,” one of the country’s leading tropical-disease specialists says. “We are too preoccupied with domestic health issues,” Dr. Kevin Kain, an infectious-disease specialist at the Toronto Hospital testified yesterday at the Commission of Inquiry on the Blood System in Canada. “We must stop thinking of ourselves in isolation from the rest of the world.” Last year, for example, the Toronto Hospital, the largest health-care institution in the country, treated more patients infected with malaria than people infected with HIV and AIDS, he said, and diagnosis had been missed in more than 60 percent of those cases. “Last year there were more than 100 malaria cases in Toronto and there are 200 cases of leprosy in the city....This isn’t fear-mongering, it’s reality.”

The inquiry is examining the causes of Canada’s tainted-blood tragedy, which left thousands of hemophiliacs and transfusion patients infected with the AIDS virus and with hepatitis C. Dr. Kain mentioned several diseases that could pose a threat to the blood supply, chief among them Chagas disease. Caused by the parasite trypanosoma cruzi, spread by insects, Chagas disease attacks the heart muscle. It is endemic to Latin America. Although there has been only one known death in Canada—a Winnipeg resident died after contracting Chagas disease through a blood transfusion—Dr. Kain estimated that between 5,000 and 500,000 Canadians are infected with the parasite and efforts must be made to prevent them giving blood. Speaking to reporters, Dr. Kain also identified some of the biggest public-health threats in Canada, including tuberculosis, dengue fever, malaria, and cholera. The latter three are spreading like wildfire in Latin America and the Caribbean, two of the most popular tourist destinations for Canadians.

WHO OWNS YELLOWSTONE? U.N. PUTS PRESSURE ON

Here’s an eye-opener, from the December 18 issue of U.S. NEWS & WORLD REPORT, [quoting:]

Many Americans aren’t bothered by what could soon happen at the edge of Yellowstone National Park, but the United Nations is. For years, the U.N. has included Yellowstone among some 440 World Heritage Sites, places of outstanding natural or cultural importance. Last week, the world organization declared the park one of the 18 World Heritage Sites that are “in danger”. The specific threat is a huge gold mine and permanent toxic waste repository near Cooke City, Montana, that’s moving close to reality 2 miles from the park border. The U.N. action ratchets up pressure for action to block the project. Possible options: President Clinton could lean on agencies that grant key permits. Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt could halt development under a federal law to “prevent unnecessary or undue degradation of the lands.” The government could try to buy—for several hundred million dollars—claims from the Canadian company developing the mine. Or Congress could amend the 1872 mining law that not only yields public land holding billions of dollars in metals for $5 an acre but permits mining projects in pristine areas. [Bingo! They’ve been on the verge of getting the “public” out of public lands for a long time. This incident demonstrates just how subservient the U.S. is to the U.N.!]

REQUIEM FOR A HEAVYWEIGHT

by Eustace Mullins 12/24/95

In the dog-eat-dog world of conservative talk radio, the undisputed heavyweight is Chuck Harder. Outweighing his closest competitor, Rush Limbaugh, by more than one hundred pounds, Chuck broadcasts his daily three-hour monologues from the historic Hotel Telford, the former winter resort of many American presidents in White Springs, Florida.

After trying a number of angles to build up his radio talk show, including extensive dedication to the current UFO craze, Chuck allowed two well known, hardline conservatives, Bobby Lee, also known as “The Mouth of the South” and a fiery young broadcaster, Tom Donahue, to air their shows on his network. Chuck was amazed at the tremendous audience reaction when these hosts exposed the JFK assassination, the Trilateral Commission, the Federal Reserve operation, and when they frequently interviewed an oldtime conservative, Eustace Mullins. Their rapidly growing audiences now presented a serious threat to Chuck’s radio show. They vanished from his network, and he began to have Eustace Mullins as a guest on his show. He generated so many calls from listeners that he became the only guest whom Chuck kept on the air for the entire three hours of his program.

Chuck also began to feature Mullins’ books, selling more than two hundred copies a month at his net profit of ten dollars per book. Mullins’ relationship with Chuck prospered for several years. Then Mullins filed a one-hundred-million-dollar lawsuit against the Anti-Defamation League for criminal terrorism and religious persecution. Mullins is still the only person who has ever dared to sue the much feared ADL. The ADL promptly struck back with a nationwide campaign to put him out of business. They intimidated organizers from inviting him to lecture or appear on their talk shows, and they systematically went after his national book distributors, of whom Chuck was the largest. These ADL activities were criminal violations of many statutes against censorship, conspiracy to injure and defraud, intimidation and extortion, all of which have long been the ADL’s stock in trade.

Chuck was now appearing on 380 stations throughout the United States. He became the ADL’s prime target. An agent was dispatched to White Springs, Florida to set Chuck up for the fall. The agent pretended that he was writing an article about Chuck for the New York Times. Chuck invited him into the hotel, wined and dined him for four days, and let him inspect all of the facets of his daily operation. It is difficult to believe that anyone could be so naive as to open up his offices to an agent, but Chuck was dazed by the prospect of being featured in the New York Times.

An article duly appeared, but not in the New York Times. Chuck had been gulled by a writer for the Nation, the last survivor of a plethora of hard line, leftwing weeklies echoing the now-antiquated Stalinist party line out of Moscow. The agent’s article, while generally fair to Chuck, criticized him harshly for his association with Eustace Mullins, whom he identified as “a classical anti-Semite” as opposed to the more general classification of a “non-classical anti-Semite”. I immediately wrote Chuck a letter in which I explained at great length my position of opposition to the Rothschild’s “Reform Judaism” which created the State of Israel, in defiance of the longstanding Orthodox Jewish faith that until the Messiah appeared, there could be no political Jewish state on Earth. Chuck never replied, nor did he offer me an opportunity to demolish the ADL attack. To make their point, the ADL had several stations cancel their contract with Chuck. Seeing the bleak picture ahead of him, Chuck announced that there had indeed been “a problem” with one book and that he was withdrawing this book and that its author would never again be allowed to appear on his show. He was very careful not to give his audience any indication of who this author was, because he would have provoked a firestorm of criticism. In fact, he had been featuring three of my titles, all of which were withdrawn, even though they were his steady best sellers. Listeners who write in for my books are now told they are out of them, and they don’t know when they will get any more copies. At no time is my name ever mentioned, or the title of the books. In a lengthy apologia pro vita sua which the Nation published, Chuck complained that he had been attacked by extremists as “a tool of Jewish and Israeli interests”, and that he had done special programs on the Holocaust featuring Rabbi Marvin Hier of the notorious Simon Weisenthal Center. My own response to Nation characterized the Holocaust as a “nonissue” and a figment of Jewish nightmares. I denounced “the attempt to force the entire civilized world to become a Wailing Wall for the Holocaust represents an essential morbidity of the Jewish psyche, a cult of death, which no psychiatrist cares to discuss.” I also raised the question, “Why do the Jews refuse to discuss the fact that Stalin killed more Jews than Hitler?”

The agent’s response to my published letter in the Nation denounced me for having written an article, “Ezra Pound: Unknown Hero”. He described me with the usual ADL venom as “such a vile character as Eustace Mullins, the sort we thought we got rid of at Nuremberg”. The ADL has complained for years that I was not tried at Nuremberg. This would have been difficult, since I was serving in the U.S. Army Air Force at the time.

By jettisoning me at the demand of the ADL, Chuck seems to have survived for the time being. However, he exists now solely at the courtesy of the ADL. In all fairness, he should open his program each day with the announcement, “The following program is brought to you by permission of the Anti-Defamation League of B’Nai B’Rith, which is solely responsible for its content.”

Chuck and his For The People operation also was easy prey for the ADL conspiracy because he had set the organization up as a 501C3 business for the purpose of tax exemption. This made him a sitting duck for any type of ADL pressure and consequent government harassment by any of the many government bureaus which answer only to the ADL. A recent CNN survey of his operation obtained copies of his tax returns, showing that he only grosses four-million dollars a year, a very modest operation. In contrast, ADL-approved propoganda shows such as Pat Robertson and Billy Graham take in more than five million dollars a week each. It is unlikely that Chuck Harder’s wildcat For the People network will give the ADL any more problems, but should this occur, they are well prepared to silence him whenever they wish.

THE NEWS DESK

by Phyllis Linn 1/1/96

HAPPY NEW YEAR FROM PLANET EARTH

(One year closer to Global Agenda 2000?)

The December 28 issue of the Los Angeles DAILY NEWS paired up two stories with these headlines: WORLD POPULATION UP 100 MILLION DURING 1995 and FLU SICKENS MILLIONS IN RUSSIA, UKRAINE. The connection is obvious if you are familiar with the material lately presented by Rick Martin in his series of articles on Depopulation (see page 17). The first is put out by the Associated Press, [quoting:]

WASHINGTON—The world’s population grew this year by 100 million people, to 5.75 billion, the largest increase ever, a population research group said Wednesday. Ninety percent of the growth is in poor countries “already terribly torn by civil strife and social unrest and where all too many people live in brutal poverty,” said Werner Fornos of the Population Institute. [According to the article, this organization receives no U.S. government money, but is funded by the United Nations, foundations and individuals.]

The second article is reprinted from THE NEW YORK TIMES, [quoting:]

MOSCOW—The most severe flu epidemic in decades is sweeping Russia and Ukraine, with as many as 200,000 people falling ill each day, according to health officials. Nearly 1 million people have been infected in Moscow alone, and it is nearly impossible to find a family that has been spared. In Ukraine, at least 2 million people already have gotten sick and health officials there said the number could triple in the next two weeks. So far, only a few deaths have been reported officially...but the experience of past flu epidemics makes it likely that the number of fatalities is actually much higher than reported. Doctors here also say that respiratory complications from the illness can persist for weeks.

Many schools in both countries have been shut, hospitals are under quarantine and federal health officials have warned that every tram, subway and bus has become the perfect vessel for transmitting the virus. In both countries, officials were quick to point out that the flu virus, while unusually virulent this year, was not the only reason for the rapid spread of the epidemic. The health systems of virtually all former republics of the Soviet Union have fared badly in the past several years. “Social changes and the deterioration of living conditions have lowered the general resistance of the nation,” Yuri Solodovnikov, a researcher at Moscow’s epidemiological center, told the weekly newspaper Moscow News. [Keep in mind that the Russians—as opposed to the Soviets—are number one on the Khazarian hit list.]

U.N. SANCTIONS KILL IRAQI KIDS

From the December 1 issue of TORONTO STAR, [quoting:]

LONDON (Reuter)—A United Nations agency said yesterday the U.N. economic sanctions against Iraq have been responsible for the death of more than 560,000 children since the Persian Gulf War ended in 1991. [Sounds like one of Janet Reno's child-welfare schemes, a la Waco.] A study by the Food and Agriculture Organization found that severe malnutrition is widespread among children in Baghdad. It blamed the sanctions imposed against Iraq as punishment for its 1990 invasion of Kuwait [You probably recall that the area of Kuwait was part of Iraq until Great Britain saw fit to create a separate country under its own puppet ruler—and that the “invasion” was sanctioned by the U.S. in advance, in a private communique from Ambassador April Glaspie to Saddam Hussein.]

“In the present study, the under-5 mortality increased fivefold,” Dr. Mary Smith Fawzi of the Harvard School of Public Health wrote in the Lancet medical journal. In addition, she said, infant deaths doubled during the Gulf War and this high rate remained, even though the war ended four years ago. [The massive immunization programs reported recently in China and India also target young children. Makes sense, doesn't it, if the goal is depopulation.]

CDC WARNS AGAINST... KOMBUCHA!?

There is NO place for effective, natural health practitioners, products, or techniques in the NWO depopulation program. The tactics are ruthless: confiscation, arrest, harassment, and slander. Here's an example of the latter, from the December 17 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

Kombucha mushroom tea, a drink reputed to prevent cancer, relieve arthritis, cure insomnia and make hair grow, could [COULD?!] pose a serious health risk, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention warns. [Oooh! better not take a chance—see how the mind is conditioned!] The CDC of Atlanta said an Iowa woman died earlier this year and another woman became seriously ill after they drank the tea every day for two months. The beverage is made by fermenting yeasts and bacteria in black tea and sugar. Even though it is not made from mushrooms, the drink is also called Kargasok tea, tea fungus, and Manchurian mushroom tea. The two women developed severe lactic acidosis, in which their blood had excessive levels of the acid found in sour milk. Proponents of the tea say its use dates as far back as China's Tsung Dynasty in 221 B.C.

HIV TEST USES ORAL SPECIMEN

The “official” story is that “you can't get AIDS from kissing”, yet the latest test for HIV uses saliva?! This Associated Press article appeared in the December 27 issue of the Los Angeles DAILY NEWS, [quoting:]

WASHINGTON—A confirming test for HIV that uses saliva and other oral fluids instead of blood is nearing approval by the Food and Drug Administration, a company that makes the test announced Tuesday. The company, Epitope Inc., said that it had received a letter from the FDA announcing that the firm's application to market the HIV test was “approvable”. An FDA spokesman declined to verify that such a letter had been sent to Epitope, but explained that in the normal process of agency action, such a letter was “tantamount to approval, provided the company meets the requests contained in the approvable letter.”

Epitope last year received approval to market an oral-specimen HIV test through health-care providers. That test uses a treated cotton pad placed between the gum and cheek to collect oral fluid. The pad is then placed into a container with a preservative and sent to a laboratory for an enzyme-linked immunosorbent assay, or ELISA test, with can detect antibodies to HIV. The test detects antibodies, not the virus itself. HIV usually is not found in saliva. [USUALLY? That sounds a little flimsy! Dr. William Haseltine, Chief of the Division of Retrovirology, Harvard University had this to say: “Anyone who tells you categorically that AIDS is not contracted by saliva is not telling you the truth. AIDS may, in fact, be transmissible by saliva, tears, bodily fluids, and mosquito bites.” (New Dimensions magazine, April, 1990) Dr. Helen Singer Kaplan, Professor, Cornell University Medical School, reported: “In fact, the HIV count is larger in saliva than in the blood of an HIV-positive person. Saliva is an ideal environment for the AIDS virus.” Why would the FDA and the Associated Press lie? Find out in CONTACT’s ongoing series of articles on Depopulation (page 17)] Positive results from the ELISA test are confirmed with the more sensitive Western blot blood test.

Now Epitope is seeking permission to market a Western blot test that also uses oral fluids instead of blood. In its announcement, Epitope said the FDA was asking for additional information and a facilities inspection. [A saliva test for the AIDS virus—Orasure—has been available in Mexico since 1992.]

DRAGEE MELEE: FDA NIXES SILVER FOR HOLIDAYS

Those of you who are familiar with colloidal silver will find this article a bit amusing. From the December 21 issue of the WALL STREET JOURNAL, [quoting:]

The holidays are a worrisome time for the health-conscious, what with all those calories and fat grams hidden in seasonal goodies. Not to mention heavy metal. That’s heavy metal, as in dragees (pronounced “drahj-ay”), those little silver balls that put the gleam in the eye of gingerbread and the sparkle on the sugar-cookie star. As it turns out, those little silver balls contain, well, silver. And the Food and Drug Administration says don’t eat them. [Yeah. They just MIGHT knock out the flu the CDC just gave you!] Not that anyone has actually gotten sick from downing dragees. If eaten in small quantities, FDA policy analyst Catherine Bailey pronounces “we do not anticipate toxicity.” Indeed, dragees are listed as nontoxic on Poisindex, a computer program used by state poison-control centers nationwide. But the FDA won’t budge in its disapproval, because it hasn’t run its own tests: No one has yet petitioned the agency for the approval of silver as a color additive. With good reason. FDA approval would involve animal studies using large doses of the silver additive for long periods. Joseph Charnowski, vice president of sales at QA Products in Elk Grove, Ill., the country’s only dragee manufacturer, said the cost of the studies would be prohibitive given the small amount of dragees sold. Dragees, Mr. Charnowski said, contain “minuscule” amounts of silver: about .0003 parts of silver per million, or 310-billionths of each dragee.

Bah! Humbug! say the FDA Scrooges. They also refuse to give their (gold?) seal of approval to other forms of precious silver leaf used to decorate cakes, the flecks of gold sparkling in the liqueur called Goldwasser, and the metallic foil traditional on many Indian pastries. In most states, dragees are still sold in grocery stores, but not as food. Mario S.K. Rinaldi, an importer of French dragees for the glamorous Manhattan catering company Glorious Foods, laughs at the notion that silver- or gold-coated dragees pose a health threat. “In Europe, we have eaten them for centuries, and no one is getting sick from the dragee,” he said.

Mr. Charnowski noted that dragees were popular decorations on silver anniversary cakes, but the divorce rate has cut into those sales. Soon, he said, “Dragees will be as scarce as couples who are married for 25 years.”

PULLING THE PLUG

Recently the News Desk featured an article about how patients’ wishes were ignored by their doctors, even when documented in a Living Will. This article, from the December 17 issue of the Los Angeles DAILY NEWS may be the other side of the coin, [quoting:]

After 16 months in a coma caused by injuries received in an auto accident, Robert woke up and, until recently, was receiving physical and speech therapy to rehabilitate him. Robert appeared to be slowly improving. Indeed, he progressed so far in less than a year that he can maneuver himself in a motorized wheelchair through hospital corridors. Robert is the subject of a bitter controversy. His wife, Rose Wendland, wants to cut off the “medical treatment” of food and fluids provided through a tube. Despite the fact that Robert is conscious and interactive, Rose’s decision to cause Robert’s death is supported unanimously by the Lodi Memorial Hospital ethics committee. However, a close look at the committee’s approval reveals some disturbing facts. As far as is known, no one argued on behalf of saving Robert’s life. The nurses and therapists, the very people who spend the most time with Robert, were never asked to appear before the committee. Indeed, the ombudsman, whose specific job is to advocate on Robert’s behalf, wasn’t even aware that Robert was able to manipulate a motorized wheel chair when she, too, decided to support Rose’s plans. [Before castigating Rose into oblivion, please reflect that you have not walked a mile in her moccasins, nor have we been given all the relevant facts by this mainstream-media article. We are daily faced with the responsibility of making our OWN choices, but we become FOOLS when we cast our judgments upon another—fooling ourselves into believing we are possessors of the all-encompassing, valid and true perspective from which to do so. Most of us are limited by our own third-dimensional constraints to see clearly into another’s soul and covenant with God. Judgmentalness has a way of coming back on us like a boomerang via the Law of sowing and reaping—those judgments are, after all, our own projections!]

Robert’s case is not unique. In Florida, the brother of 83-year-old stroke patient Marjorie Nighbert decided to cut off her tube feeding, allegedly because of the terms contained in her advanced directive [Presumably, this is like a living will or limited power of attorney, in which a person spells out his or her wishes in the event he should become incapacitated.] Marjorie was not unconscious. During her starvation, she specifically asked nurses for food. This was so upsetting to one nurse that she blew the whistle. Enter the court, where, after a hurried investigation, it was determined that Marjorie was not medically competent to retract her advanced directive (in other words, to ask for the “treatment” of food). Thus, even though she had asked to be fed, the starvation was allowed to continue. Ms. Nighbert died on April 5, 1995.

All over the country, in hospitals, nursing homes and other facilities, conscious but cognitively disabled and aged people are being denied adequate care and/or are being starved and dehydrated to death in the name of patient autonomy, “quality of life” and “best interests of the patient” determinations. But what is really going on is the creation of a disposable caste of people, whom we, the healthy, find too emotionally painful, too expensive or too inconvenient to care for, and whose intentional killing we increasingly find all too easy to rationalize. [End of quoting.]

Actually, I am MORE appalled by the frequency with which so many of us are finding ourselves in this position—of being incapacitated by degenerative diseases. Medical-school theology has trained us to look to the doctor-deity who will provide us with a sacramental fix-it drug—which can NEVER create health! We need to put aside that mentality if we expect to survive (and flourish) during this new and ever more challenging year ahead. Health is created and maintained by adhering to certain natural laws. Pure food and water, pure thoughts and lifestyle habits! It’s no easy task to find the former, so careful supplementation is in order. Hydrogen peroxide, colloidal silver, Gaiandriana, and other products are a God-send, but they are NOT an ALTERNATIVE to responsible behavior. These products cannot protect you from yourself! It’s THAT time of the year. How about making some self-affirming resolutions—ones that are truly in your best interest—and ones that you will keep! (Yeah, I made mine!)

Happy New Year and best wishes from me, Phyllis.

CHAPTER 20

THE C.I.A. PIPELINE

by Michael Maholy

PART XX: "OPERATION ODESSA"

Editor's note: The last time we presented Michael Maholy's "inside" story about The C.I.A. Pipeline was in our 12/12/95 CONTACT on p. 17, where he called that installment: "Drop Zone".

It is widely known throughout the entire world, that oil and natural gas are both the lifeline and bloodline of any country or nation on the Planet Earth. Without these very precious high-priced commodities nations would come to a halt; they would stall. Over the past few decades the quest for oil and natural gas has been a worldwide effort. Vast deposits have been found in places so remote that even certain animal subspecies cannot exist, yet modern man with his futuristic technology, computers, and satellite laser functioning has found deposits so large that it's truly hard to comprehend.

It was decided way back toward the early part of the 1930s, that the most powerful Elite families of the world would take it upon themselves to rule over the distribution of these highly prized substances, and control a worldwide monopoly on them. These families included the Bushes, the Rockefellers, Kennedys, Hunts and Gettys. Not to mention the sultans and kings throughout the Middle-Eastern countries. As time advanced, so did the technology and physical aspects as well as the understanding of how to go about harnessing Mother Nature's black gold. The wealthy families had foreseen a huge, profitable industry that was yet to ripen and showed promise of untold fortunes. They knew that the golden rule applied here, that being: he who controlled the gold—the black, liquid gold—would control the world.

As many of you who have been reading my personal true story of the C.I.A. PIPELINE have come to learn, the people that I was working for, the C.I.A., and also the U.S. NAVAL INTELLIGENCE SERVICE, George Bush and Oliver North, would stop at nothing to achieve their ultimate goal which is total domination, power, wealth and fame. I have told you about massive amounts of both weapons and illegal drugs that were smuggled into this country and exported to other countries. You have seen the pattern that is a common denominator in lust, greed, misfortune and death. There is no honor among thieves, there never has been and there never will be. What you are about to read within this chapter is by far the most destructive, most unforgiving episode that I have ever had personal knowledge of. Not only did this operation, which was the doings and brainwork of George Bush and his henchman of the C.I.A. and Israeli "MOSSAD", end in the deaths of some 46 men, mostly Americans, but it also had lasting effects on both the future life of hundreds of thousands, if not millions of generations to come and also an entire ecosystem of marine plant and animal life. The overall catastrophic outcome of this single event should call for the men who were behind this act to be put to death themselves. I now will begin the true story of OPERATION ODESSA.

I was sleeping in my berth on ZAPATA-7, the offshore oil rig that was involved in this massive smuggling operation. The drill pipe had recently been stuck deep within the hole as a result of too much torque being applied to the nine-inch steel bit. Now that the pipe had been freed I had time, or so I thought, to catch up on some badly needed rest. I remember lying in my bunk, as I do to this very day, recanting past missions, relationships, experiences. I knew then that what I was involved in was terribly wrong, that Satan controlled much if not all of my life, as well as my fellow ship-mates and operatives. Visions would often be blurred, as the marijuana and booze that I ingested seemed to numb my brain to a degree that I just didn't care who or what was really making this strange sensation that overwhelmed me, that controlled me.

The oil rig's belly holds were full, bulging with the mystic white powder that was manufactured deep in the Peruvian and Colombian jungles. It was this cocaine that the people in other countries, especially America, craved. By now, regular almost-daily trips from the smaller shrimp trawler and oil field supply boats would be coming to ZAPATA-7 to load their own hulls with the poison destined for various ports through the Gulf coastal region of the United States. Things were going smoothly. If any foreign government inspectors would board the ZAPATA-7, they would suspect nothing out of the ordinary, just one of the hundreds of offshore drilling operations that was at a peak throughout Central and South America during this period of time.

It is important to realize that the southern operations of the C.I.A. and the Bush Administration were, in fact, not the only outlet for illegal drugs and weapons. Another very important logistical region was also the North Sea, off the coasts of Newfoundland and Labrador, even Ireland. It was through this region that many weapons from the Middle East and Europe would be funnelled, along with money and drugs that supplied the I.R.A. movement in Northern Ireland. This area has some of the most hostile, unforgiving seas on this planet and also was a breeding ground for corruption at high government levels. The C.I.A. knew that in order to have total control of the U.S. and its coastal operations, they would have to have operational directives as well as personnel in all regions that afford access to the U.S. The North Atlantic has been a staging area ever since WWII for intrigue and military as well as para-military operations and covert missions.

Thus, the Bush family had invested in several offshore business ventures, which would give them access to these regions throughout the world. The Bush family also owns significant oil production throughout Kuwait. Did you people think that the war in Kuwait, "Operation DESERT STORM", was a humanitarian effort? Well think again, it was deployed to protect Bush's family investments over there. Things like his own ZAPATA OIL futures and even his two railroads. Oh, I'm sorry, perhaps you did not know about this. It's quite true, though. The war was not deployed to protect the poor innocent Middle-Eastern people from the evil Saddam—it was solely to protect Elite future and retirement monies, period. Don't you think that our troops could have taken out Saddam at any time? We know right where he is at this very moment, but in steps warped world politics! Look at the thwarted mission to Somalia. Again, a very important strategical global position near the world's largest oil and gas fields. A better way to monitor and control movement about this region. The Haiti mission—well let's just assume that the rich and Elite just like their own good-tasting marijuana with their cocktails!

Not to stray from the warm waters of the Caribbean here, but I felt I had to point out these northern operations to you in order to get the full picture of what led up to this business with the ODESSA rig. As I walked about my duties on ZAPATA-7, a call came over the com-sac radio, via space satellite dish, or commonly called our E.A.M., which stood for Emergency Action Message recorder.

Upon receiving this coded message, it was clear that I had my orders to fly by helicopter north into Mexican waters and board the offshore drilling rig named ODESSA. The ODESSA had just been sailed up to the state of Yucatan in southeastern Mexico just months prior to the message. The ODESSA was an older drilling rig with a history somewhat similar to that to the ghost ship MADRID. A sister rig to the ODESSA, was a rig called the RANGER-I. The RANGER-I was drilling in the North Atlantic and was owned by the C.I.A. sub-company called Shamrock Drilling, whose home base was in Ireland and also had headquarters here in America.

Another investment business that the Bush family, along with the Getty Oil company, was involved in was the disposal of highly toxic, radioactive nuclear waste of both solid and liquid form. There were at that time, only a few licensed corporations in the U.S. that had government contracts to dispose legally of this toxic material. It was fed to the public that the strict government controls over the regulations that governed the projects was constantly monitored, just like the supposed melting of the weapons that were diverted and funnelled south of the border. The Bush and Getty oil companies had the “luck of the draw” to win these contracts, though some were also dispensed through other corporations as well. Between the two major holders of these awarded contracts, untold millions-and-millions of dollars were made by the illegal dumpings of the toxic waste in a method called: DEEP-WELL DOWN-HOLE INJECTION. To the average person who is so busy scratching out a living only to pay the corrupt government 50% of their earnings, such talk about toxic waste and deep-well down-hole injection sounds crazy, but let me assure you, this practice continues to this very day, people.

You see, after all the oil and gas is pumped out of an underground oil and gas field, all that is left is one huge cavity of porosity, sometimes as big as a city! Normally, the cavities are sealed shut with tons of concrete poured over and into the hole, but in this case, the greed and lust for yet more money to be made was fulfilled by another brainchild of George Bush and his engineers. They had devised a way to pump the liquid radioactive nuclear waste back down into the seemingly bottomless pits that had only held oil and gas, and then at the very top of the remaining space within the subterranean cavity, they would top this off with tens of thousands of barrels of prime crude oil once again, and then resell the lease! Practices like this had netted the two families billions of dollars. At the time, the Mexican government officials who were in charge of their countries’ environmental projects were paid off and bribed with large sums of money and whatever it would take for them to look the other way. The Bush and Getty families used their evil cunning to defraud and deceive the friendly people of our neighboring country to further their own power and wealth.

I was to fly to the ODESSA and review all cable transmissions and to shred any and all data pertaining to the operation. Upon landing on the dirty old rig, it was plain to see that this rig was in fact a “scum bucket” and had weathered many a storm at sea. Unlike the ZAPATA-7, who’s bulkheads were spit-shined and kept so well, it was obvious that this rig had seen better times and was in a state of neglect. After walking to the bridge to meet the commander and tool pushers, I once again sensed hatred in the air. Call it intuition if you must, but I did not like the feeling. It’s one of those feelings you might get from a sixth sense; whatever, I couldn’t wait until my duties were done on that floating garbage heap. The two officers had given me the regular tour and rundown of the situation and just what was taking place. Most of the crew was American, with a few Mexicans and even a couple of Israelis aboard, some 46 men in all. They had informed me that they, as well, had received a warning message that something big was going to take place concerning a visit for Mexican government environmental officials in the weeks to follow—perhaps a breach in the security and secret of the toxic waste pumping but nothing was for certain. There were all types of ship scuttle-butt talk in the air. On one deck, one might hear that everyone was going to be placed under arrest, yet on another deck, one might hear that ol' George Bush himself sold the rig and so on. Rumors were everywhere, but nothing was final or true, at least as far as I knew. All I knew for fact was that I was ordered to go to the rig and perform the job that I was sent to do. In the line of work that I was involved in, you didn't ask too many questions, you just did what you were told. Perhaps a grave mistake on my part in the end.

I sensed a mutinous, unhappy crew. A crew that perhaps had been out to sea too long or even a crew that knew very well what the outcome, the long range effects that this practice of dumping highly toxic waste into the oceans of the world would ultimately have not only on them, but on future generations, including the marine plant and animal life. The situation was not a cheerful one, but one of gloom, definitely a dark-sided aura.

The trick with deep-well down-hole injections is to run the pumping day and night, night and day around the clock so as to get it in the hole, top it off with high grade crude, and seal the cavity then get the hell out of that lease area. Even if that meant moving the rig a thousand miles to another country, "get out of Dodge!" But in the ODESSA's case, it was too late. Something somewhere had gone very wrong. Something already had triggered a decision to seal not only the hole that the poisons were pumped into, but also to seal the fates of the entire crew as well.

After two days aboard the ODESSA, the rig was boarded by a team of French and U.S. Naval personnel. These commandos were there under the guise of the ongoing missions throughout neighboring Nicaragua and the mining with explosives of the ports down there. They claimed that they had orders to lay low and use the ODESSA at the executive order of the then president, Ronald Reagan, another close friend of George Bush and family. It was then that I had recognized an old Naval acquaintance of mine, one Lt. Commander Robert Hunt, U.S. Navy Executive Officer-Seal Team Six. Hunt and I did time in the Navy together up in Greenland in the '70s at a D.E.W. station, which stands for Distant Early Warning tracking unit. This was the unit that I first learned my cable communications monitoring at, and was code named Zebra Station. This remote outpost in the barren ice fields of northern Greenland on the 82nd parallel was one of America's first line of defense systems that would monitor and intercept incoming inter-continental ballistic missiles from Russia. Hunt and I shared many a frozen night together up there in the past talking about everything from our high-school lovers, to the latest war game tactics. Needless to say, Hunt was a welcome sight and a great break in the gloomy boredom that overwhelmed the ODESSA.

Hunt was a dedicated Navy Seal, who was as fit as a fiddle and sharp as a tack. This man, unlike Adams or his younger companion Pena, had control of everything he came into contact with. He was stealth if there ever stealth. When Hunt and his team took on a mission, one could bet they would see it through, one way or the other. By the way, a very good background of Lt. Commander Robert Hunt can be read in the book by author Rodney Stich, titled DEFRAUDING AMERICA. Hunt, along with myself, is featured in this book. A "must" reading for those who demand the truth.

Hunt took the time to see that his team got the rest that they needed very much. They all looked tired and weary, as they had just come off of a mission deep behind hostile lines down in Colombia doing some recon work and infiltration of the drug laboratories deep within the jungles. After Hunt settled his men down, he requested that he meet with me in total privacy, as the information that he had to relay to me was of the top secret status. I agreed to talk, but only after we drank some good Mexican Tequila and I smoked my potent marijuana. Hunt was a non-drug user; however, he could bend a hefty elbow when it came to the booze. Hunt then got that old familiar, very serious type of look in his eyes, then he turned to me and said, "Mike, old friend, it's not pretty; you must leave this junk pile by 0800 hours. No 'ifs', 'ands', or 'buts' about it. Leave!" I then asked him just what the hell is really going on here. I told him that I was ordered to shred all the documents in the safe and radio room and retrieve the ship's log. I asked him if the crew was in danger of an uprising due to Mexican politics. He told me that it was far beyond anything like that, but much more serious. He then told me that I and two others were to be flown off of the rig that very night, back to Houston, Texas. Hunt then went on to tell me that this operation involved a severe breach in security on a national alert status, meaning that someone up in Washington gave the ultimate order to terminate the operation. The leak in whatever was really going on, had ties to the North Atlantic RANGER-I operation and Shamrock Drilling. He also stated that the I.R.A. was involved, thus the French divers that were with him all had their orders as well. The more I questioned Hunt, the blanker Hunt's eyes grew. His only reply was, "Mike, leave this damn rig now, before it is too late"!

With the serious look in Hunt's eyes and knowing the man, I knew, I felt my face get beet-red and flush, full of excitement, but yet full of fear. He warned me not to talk to any of the others, that I should return to my cabin and remain there until he alone came to put me on the boat that would take me to yet another rig, then on a helicopter that would take me to Houston, Texas. With these orders coming from a very military type person, one could very well forget that we ever even met. I obeyed his command and surrendered to the comfort of my berth.

0800 hours, Friday morning. The hot tropical sun was already on its way to making the day seemingly hostile. The waters were as blue as the sky. I had been awakened by Hunt himself and requested by him to join him for coffee up on the bridge. Hunt was in a good mood, or so it seemed. He did, however, have that determined look in his eyes. He had asked me if I had spoken to anyone about anything he had mentioned to me the night before; my reply was no, that I had retired to my stateroom and fallen into a deep sleep. I asked him what was going on that morning. He stated that two of his divers had to make an emergency inspection of the pipe, deep below the water line. I asked him just what the Navy had to do with a civilian operation, but then assumed that it was ordered by George Bush and some of his C.I.A. buddies, and billed to the U.S. Government, like so many other things we often did throughout my career. Hunt told me that the driller had monitored a pressure leak during the night while pumping the toxic wastes down the hole, injecting them. He said his divers, a Frenchman and an American would photograph any cracks or leads, then report the damage to damage control mainside for proper fabrication. I, knowing nothing more, assumed that this was what was actually taking place, not knowing that in less than six more hours, the offshore drilling rig would cease to exist and never be seen again by anyone, ever!

Hunt gave his goodbyes to me and told me where I could reach him in the future. His career was sky-rocketing as he and Dick Marcinko, another Navy Seal Commander had their work cut out for them. These were the men that would later go into Grenada and even to the Middle East, into Baghdad and plant the highly sensitive radio laser-guided beacon transmitters that our pilots used during Desert Storm, when the air strikes began. Hunt was also the first along with his strike force to enter Panama during the invasion. Yes, people, Hunt was also an assassin, but unlike Adams and Pena, Hunt did not turn mercenary or ever kill for money, at least to my knowledge. Now, if he was under orders such as with the ODESSA operation, then he knew no better, as it is like the things that I was involved in doing, were deemed in the best interests of our government.

The boat arrived just as scheduled. A newer version of the attack-torpedo style boats that the military now use. This boat was fully manned and armed, and ready to evacuate the area. I remember the look on the faces of the workers of the ODESSA. It was as though they sensed sudden death waiting, lurking in the shadows. But who was to say—not I, for I could then only assume, or guess at what was to come. Hunt told me that he would get in touch with me later down the line. With these final words, I departed the ODESSA, and would never see her again until the news media across the world broadcasted a new brief that read: “Off shore oil rig in Yucatan waters explodes, all 46 aboard are believed to be dead or missing”! I was stunned, people. The rig that I had just left that morning had been blown sky high and in the aftermath, a roaring hot oil and gas, mixed with only-God-knows what type of poisonous toxic chemicals, burned out of control. In fact, the fire was so intense, that it burned for fourteen days thereafter, and the rig was finally burned and melted away to the water’s edge. Then in a last ditch attempt to snuff the stump of a rig out, six Hercules work-type helicopters introduced a massive cone made out of concrete that would be placed over the remaining flames and suffocate them out. It was a modern engineering feat, never attempted before.

In the days to follow, George Bush took to the air and TV waves, stating just how tragic all of this was and how the American government would launch a full investigation into any possible terrorist activity—only later to be termed a drilling accident due to a faulty blow-out-prevention system. I was shocked, to say the least; however, very thankful for Hunt warning me and the two others to evacuate the rig. This one single event in my life had left me with very deep emotional scars, perhaps more than the average person can comprehend. The thought of all those poisons going into the ecosystem and oceans of the world, then the mass murders of everyone aboard the rig is at times, still to this day, hard for me to swallow. Why have I never spoken about these events in the past? Probably because I’m only human, and I have fears, day in and day out. It is like a lot of people have told me, I’m very lucky that I did not meet my maker, God, early in life. In a way, a very special way, God must have wanted me to live to tell all of you about this. There will always be non-believers. People and human nature are often funny, yet unforgiving. I have noticed people that I have come to know—yes, even some of you that are reading this today—change. What makes a person do the things they do, or what makes them say the things that they say. I have not the answers. I, like a lot of you, am still searching for the truth. Is there such a thing? Yes, I believe in my heart that there is, and together we shall do our best to expose all of this madness.

I’ll leave you today with the legacy of the ODESSA and the peril of the men who died that day. I’ll also leave you with the thought that the people you elect to the high command offices may one day even deploy men such as Hunt and their strike teams to terminate you or someone you may know. We who are reading this are a rare breed of supreme animal. We must understand that if we demand the ultimate out of what life has to offer, then we must be willing and prepared to pay the ultimate price. Remember that fear will cause one to hesitate, and hesitation will cause one’s fears to come true.

I’m not one to go around and make promises that I cannot keep, therefore the only promise I will make to those who will accept me and the truth I deliver to them is that I will continue to do my best at exposing the truth, and that’s the best that I can do. Mother always told me that life was indeed, like a box of chocolates, that you never know what you are going to get, and you know what, she was right! And that’s all I have to say about that!

In the next chapter we go back to the U.S., back to the Mena, Arkansas area, then off to Newfoundland and Labrador. By the way, has anyone seen Malibu Bear????

GOOD NEWS:
FILIPINOS SUE
COMMUNIST TERRORISTS

There seems to be no peace for those who resist the international oligarchs, as Imelda Marcos can surely attest, but perhaps there is, at last, some light at the end of this tunnel in the Philippines. The December 25 issue of THE SPOTLIGHT provides background to this story, [quoting:]

pict. of the mr. & mrs. marcos

When Marcos refused to allow his nation's internal affairs to be dictated by the international financiers and the global lending agencies that were pressuring Marcos to borrow his nation into bondage, the media guns of the banker-dominated Establishment were promptly aimed at Marcos. In no short order, an unusual alliance between the oligarchic families of the Philippine islands, multinational corporate and financial interests, and a motley assortment of State Department diplomats, CIA operatives and American political figures with ties to the banking Establishment [sounds like a very USUAL alliance to me] geared up to bring Marcos down. They succeeded.

Under armed assault Marcos and his family fled the presidential palace in U.S. military helicopters. The family was told they were going to be taken to the president's native province in the northern Philippines. The family was shocked, however, to learn that they were instead kidnaped. They were taken to Honolulu and placed under virtual house arrest by the U.S. authorities. [Long a strong U.S. ally, Marcos had received the highest American military honors for his assistance to the American forces under Gen. Douglas MacArthur.]

Despite their fall from power, the international campaign against Marcos and his wife continued. "Racketeering" charges [were brought] against President and Mrs. Marcos, but the president died before the case went to trial [VERY suspicious, indeed!] Mrs. Marcos stood trial, defended by Gerry Spence (who later handled the Randy Weaver defense). The jury quickly dismissed the charges, recognizing them for the fraud that they were. Even the judge was moved to ask why such charges (for alleged misdeeds in the Philippines) were being heard by a Manhattan jury. Confident their media campaign against Mrs. Marcos would bring her down, the conspirators were astounded by her acquittal. [Is this reminiscent of the O.J. trial, or WHAT?!] At this juncture, critics launched a new effort to discredit the memory of Ferdinand Marcos and to grab control of the remnants of the once gigantic Marcos fortune. [which was NOT stolen from the Philippine Treasury as touted by the international media but came, apparently, from a gigantic gold hoard secreted in and around the Philippines by Japanese Gen. Yamashita during the fierce Pacific islands fighting of World War II.] The conspirators orchestrated a bogus lawsuit against Mrs. Marcos with the sole purpose of grabbing control of her family's holdings. A law firm was enlisted to place the names of some 10,000 Philippine communists on a class action suit in a U.S. federal court against Marcos and his wife. Only a handful of the 10,000 "victims" were ever actually interviewed. Of the alleged violations, none had occurred on U.S. soil, What's more, most of them had supposedly taken place some 15 years previously during the period when Marcos had instituted martial law in order to save the Philippines from communist terror and takeover.

The case was first filed in federal court in Honolulu where the Marcoses were held, but a federal judge threw out the case for lack of jurisdiction. Then the anti-Marcos cabal decided to file the suit in the court of Judge Manuel Real in federal district court in San Francisco. Real has the rare distinction of being the most overturned judge in America. He is known for his obstinate and raucous courtroom behavior, often threatening to jail people who are appearing before him. [From the Jason Brent School of Jurisprudence?] After years of bullying and routinely ruling against the Marcos defense, Real arbitrarily decided what was "evidence" and what was not. Counsel for Marcos was even prevented from cross-examining the complainants and the plaintiffs won a huge judgment. Real [not a Filipino, as you might think, but a Romanian immigrant who "escaped the gas chambers"] awarded the plaintiffs $2 billion is now demanding some $450 million in Swiss bank accounts belonging to the Marcos family be turned over to the plaintiffs and their attorneys. Although attorneys for Mrs. Marcos have appealed Real's ruling, he continues to issue threats, taking umbrage that his judgment has been questioned. Real is so determined to divest the Marcos family of their money that he has dismissed the rights of Swiss or Philippine courts to adjudicate the matters at hand. Real's conduct is so outrageous the Wall Street Journal—ordinarily a staunch defender of the Establishment—editorialized on December 12 that Real has no authority to interfere in the case.

THE TURNAROUND

In spite of the antics of Real and his puppetmasters, justice may yet prevail, as reported in the January 1 issue of THE SPOTLIGHT, [quoting:]

MANILA—Ever since the anti-Marcos cabal of the State Department moved heaven and earth to steal the fortune of former Filipino president Ferdinand Marcos, the Filipino silent majority has been persecuted for its loyalty to its legitimate president. Now, this silent majority of Filipinos, acting independent of the Marcos family, has organized a sensational lawsuit which is rocking the State Department and CIA flunkies in the Philippine capital. In a counter to a suit on behalf of 10,000 Communists, which was entered in a U.S. court, case No. 95-23529 was filed in the Philippine Superior Court by leading human rights attorney Oliver O. Lozano. Loyalists for Marcos, Inc., the entity representing the 5 million participants in the suit, seek damages from the Communists for crimes inflicted on them by the 10,000 plaintiffs in U.S. Judge Manuel Real's court. Unlike the 10,000 names on the suit in the United States—many of the plaintiffs are unverified by order of Real—all of the 5 million petitioners in the Philippines are real and verified claimants who are out for justice. This includes making right the persecution they have suffered under the CIA regimes of Cory Aquino and Fidel Ramos. [This CIA-intrigue-filled saga is not peculiar to the Philippines, as we know. It spans the globe!] Plaintiffs want the court to declare President Marcos not liable for human rights violations because of his instructions to observe due process and to protect human rights.

One of the most explosive pieces of evidence in the hands of the counter suit arsenal is a videotape in which the CIA Aquino-Ramos clique thought they had destroyed. The tape was taken during a cabinet meeting dealing with counterterrorist measures to be taken by the Marcos government. During that meeting Marcos admonished his chief of staff Fidel Ramos (now president) to insure that due process of law was observed in the apprehension of suspected Communist terrorist. To Marcos' astonishment Ramos replied somewhat laughingly that as far as he was concerned he would arrest people first and work out charges later. Marcos replied he would have none of that, then ordered Ramos to observe due process at all levels. Thus, if the Communists were arrested without due process it was done contrary to Marcos' orders and instructions by an official who violated both his president's orders and the law. Consequently, if Real was so intent on redressing human rights violations in all of the world's countries—albeit without the slightest jurisdiction—he would have gone after Ramos—not Marcos. The State Department, and its Manila clique, did everything in its power to derail the lawsuit. Claimants were threatened. Some were subjected to blackmail and bribes, some to death threats, but all to no avail.

Finally, the real human rights violations are being adjudicated in the proper forum of the concerned country and not in Real's inquisition chambers. If the plaintiffs, representing 5 million Filipinos, are successful, the whole force of the Real-State Department-CIA cabal and lawsuit will be destroyed.

MORE GOOD NEWS:
APPEALS COURT STRIKES DOWN
CHICAGO ANTI-LOITERING LAW

Let's keep the momentum going: Here's more good news, from the December 20 issue of the THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

CHICAGO—Attorneys plan to appeal to the Illinois Supreme Court a lower-court decision striking down a city ordinance that allows police to disperse any group of people if at least one of them is a known gang member and arrest anyone who does not cooperate, it was reported Tuesday. [Similar “anti-crime legislation has been enacted in other states, notably California.] The ordinance “smacks of a police-state tactic”, the appeals court found. “Gang membership itself is not a crime, and standing in a public place with no apparent purpose is not a crime,” it said. “Adding these actions together does not make them any more criminal.” The court said the 1992 ordinance violated First Amendment guarantees of freedom of association and expression, the Fourth Amendment protection against arrest without probable cause, and the Fifth Amendment promise of due process of law.

THE NEWS DESK

“SOVEREIGN CITIZENS” IN THE NEWS FBI SAYS CHECKS MAY BE WORTHLESS

From the January 8 edition of the ANTELOPE VALLEY EDITION OF THE (Los Angeles) DAILY NEWS, [quoting:]

LANCASTER—FBI agents are looking into attempts by five Antelope Valley residents [It's interesting to note that the names of these people are nowhere to be found] to use checks they claim can be redeemed to the U.S. postmaster to purchase 10 Cadillacs or four motor homes, bail a person out of jail and pay off large debts. The residents are believed to be followers of a Montana-based organization called the Freeman Group, which has been teaching people they can create their own money, FBI officials said. Similar seminars are conducted in the Antelope Valley. “They have declared themselves a sovereign nation and believe that they have the right to create their own financial instruments” [said Gary Auer, special agent of the FBI]. Printed by computer, the checks, passed in the Antelope Valley bear the words “Certified Bankers Check” and “Comptroller Warrant”. They also are imprinted “Treasurer united States of America—Redeemable at office of Postmaster”, with the “u” not capitalized, Auer said. They bear the image of the Statue of Liberty.

According to Auer, the U.S. attorney’s staff has no plans to prosecute anyone at this time—because the businesses’ losses have been slight or nonexistent—but the FBI will continue to investigate.

Since the buyers were told their checks were not valid and they were not allowed to have the four mobile homes they had picked out, the bank has received several letters telling officials to honor the checks. “They’re trying to intimidate us,” said Wayne Rosenberger [President of the First Valley National Bank]. “They quote all types of codes that I don’t even know are real.” [In other words, they could very well BE real and valid. Since, we KNOW that the Federal Reserve System-based instruments are fraudulent, the casual reader could safely surmise that this situation represents a threat—in the form of exposure of the FED’S scam.]

ORLANDO TRIAL FINDS THREE GUILTY

THE ORLANDO SENTINEL provided extensive—if misleading—coverage of this event on January 5, 6, 7, [quoting:]

Laurent Moore, 50, Jack Warren, 46, and Jack Franz, 51, are accused of threatening government and banking officials from whom they sought $22.8 million to compensate for the foreclosure of Warren’s condominium. Although condo officials said Warren didn’t pay some fees, Warren charged the government stole his home. He filed unusual-looking liens [innuendo] and threatened [choice of words] paints a picture of violence] to take county property, such as buses and buildings, to collect.

The defendants contend they shouldn't be on trial because they are "sovereign citizens". Law officers contend they are part of a movement that believes they are exempt from income taxes and government authority. Since the trial began Wednesday in U.S. District Court, the usually stuffy proceedings have taken a twist. At first the men refused even to attend, but on Thursday they came to court, still rejecting their three court-appointed lawyers. Warren was the only one to question witnesses Thursday, throwing up his hands in frustration at legal "word games" he still hasn't figured out. U.S. District Judge Robert Merhige Jr. nearly kicked Warren out of his own trial for not following rules. Warren is trying to prove that, among other things, the court has no jurisdiction over him. At the heart of his group's beliefs is that the United States went bankrupt in 1933 and everyone became sovereign citizens. Therefore, they contend, citizens are free to choose their own court to hear disputes. The group has created the Constitutional Common Law Court, which has its own rules and is part of the reason the men are on trial.

FBI, IRS, and Florida Department of Law Enforcement agents contend the alternative court indicted public officials and a federal grand jury, talked of treason charges and authorized the arrest of numerous court officers. The paperwork prompted extra security, warnings to workers and their families and concern about possible kidnappings [more ploys to create the image of people who are violent and irresponsible in the minds of readers].

Prosecutor Thomas Turner wrapped up his case Friday morning, giving the men on trial their turn to present a defense. They had rejected any help from court-appointed lawyers. Confusion mounted as the men tried to prove their only point: They are sovereign citizens over whom the court has no jurisdiction. Warren put it like this, drawing on an easel in front of the jury: First there was God. God created man. Man created the U.S. Constitution. The Constitution made corporations—fictitious entities with no morals or souls, he added. Then corporations created corporate citizens. Since the United States is a corporation, Warren continued, it assumes everyone is a corporate citizen who must follow the laws that Congress creates. Not so, he declared. He and his friends maintain they are natural citizens—apart from the corporation—who follow only the U.S. Constitution and God's laws. Corporations, he remarked, are money-hungry. So, it's kind of like God's children vs. Satan's children, he said. Follow? The dozens of people who have dropped by court in support of the men say everyone should take this subject very seriously. [Obviously, the intent here is to demonstrate that you SHOULDN'T.]

After deliberating three hours, [12 federal court jurors] convicted Jack Warren, Laurent Moore, and Jack Franz of 21 counts of conspiracy, mail fraud and obstruction of justice. They rejected the men's contention that the three are sovereign citizens immune from government jurisdiction and whose only court is the one they created in someone's living room one night. [Again, this is worded to make these three men appear ridiculous. As Judge Merhige Jr. told the men, "No Constitutional Common Law Court, yackee, yackee. Ridiculous!" I guess that might have influenced the jury just a bit! It's one thing to know and understand these issues—quite another to put them into action in ways that set you up to be discredited and eliminated from the playing field.] Under sentencing guidelines, the men face punishments ranging from eight to 12 years in prison when sentenced April 19.

AMERICANS ARE WAKING UP TO NWO DECEPTIONS

This Associated Press article was more credible in its portrayal of those who challenge the Establishment. It appeared in the January 7 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

PERU, Ill.—The tumblers of lemonade sit untouched as the talk meanders from the Branch Davidians to plots by the Council on Foreign Relations and the real reasons children no longer learn phonetic reading. Linda Patarozzi, low-key and polite, dressed in suburban casual clothes [no army boots!], tilts forward in her recliner, voice rising in frustration. “You know, I wish we didn’t have to do this,” she says to the nods of two other women who have spent the afternoon in the ranch house living room, schooling a visitor on threats against America. “I mean it’s not that it’s a hobby or something that we want to do,” Patarozzi continues. “It’s just that I see our freedom going down the drain, and I want to grab hold of it before it’s lost for my kids.”

In the aftermath of the Oklahoma City bombing, the beliefs of these women—and an uncounted number who meet via phone, fax and Internet—have been dismissed largely as the rantings of rifle-toting buffoons [This image was, of course, carefully contrived by the NWO-controlled media!] While the women share some of the right-wing militia’s suspicions about various federal plots to stifle dissent and disarm U.S. citizens, they don’t fit the militia’s caricature. All three are mothers approaching middle age: one a nurse, another a housewife, the third “in transition”. All are voracious readers, articulate and impassioned. There is no hate in their talk—rather, a palpable fear and a sense of urgency.

“All we want to do is get the truth out,” says Beth Ann Peradotti, an earnest woman who spends up to $1,000 a month faxing information ranging from outcome-based education to the Gulf War Syndrome and foreign troops in the United States. It is hard to find a label for Peradotti and her friends. Terms such as right wing or conservative don’t fit [Well, who knows WHAT they mean any more, since they’ve been media-mangled.] They call themselves “researchers” but have no organization. [Wise move.] Whatever label eventually sticks—America Firsters, Constitutionalists—there is evidence these true believers represent a growing fault line in the American body politic.

It [their views] is a scary picture: a long-plotted New World Order created by an elite class of internationalists bent on destroying national sovereignty, their totalitarian rule to be enforced by United Nations troops here while American soldiers serve the World Government overseas. Proof comes in many forms: statements from Woodrow Wilson to President Clinton and his advisers on the trend toward world government; Congressional and presidential actions rumored to have signed away the country; a national education plan seen as dumbing down children and separating them from their families, values and heritage. Each topic is painstakingly documented with a cascade of books, brochures, videotapes and citations. Viewed through this lens of conspiracy the evidence is so clear it is hard to understand why more people, especially the media, have not taken up the cause. Unless, they are part of the conspiracy. [This would seem to paint quite a different portrait than the previous article from the same issue of the same paper!]

SPIELBERG’S HOLOCAUST VISION

“Give us this day our daily media Holocaust fare.” The menu for the January 7 ANTELOPE VALLEY EDITION OF THE (Los Angeles) DAILY NEWS included this article by Ray Richmond, [quoting:]

Henry Rosmarin's revenge is outliving many of his Nazi persecutors—and telling the world about his Holocaust experience. The 70-year-old West Valley man is one of more than 9,000 survivors who have—over the past 18 months—preserved their stories in videotaped interviews for the nonprofit Survivors of the Shoah Visual History Foundation, a project directed by Steven Spielberg. [No profit, HA! The SOLE PURPOSE of this little venture is to benefit the Zionists' consolidation of world power.] More than 100 paid employees working out of a series of trailer offices at Spielberg's Amblin Entertainment complex at Universal Studios oversee hundreds of volunteers around the world seeking out and recording survivors' stories. Spielberg hopes to videotape the stories of at least 50,000 of the estimated 300,000 Holocaust survivors worldwide by 1998 and is talking about extending the three-year, $60 million effort to reach that goal. [$$ SIXTY MILLION!! All out of Spielberg's pocket? I think NOT!] The Holocaust stories of Rosmarin and several other survivors can be seen Monday night in a one-hour documentary [shown twice] produced by Spielberg's foundation titled "Survivors of the Holocaust". [The first of several documentaries planned from material compiled by the Shoah Foundation. They're gonna Show-a this stuff until we are all totally programmed to believe it really happened as presented and that is was THE most critical event in the history of the world.]

[As I read this article, I compared its assets—its funds, technology, and manpower—to our own humble efforts at getting out the CONTACT each week. It would be fair to say there is SOME disparity! (We don't even have the manpower to index the Phoenix Journals!)] The atmosphere in the Universal lot offices is hectic with people racing around, punching information into computers, answering phones, planning, discussing and editing. Interviews also are conducted out of regional offices in Chicago, New York, Miami, Buenos Aires, Toronto, London, Amsterdam, Sydney, Warsaw, Frankfurt, Johannesburg, Paris, Prague, Zagreb, and St. Petersburg. More than 2,000 interviews were taped in Los Angeles, a significant portion of those in the San Fernando Valley.

Interviews begin with a telephone call to the project's toll-free number: (800) 661-2092. One of an estimated 1,500 volunteer interviewers—each of whom has undertaken a 25-hour training session—contacts the survivor and conducts a preinterview to assess the best questions to ask and the most effective way to put the person at ease. Then comes the actual interview, always conducted in the home of the survivor for maximum comfort level, using free-lance video camera operators (all of whom donate their time).

Once the completed interview is in hand, three additional copies of the tape (besides the one sent to the survivor) are produced. One is dispatched to the foundation's cataloging department, where an employee spends eight hours indexing every word and key phrase for future easy access. For instance, if you were to key in the word "abduction" on the computer, it would go directly to that portion of a given tape in which the survivor discusses being abducted. "Abdomen" would bring up a sentence describing being beaten about the abdomen. A second copy of the interview is digitally compressed and electronically transferred via fiber-optic network to a supercomputer. That computer is connected to a robot designed to archive, manage, and navigate through the mass of material. The third copy is referred to as a "digital submaster" for "future applications and upgrades", meaning it is awaiting technology not yet in existence. Right now, groundbreaking technology allows the Los Angeles foundation office to share information with its worldwide regional offices via a single interconnected database. The result of all this cyber wizardry—which is so new the foundation asks visitors to sign a nondisclosure statement—will in 1998 allow all of the digitalized interviews to be accessed on line throughout the world, the foundation hopes. To date, more than 30,000 Beta videotapes have been used to record more than 12,000 hours of testimony in 19 languages. One would have to sit 24 hours a day for more than 550 days to watch it all.

Spielberg's vision is that students at schools and libraries everywhere will one day be able to pop in a CD-ROM and have the entire foundation visual history archive at their fingertips—the Holocaust in all of its horror, on a single disc. [It's a horror, all right! Commander Hatonn's comments on the subject of Holocaust-saturation programming can be found on page 7 of CONTACT, 1/16/96 edition.]

HOLOCAUST TALES SPARK DEBATE

Daily Holocaust fare for January 9th: Michael Kenney wrote this article for the BOSTON GLOBE, which was reprinted in the January 9 edition of the ANTELOPE VALLEY EDITION OF THE (Los Angeles) DAILY NEWS, [quoting:]

As the passing years dim the memories and still the voices of Holocaust survivors, the accelerated efforts to record their testimonies on videotape have become controversial. "There is some value" in videotaping survivor testimonies, said [Holocaust scholar David G.] Roskies, "but the Holocaust is now a media event, and the only thing that is real is what is on the screen. The idea is absolutely insane that this reveals some deeper level of truth." What concerns Roskies is that the survivor videotapes have shifted the entire focus of Holocaust history. "In the old days," he said, "the story was how they died. The early accounts captured the life and death of those who died." But now, Roskies said, "the focus has shifted to 'how I survived'."

A word Holocaust scholars often use when discussing the survivors is "triumphalism". Hillel Levine, a social scientist at Boston University, said there is "a hidden triumphalism in basing the story of the Holocaust purely on the survivor testimonies. They have every right to say, 'We have survived.' But we don't have any right to say, 'How wonderful that people survived.' That short-circuits our obligation to understand the Holocaust." And Levine cautions that the survivor testimonies tell only a part of the Holocaust story. "We don't know," Levine said, "what those who did not survive had to say. There are other voices we have to hear, the voices of the inarticulate, and those who do not wish to speak, and the voices of those who died." And even in the testimonies of the survivors who often appear prosperous and comfortable, Levine said, "Do we hear their nightmares?" [Always playing the martyred victims!]

Accepting the view that survivors "don't always get the names, dates and facts right," videos are valuable not for the facts, but for the ways the people have remembered them. [THAT SAYS IT ALL! "Not for the facts"...]

SIPAPU ODYSSEY

An Excerpt From

In conjunction with the these perilous times, the following is a provocative and timely excerpt from the very first work by “Dharma” called SIPAPU ODYSSEY. When written, it was thought to be a work of Fantasy but, as time passes, it is appreciated for its vivid message from God’s Hosts and its “timing” clues for various events in the major planetary transition now well underway on Earth-Shan.

With pokes and prods and nudges from Little Crow of the Lakota Sioux, Dharma’s public mission of translation for Higher Teachers began with SIPAPU ODYSSEY and continues to this day, some nine years and over 150 JOURNALS of information later!

As Commander Hatonn said in the Forward, “We of the Brotherhood of Light, and we who serve in the Intergalactic Fleets and Cosmic Federation Councils, come forth to bring you knowledge for a most eventful and confusing transition....It was decided that we would first bring forth an ‘acceptable’ story....that man in mass can accept of the story as fiction, but the heart will know of the truth....We dedicate this ‘truth’ unto all of you who will pick up the dream and walk with us that we might fulfill our mission.”

ANCIENT REVELATIONS

by Dorushka Maerd (“Dharma”)

It was evening when the groups began to gather up the canyon for holograms and speakers. As Steve and the Earth group joined the audience they noted many people whom they had not seen before. The gathering was situated in a widened area and those in attendance sat clustered facing a sheer cliff wall with an outcropping of rock at its base. As the natural light faded, it was replaced by a “spot-light” from the space craft which lit the “stage” area. It was wonderful as the sky was visible above the stream of light. They could watch the stars take their places in the universe while waiting for the session to begin.

Spotted Eagle climbed to a point near the middle of the rock outcropping and raised his hands to the Heavens. There was the scent of smoke wafting on the air and Spotted Eagle carried some feathered items, in addition to a beautifully decorated, long-stemmed pipe. The audience fell into immediate silence as he took his place and prepared to speak.

Spotted Eagle spoke of the Ancient Ones and of the relationships of every creation on Earth; of the relationship of humans to all of those creations. He spoke of the beauty and harmony of Earth as our mother, and as he spoke the cliff became a huge “screen” upon which was projected a collage of action pictures. He continued to narrate as scene after scene was illuminated before the group.

The projections showed the devastation perpetrated by man on the two beautiful continents known as the Americas. Among those things shown were consequences of acid rain with dozens of examples of streams, rivers, large and small lakes, and oceans being polluted and destroyed; there were pictures of forests being poisoned by pollution, devastated by man for industry and cleared for agriculture. The consequential terrible flooding from the stripped watersheds was shown. He showed pictures of dozens of electric power plants, oil refineries, chemical and industrial plants belching forth pollution. He showed the destruction resulting from mining activities (there were also demonstrations of earth collapse into some of the underground mine shafts as the earth shifted). The examples seemed endless.

pict. 2 spaceships

Spotted Eagle even showed examples of man's desecration of Earth's most sacred areas; the human faces carved onto the face of magnificent Black Hills (one of the Indian's most sacred spiritual places). Diana was openly sobbing and Bob could not stop the flow of tears from his eyes. Somehow he knew the subject matter would not get easier as the evening progressed. He would be correct in that assumption.

FUTURE REVELATIONS

John, too, was accompanied by projected visual holograms which made an individual have the feeling of actual participation within the scene itself. As he spoke, appropriate visualizations moved with his verbal illusions.

He said he would simply be giving a description of things as directly handed down to him, without personal comment. He then launched into his teachings.

“And it is said there shall be winds, and there shall be, in the time when it is winter; and the trees shall bow down their boughs, and the winds shall sting with the cold; and there shall be great suffering among the people and they shall fall down and cry for mercy.

“And there shall be a mighty earthquake and it shall split in twain the country of North America, and it shall be as nothing the world has known before, for it shall be that there shall be a great part of the great land of the North Continent go down and a great sea shall form within her center part from the Dominion of Canada into the Gulf of Mexico.

“And there shall be great ocean liners, liners which shall travel within its waters, which will be propelled by solar energy of the next age. But with this they shall be unable to travel east to west or from west to east, through what is now the Atlantic Ocean, for it shall have a mountain range which has been thrown up from the bottom of the Atlantic; and it shall be extended into the air to the altitude of ten thousand feet and it shall be the City of old, for it was the Light of the world. She went down amid a great shock and a great wave; and it shall be that she shall come up the same way as she went down.

“And the west side be as the sheer side of granite, and it shall be without foothold; and the way shall be as the eagle flies from the place which is Upper Virginia three hundred miles due east; and at this point it shall be one thousand and eight hundred feet from the waters; and not an entrance through the land shall there be to the east, for it is not for them, which are to be the remnants, to communicate by water; for it shall be with a new science, and a new method shall be given unto them. For there is not a place which is that shall remain the same in its present state.

“And not a person shall be left which is not prepared for that which shall be. And there are many called but few are chosen: for there are none which have been chosen which have not been carefully prepared; and they have been unto themselves true, and they have given credit where credit is due. And now it is given unto them to be the seed of the new Civilization which shall come upon the Earth.

“And within the time which is left before this shall come upon the Earth, it shall be that many will be called: and they shall doubt; and they shall fear; and they shall faint; and they shall fall by the way; and they shall be in no wise, for it is given unto man to fear that which he does not understand—and for that does he wait.

“And it is said there shall be winds, and there shall be the winds, and they shall be as none the Earth has known; and they shall be as the winds from the sea and from the land all rolled into one great tempest. And they shall be as the winds of the North and the South and East and the West, and they shall tear that which is in their path and they shall be as the reaper who mows down that which is in his path. And they shall sing with the bitterness of the cold. And they shall be as the elements of the Earth, for they shall contain both rain and wind; and the hail shall be as big as bird eggs, and it shall split that which it hits.

“And it shall be that the suffering shall be great upon the Earth, for it is given unto man to know suffering. And he has not known such suffering before, and, when it is come upon him, he shall fall down and shall cry for mercy.

“And it shall be that the winds too small be great upon the Earth—they shall blow East, West, North and South and not a place shall there be upon the Earth which shall escape the winds which bloweth; and when this tribulation has come upon the Earth, it shall be that there shall be many who have kept within the law.

“And with the coming of the winds and belching of fire from within the Earth there shall be—MORE!”

John continued by telling of how things would be. He said that no one would be responsible for the words of another nor would any man take upon himself that which would be done by another. Each entity would be responsible for his own. He said man had lost his identity with the Father God which had sent him and that if he would not awaken and return to the Father he would surely perish.

John spoke on for a very long time giving illustration after illustration. He concluded by saying it was time to talk more about the present.

PRESENT REVELATIONS

John explained that there were many Space Brothers here to assist us through the transition and time of tribulation; they could help us, but they could do no more. They would be allowed to help only as requested by Earthlings—with one exception, and this was stressed emphatically: “YOU MAY NOT TAKE YOUR WEAPONS OF DESTRUCTION INTO SPACE. BEYOND ONE HUNDRED FIFTY MILES BEYOND YOUR SURFACE, YOU WILL BE STOPPED! NEITHER WILL YOU BE ALLOWED TO CREATE THE ULTIMATE NUCLEAR DESTRUCTION OF THE TOTALITY OF THE PLANET ITSELF; THE IMPACT TO THE UNIVERSE WOULD BE TOO DEVASTATING AND THE BROTHERS WOULD BE GIVEN PERMISSION TO PREVENT SUCH AN OCCURRENCE.” He then turned and invited Yeorgos to take the platform. He said Yeorgos would present the teachings from the aspect of Space Brothers and the Interplanetary Councils.

Yeorgos was also accompanied by the picture projections as were appropriate to emphasize points.

He said the Brothers were prepared to work closely with Earthlings as such time as they were accepted and asked to participate. He said their technology is of such magnitude that Earth man would be unable to comprehend the power. He was assuring Earthlings, however, that even though they could destroy us or make slaves of us, etc., they came in love and co-existence within the Cosmos. They would not presume to do anything other than as requested with the one exception as told by John.

He emphasized that during the upcoming period, until Earth moves into her new cycle, she would be belching forth increased disturbances upon her surface. As plates shift beneath the oceans’ floors there would be increased tidal wave activity. The resulting shifts would bring about disturbances of those thought of as “sleeping” volcanos. Those would begin to rumble and spew forth molten lava that would come quickly and with minimal warning. This would increase as the climactic conditions were altered. There would be increased swelling of streams. Riverbeds would enlarge and they would not recede to their pre-existent condition. There would be peninsulas and small isthmuses that were going to vanish most abruptly and quickly.

The geophysical face of the Earth would begin its alteration during this period. Those areas where oceans’ waters have crept in most gradually and quietly would be accelerated, and indeed, sleeping valleys would be filled overnight. And man on Earth would look about and wonder what is happening.

pict. man in beam

Yeorgos continued: “Because of the decrease in the ozone layer about Earth there is an increased heat that is coming from the Central Sun. This is bringing about resultant melting of your polar caps, again with resultant climactic changes.

“Man of Earth shall quickly come to recognize that Earth is revolting against the treatment that she has received. This shall be a warning, a preview of what is in store for man if he does not immediately alter his ways.

“At this time the vibratory pattern of Earth itself is such that no alteration of her course is anticipated; she has been released from her role as a buffer, and she now BEGINS HER OWN CLEANSING! Man will now be accountable for his own cleansing.

“Earth is entering a phase of two seasons, summer and winter, with extreme temperatures in each. Fall and Spring will cease to be recognized. Man should lay up stores and provisions, for seasons shall not be as kind to Earth as man has known in the past. Man’s time of great bounty and food abundance will greatly be altered. Space Brothers stand ready, however, to render help and instructions in that area. Food substances which will suffice for survival will be given to appropriate ones on the planet and, properly prepared, will be quite palatable.

“Man must learn to share freely in order to survive. There will be great shortages in food supplies and also proclaimed shortages in your fossil fuels as they are hoarded and usurped for reasons of greed. You will find yourselves without transportation because there will be no fuel to run your machinery. You will need the substitute foods to feed yourselves.

“There will be great energy shortages. Electricity will become unavailable for many reasons; therefore, you must learn to minimize your needs. You must begin to rely on those elemental winds and patterns that will bring you those energies that you need. You must make your dwelling places strong, sturdy and well insulated, so that they will serve you well. We will show you methods of using compressed earth which will replace wood and other things as primary structural material.”

“We are prepared to teach you methods of health care which will allow you to remain active and energized during this period of time. There will be widespread death from diseases which are currently incurable by your present medical methods.

“You must expect gigantic changes within your government structures as your present monetary systems become chaotic. There will be no money for taxes and without taxes there will be a rapid withdrawal of politicians and the chain of events will cause the governmental structure, as it now operates, to fail. There must be those available to fill the void and rebuild with a new and different type of system which brings harmony to the peoples of all Earth nations.”

Yeorgos continued for a long period of time along the same lines of subject matter and then began to make his concluding remarks. He said he wanted to frighten no one and, certainly, all panic must be avoided. He said he would, however, speak of the ultimate evacuation process, should that become a necessity.

He spoke: “We have come to fulfill the destiny of this planet, which is to experience a short period of ‘cleansing’ and then to usher in a new and golden age of Light. I will henceforth refer to that period as the Time of Radiance.

“As mentioned before, the Souls of Light are you people of Earth who have lived according to Universal Truths and who recognize GOD as the SOURCE OF ALL THAT IS GOOD; THE SOURCE OF ‘ALL THINGS’. The short period of cleansing is IMMINENT—EVEN THE MIDNIGHT HOUR! But, we have been informed of this and have made preparations for that event. I will explain how it will be so that it will relieve any anxieties amongst those present.

“We of space have millions of space ships stationed in the skies above your planet, ready to instantly lift you off at the first warning of your planet’s beginning to tilt on its axis. When this happens, we have only a VERY SHORT PERIOD OF TIME in which to lift you from the surface before great tidal waves will lash your coastlines—possibly five miles or more high! They will cover much of your land masses!

“These tidal waves will unleash great earthquakes and volcanic eruptions and cause your continents to split and sink in places and cause others to rise.

“We are VERY EXPERIENCED in the evacuation of populations of planets! This is nothing new for the Galactic Fleet! We expect to complete the evacuation on Earth of the Souls of Light in fifteen minutes—even though they are of a tremendous number.

“We shall rescue the Souls of Light first. On our great galactic computers we have stored every thought, every act you have done in this and previous lifetimes. At the first indication of need to evacuate, our computers will lock onto the location of the Souls of Light where they are at that instant!

“After the Souls of Light have been evacuated, then the CHILDREN will be lifted off. The children are not old enough to be accountable, so they will be evacuated to special ships to be cared for until they can be reunited with their parents. There will be people specially trained to handle their trauma. Many may be put to sleep, temporarily, to help them overcome their fear and anxiety. Our computers are so sophisticated—far beyond anything on Earth in this age—and can locate mothers and fathers of children wherever they are and notify them of their safety. MAKE NO MISTAKE—YOUR CHILDREN SHALL BE LIFTED TO SAFETY DURING THE EVACUATION.

“After the evacuation of the children, the invitation will be extended to all remaining souls on the planet to join us. However, this will be for only a very short time—perhaps only fifteen minutes. There is no question of having enough space on board the ships for you but, because the atmosphere, by this time, will be full of fire, flying debris, poisonous smoke, and because the magnetic field of your planet will be disturbed, we will have to leave your atmosphere very quickly or we, also with our spacecraft, would perish.”

“Therefore, he who steps into our levitation beams first will be lifted first. Any hesitation on your part would mean the end of your third-dimensional existence you call the physical body.

“Which brings us to the most serious and difficult part of the evacuation: As mentioned earlier, Souls of Light have a higher vibration frequency than those who are more closely “tied” to the Earth and its ways.

“Since our levitation beams, which will be lifting you off the surface of this planet, are very close to the same thing as your electrical charges, those of low vibrational frequency may not be able to withstand the high frequency of the levitation beams without departing their third-dimensional bodies. If this happens, then your soul will be released to join our God, the Father. ‘In His house are many mansions.’

“If you do not decide to step into the levitation beams to be lifted up, you might be one of the few who survive the ‘cleansing’ of the planet for the NEW GOLDEN AGE. However, during this period of cleansing, there will be great changes in climate, changes in land masses, as the poles of the planet may have a new orientation. This alone will create untold hardship for the survivors who may still not make it to the

Time of Radiance.

“The most important point for you to remember is this: Any show of fear lowers your frequency of vibration, thus making you less compatible with our levitation beams!! Therefore: Above all else, REMAIN CALM. DO NOT PANIC. Know that you are in expert hands, hands which have extensive experience in evacuation of entire planets! WE CANNOT OVEREMPHASIZE THIS: REMAIN CALM! RELAX! DO NOT PANIC WHEN YOU STEP INTO OUR LEVITATION BEAMS. ABOVE ALL ELSE, MAINTAIN YOUR FAITH!

“What is to happen to you if you survive the lift off? First you will be taxied to our “mother ships” anchored high above the planet where you will be taken care of during your great trauma. Some of you may need medical attention. Our expert medical staff will be there to treat you with our highly advanced medical equipment. You will be fed and housed until such time as transfer elsewhere is advisable.

“Some of you will be taken to cities on other planets to be trained in our advanced technology before being returned to the planet Earth to start the Time of Radiance.

“Your beautiful planet Earth is destined to be the most beautiful star in the universe. A planet of Light! Here, you will rejoin the remainder of the Universe in brotherly love and fellowship with God the Father.

“People of Earth: We love you!! Do not scoff at these words. As surely as the Sun shines from the east to the west, so shall these things shortly come to pass!

“The cataclysms will begin WITHOUT WARNING! Everything will happen so fast, you will not have time to think! Think on these things NOW!

“Think; picture yourself standing with all the havoc around you: people screaming and running, others on their knees praying, automobiles crashing, glass breaking, buildings falling, ground shaking and gaping with huge cracks, debris falling all around you! THINK NOW!! WHAT SHALL I DO?? ANSWER: REMAIN CALM AND WITHOUT FEAR. MAINTAIN AN INNER PEACE OF MIND AND STEP INTO THE LEVITATION BEAMS WHICH FLOW FROM THE UNDERNEATH CENTER OF OUR SPACE CRAFT.

“As you are informed now as to what to do, spread the word to everyone you know. Be faithful to God! The time is very short! Perhaps we shall no longer be able to restrain the tilt of the Earth’s axis, as we have been able to do with our energy beams and transmitters for the past several years.

“There is still a chance—a SLIGHT chance, that this great upheaval can be avoided. However, it will take extreme cooperation from you people of Earth—co-operation unlike you have ever exhibited before in this age.

“1. Avoid giving off negative energy through your distrust, greed, hatred, and begin to help each other. By helping each other, you give off positive vibrations (energy). LOVE GOD! The positive energy in large mass will neutralize the weight of negative energy which has built up around the poles of your planet—this could keep it from tilting, if enough positive energy is received in time. Your planet is a living organism. Send mental positive energy by thanking the Earth for all its bountifulness you have received.

“2. By whatever peaceful means at your disposal, put sufficient pressure on your government(s) to permit us to land our spaceships on your planet and meet with your leaders and offer them our assistance and technology. WE WILL NOT DO THIS UNTIL WE ARE ASSURED WE WILL NOT BE TREATED WITH HOSTILITY OR BE INCARCERATED. With the cooperation of your world governments, we can greatly help you in more orderly evacuation of your planet, if indeed it still becomes necessary—which it may! If it does not, then we can work together in the sharing of technology and live in brotherhood.

“WE HOPE YOU WILL TAKE THESE WORDS ON FAITH, BUT IF NOT, DO RESEARCH AND PROVE THEM TO BE TRUE FOR YOURSELVES. MEDITATE DAILY AND YOU WILL FIND AND KNOW THE TRUTH. PEACE BE WITH YOU.”

At the conclusion of Yeorgos’ program segment, Spotted Eagle again took center stage to make closing remarks and leave his special blessings with the group.

He told of the extreme importance of the upcoming Mighty Council Gathering and said elaborate plans had been made for its success. He told those gathered that under the facade of filming a motion picture, the meeting could take place uninterrupted by human interference. He said there would be many such activities taking place at various places on the planet in order to make The Truth known. After the GATHERINGS there would no longer be doubts as to the existence of Space Brothers, and Earth man would know of the consequences he has brought upon himself. He said there would be other happenings which would also confirm the validness of these teachings.

He chanted his appreciation to the group and to the “GRANDFATHER” and the lights were extinguished. The canyon was once again silent.

A LETTER FROM MICHAEL MAHOLY

by Michael Maholy 1/1/96

Dear Rick,

Once again I would like to thank you and the staff at CONTACT, as well as all of the readers for all the wonderful love, kindness, and understanding that they have bestowed upon me during the past two years. I must truly admit that without all of you, my project of exposing the powerful, corrupt government officials and their underlings who also pursue wealth and fame in ways that typify those of dark-sided mortals, would not have been possible. You, the honest people of America, have indeed proved to be my only outlet to the nation. It is you, my watchers, whom I have learned to trust—who keep me going.

Together we have weathered a few rough storms created by my other keepers, the enemy who has, over the years, tried very hard to keep my true life story silent. It is you people who are making the difference in the real world by your demanding, perseverance, and constant monitoring of these corrupt officials. You seek out total truth, whatever the cost may be. For these reasons, I would like to update you on my current situation.

On December 6, 1995, the Supreme Court in Washington, D.C. had ruled, by unanimous decision, against the federal government with regard to persons who have been sentenced illegally under USC 924(c)(1). The Supreme Court stated that a person can and will be sentenced to a mandatory minimum sentence of no less than 5 years, if the courts show evidence that a firearm was “actively engaged” during the arrest or during the commission of the crime. The Court further explained that if the weapons were in another location, such as another room, the trunk of a car, a bedroom, closet, gun safe or case, this does NOT mean that the defendant had “actively engaged” or deployed or used the weapon. Therefore, anyone sentenced incorrectly under this Code—USC 924(c)(1)—shall be considered to have their case expunged from the court records.

One of my three charges is a USC 924(c)(1). I had received an additional 5-year minimum sentence under this illegally-used Code. That’s 5 very long years for something I did not do! Granted, my weapons found during the search of my residence were, in fact, loaded, but the law clearly states that there is no margin of definition beyond what the word “use” actually means. If I had used the weapons, by means of “actively deploying” or “engaging” them, then I should, by all means, do the time given to me. But the fact remains that I did not use the weapons in any type of threatening manner.

This is a very critical time for me and perhaps thousands of other federal inmates who must file the necessary court documents to have their cases reheard and expunged. What this means for me is my freedom—and to have this illegally sentenced charge removed from the court records. What this also means is that once again I will have to fight the corrupt government officials who want to keep me silent. But this is a battle I will win, because they have already lost, by their own decree!

The process in filing the proper forms and documents is relatively simple, compared to different types of appeals. However, there will be no room for error, as this is a one-shot performance. I have decided to have an attorney do the research and proper filing procedures, as an attorney is more skilled and knowledgeable in courtroom tactics, wording, etc. Besides, the law library here is not the best and it would take hours upon hours to study the proper way to go about this.

I have been in touch with several different attorneys from across the nation seeking advice, prices, etc. They vary somewhat in price. My former attorneys, who were successful in blocking further federal indictments, are sky-high, due to the publicity that my case has generated. Others with whom I have discussed this seem to be more realistically priced.

There is a rumor that I might be able to have a public defender represent me. However, a public defender is just that: he represents the public's interest and is somewhat at the mercy of the prosecutor and sentencing judge. We must not forget here, just who will be presiding over my hearing again. If I have the same federal judge—one George Howard, Jr., from Little Rock—I will have one strike against me already, as this judge is a close friend of the Clinton Administration and others I am attempting to expose.

Needless to say I will need all the prayers I can muster. One thing all the attorneys have stated is that they all agree that I stand a very good chance of beating this charge, as I never should have been charged under this law in the first place. Again, the major reason I was charged under 924-(c)(1) was to ensure that I was kept out of the way, at least until after the election in 1992. Another reason I was charged was that my first attorney was a close friend of Bill and Hillary Clinton, and he discussed my case with them prior to sentencing. He knew that I never really used the weapons in a life-threatening way, but he assured the Clintons and their friends that I would, in fact, plead guilty and receive a lengthy sentence. Therefore, I would be tucked away for a long, long time. Out of sight, out of mind! But now, all that has turned around like the snakes they are, only to bite them in their own hind ends and to hopefully come back and haunt them.

With your prayers and support, perhaps I could be out, a free man, by as early as this late spring or summer—not at the turn of the century. If released, I promise to become an active, moral member of American society and I never, ever again will sell drugs or weapons to anyone anywhere. That is all I have to offer. I will naturally continue my quest for the exposure of the truth about the corrupt Elite until they crumble.

Please continue with your love and support—your prayers and letters. I want all of you to know that you can make the difference not only for me, but for a better America and world. Thank you very much for everything. May God be with all of us.

In love and light, The Keeper of the Flame,

UPDATE ON HEALTH

Phyllis Linn 1/7/96

DETHRONING THE GERM THEORY OF DISEASE

It's in the news: world-wide flu epidemics, super-infections that antibiotics can't knock out, recombinant viruses, and other new and deadly forms of disease that are being unleashed on the inhabitants of Planet Earth. Will you survive? Depopulation plans hinge upon keeping the populace IGNORANT about the most basic and vital aspects of health and disease. To this end we receive endless propaganda and indoctrination into the germ theory of disease.

The germ theory of medicine, promoted by Louis Pasteur, is a nineteenth century concept promoted before important nutritional discoveries were made. Traditional medicine still believes the germ theory to be the central cause of disease, because around it exists a colossal supportive infrastructure of commercial interests that built multi-billion dollar industries based upon this theory. The idea that germs cause disease is a lot like saying that flies, maggots, and rats cause garbage—rather than feed upon it. The error is one of perspective, since it has been conclusively proven that “germs” are not the primary cause, but rather, an effect of disease. They do not initiate a diseased state, but appear after the person has become ill, just as flies do not cause garbage, but are attracted to it.

When we have an infection of some kind, it is because there is a high count of pathogenic bacteria or viruses concentrated somewhere in the body, trying to break down and clean up malnourished, enzyme-depleted, dead or diseased tissue. This is nature's biological sanitation team and their presence indicates, rather than causes, the problem of unhealthy tissue. Bacteria and viruses are always present in our bodies. A healthy immune system keeps their numbers in check.

Traditional medicine “fights infections” with antibiotics, which SUPPRESS the immune system. An antibiotic—like penicillin or its derivatives—is a specific antibacterial secretion of a fungus. When we use a plant's method of killing bacteria in our own bodies, we reduce our human level of immune function to that of a vegetable!

Animals and humans do not produce antibiotics, nor do they need to as long as their endocrine, immune, and nervous systems have their nutritional needs met—from the mineral, vitamin, protein, and enzyme substances found in foods grown on mineral-rich soil. Armed with these tools, the Earth's highest forms of life—humans and animals—are well equipped to “fight” the Earth's lowest forms of life—bacteria and virus. The germ theory of disease keeps us focused on the so-called enemy WITHOUT—catching a “bug”—and distracted from ever understanding the importance of building health from WITHIN—a diet of fresh, raw organic fruits, vegetables, grains, and nuts, pure water, and (ugh! the “E” word) exercise.

WHAT ABOUT THE FLU?

The word “flu” comes from the Italian word “influenza”, meaning “under the influence of”. People of the Middle Ages believed when you had the flu you were under the influence of the stars. Notice that most flu epidemics occur when the seasons change—especially “back-and-forth” weather when the weather is cold one day, warm the next, then cold again. Why is that? It has a lot to do with the thyroid gland—the endocrine gland of metabolism. The thyroid helps the body adapt between hot and cold. When summer is here and it’s hot, the thyroid is running comparatively low. We don’t need to internally warm the body when it’s already externally warm. When it’s 80 and 90 degrees F outside, the thyroid takes a summer vacation. At the onset of winter, we need to warm up the engine, so to speak, and get the metabolism going. To do so, the thyroid needs to release thyroxin and its other gland-stimulating hormones to speed up metabolism. Because most people have such unresponsive (undernourished) thyroid glands, their bodies do not respond appropriately to such temperature changes. This results in unprocessed metabolic waste, in tissues and from undigested food, accumulating in the system. Waste from the tissues empties into a circulating fluid called lymph.

This waste builds up in the intestines, liver, kidneys, spleen, and lymph glands, and generally in the blood and tissues. When waste-loaded lymph backs up, it may back up into the spleen, tonsils, and lymph nodes and lymph vessels. The bowels get very sluggish. The body wants to generate heat, but the thyroid’s not doing it, so we buy an expensive down jacket from LL Bean (a CIA proprietary) to get warm. Meanwhile the unprocessed metabolic waste continues to build up and up. Enter the “flu”.

What does the flu do? It’s a turbulent detoxification reaction of the body. Every symptom of a cold or the flu—EVERY symptom—is a symptom of detoxification. High fevers (burning of waste and bacteria); the pores of the skin open for profuse sweating; diarrhea; chills, which generate internal heat; vomiting, and coughing up and expectoration of respiratory mucus—these are all cleansing actions.

This is a way that the body can violently and quickly get rid of the unprocessed metabolic waste. The waste is a smorgasbord for bacteria. Bacteria and viruses, which are cell scavengers, are not there for lack of something better to do. They’re there because there are malnourished, enzyme-depleted, diseased, and necrotic tissue and waste materials. Functioning as nature’s biological sanitation department, they must break down and eliminate these tissues to prevent further poisoning of the body. The immune system will step in to get rid of an excess population of bacteria, but it doesn’t mind if there are some bacteria working on waste; it’s a matter of degree. If the thyroid is unable to stimulate enough metabolic function to help cleanse the tissues, then the bacteria levels build up even higher and the militant lymphocytes or phagocytes of the immune system go into action. But these SWAT teams need nutrients to function effectively—vitamins, minerals, and enzymes—things not generally espoused and certainly not provided by pharmaceutical-based medicine!

It’s easy to fall prey to the germ theory mentality—and its corollary, the antibiotic “cure”. TV commercials, magazine advertisements—promotions for the drug industry are all pervasive. It is clearly in the perceived best interest of the pharmaceutical industry and medical doctors of doom to convince you that “you caught a bug” and “a pill can cure you”. Don’t you believe it! Building health upon sound nutritional practices is the best means of keeping “germs” in check. It’s your first line of defense against man-made diseases, as well.

GULF WAR SYNDROME TESTIMONIALS

by Peter Kawaja 1/15/96

To the good folks at NEW GAIA:

It is almost the time to remember when Desert Shield became DEFCON-1/Operation Desert Storm, in January 1991.

I am therefore writing to share some good news. New Gaia had sent several of their Gulf War Syndrome “starter kits” to me, which I am and have been testing with Gulf War Veterans and other civilians who exhibit GWS. This includes myself, as I have been exposed to many “things”, on top of having direct attempts made on my life—not only to blow up my car, but to inject me with a warfare agent. Recently, I received a letter from a disgruntled person (whose motives I am not sure of at all—whether he represents the enemy, and not just himself); the paper his note was written on was yellow/brown (discolored). At the bottom of the letter, this individual pointed out that I should now go wash my hands with Peroxide (etc.) because the coloring may not have been that the paper was OLD, but that it was soaked in Gulf War Syndrome (biological agents). I have not had a chance to have this paper analyzed yet, and have sent a certified letter to Louis Freeh of the FBI, but of course, the FBI has NEVER even signed for the document, nor called me, even though I indicated I would give them my FULL cooperation. Sad isn't it?

In any case, several months ago, I was coughing continuously for a long time (many weeks), and had fever and the “symptoms” of something deadly. I did try using certain antibiotics for a time, including Doxycycline, but I did not really get better until I took the complete GWS starter kit myself. This is not meant to infer that I did have a deadly disease, but whatever it was, I considered it serious. And it only went away after taking the New Gaia products in full. I am still on them.

But, there are other testimonies more significant. As example, included [following] is a letter from Karen Tallhamer who was VERY sick for quite some time. She had sent me her medical background and the different medications she was given by the VA. As per her letter, she had been on FORTY THREE medications just since 1994 alone, and they were for GWS which she has been diagnosed as having. She reports that not only has she been able to back-off most of her prescribed drugs from the VA, but she has a new ENERGY, that she has used to write letters to the President, and finally go through all the red tape necessary to get her back pay, as the military was apparently some 11 months in arrears. She and her sick husband are now living in a trailer and just recently the cable TV company turned off their only source of entertainment and the phone company also threatened to cut off communications with the outside world. These people cannot go out like the rest of us, and TV is all they have in a trailer. The Power company and Water company also threatened to cut off their services, and I had to call the military to try to intervene to speed up things. Karen herself is responsible for getting these unsympathetic companies to hold off disconnecting all service.

We both feel her renewed condition is a direct result of the New Gaia products, which she continues to take. The Tallhamers need financial help as do several other (and thousands more I don't know) veterans. She is not “cured”, if that is any word people understand, but she is on her way to being much healthier, to having some form of life, and the energy and a clear mind to know what to do to try to get information from the VA and Military. If anyone you know wishes to speak with Karen for send her some financial help, or get her opinion of GWS or the New Gaia products, please have them contact me for her address and phone number. There are several things people can do to build up their immune system and try to combat warfare agents and other “natural” killers.

New Gaia products is the BEST I have been privileged to know about at this time, as I continually welcome information from all sources.

I look forward to reporting more to you in the near future. Right now I am preparing for my speaking engagement at the upcoming Global Science Congress in Tampa this month, January 18-22. Until then, on behalf of the Tallhamers, other veterans and myself, thank you all for what you have done in providing these products to those afflicted with GWS.

Dear Peter,

I want to thank you for the shipment of the New Gaia products on the 24th of September. I was a bit skeptical but I wanted to believe it would work.

I was taking 14 different medications when I started and they seemed like they weren't working. I have been on over 43 medications since October of '94, all of which either work only initially or not at all. These are all for the treatment of “Gulf War Syndrome”....

I do believe that the New Gaia products have helped. I feel like I have more energy every day, whereas before it was like being on a roller-coaster emotionally. This was hard on me and my family. It seemed like one minute I would be ready to bite someone's head off (either my husband's or son's) and the next minute I was crying, apologizing for it.

The personnel at New Gaia were very helpful. They called and were genuinely sympathetic to my condition. Again I want to thank you for the products and the emotional support you have given me. It helps, knowing that I have so many behind me, standing up for our cause. It gives me the strength to go on knowing I'm not alone.

Sincerely,

/s/ Karen J. Tallhamer
